

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07464-3 - A History of Modern Culture: Volume 1

Preserved Smith

Table of Contents

More information

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGE
CHAPTER I. INTRODUCTORY	3
1. Purpose of the present work. Definition of culture. The group and period selected for treatment	3
2. The political background of the period 1543-1687	7
PART I. THE SCIENCES
CHAPTER II. ASTRONOMY	17
1. The Copernican System. Establishment of the heliocentric theory by Copernicus. The work of Tycho Brahe	17
2. Kepler's Laws	26
3. Galileo's Discoveries. The Telescope	32
4. The opposition to the Copernican Astronomy. The trial and recantation of Galileo. Final triumph of the heliocentric theory. Importance of this revolution in the history of thought	38
CHAPTER III. PHYSICS	59
1. The birth of a new Science	59
2. Magnetism. Gilbert	62
3. Optics. Discoveries of Kepler, Descartes, and Huygens	65
4. Mechanics, Statics, Hydrostatics. Stevin, Galileo, Huygens	67
5. The Barometer and the Thermometer. Torricelli's barometer. Pascal's vacuum. Guericke's air-pump. Boyle's experiments	78
6. Chemistry. Van Helmont's "gas". Boyle's chemistry	85
CHAPTER IV. MATHEMATICS	89
1. The Character of Modern Mathematics	89
2. Reckoning, Decimals, Logarithms. Stevin's decimals. Napier's logarithms	91
3. Algebra. Cardan. Vieta	97
4. Calculus of Probabilities. Mathematical method. Theory of numbers. Pascal, Fermat	102
5. Trigonometry; Cyclometry; Conics. The cycloid. Torricelli, Desargues, Pascal	106
6. Analytical Geometry. Descartes	110

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGE
CHAPTER V. GEOGRAPHY, BIOLOGY, ANATOMY	112
1. Geography. Exploration and cartography. Tales of travellers. The savage and the new world in the imagination of Europe	112
2. Zoology and Botany. Gesner. Leeuwenhoek. Swammerdam	122
3. Anatomy and Medicine. Vesalius. Harvey's discovery of the circulation of the blood. Paré. The doctor in comedy	130
CHAPTER VI. THE SCIENTIFIC REVOLUTION	144
1. The place of science in seventeenth-century thought. Causes of the scientific renaissance. Growing prestige of science. Popu- lar interest in science	144
2. The development of scientific method. Galileo. Kepler. Bacon	153
3. The scientific academies. Italian and German academies. The Royal Society. Académie des Sciences	164
4. Scientific journals and museums	172
PART II. THE HUMANITIES
CHAPTER VII. PHILOSOPHY	179
1. Philosophy of the Renaissance and of the Reformation. Influ- ence of science on philosophy. Bruno	179
2. Descartes. His method of doubt. "Je pense, donc je suis". His ideas of God and of the world. His psychology. His influence	186
3. Hobbes, the Cartesians, and Spinoza. Hobbes' scientific method, his atheism, opposition to him. Malebranche. Spinoza's ethical interest, his scientific method	201
CHAPTER VIII. POLITICAL THEORY	212
1. The origins of International Law. Conditions making for it. Grotius. Selden	212
2. Political theories of the English Commonwealth. Rise of the bourgeoisie to power. Theory of supremacy of Parliament. Milton. Harrington. The Levellers. The divine right of kings. James I. Hobbes	221
3. Political theory of Continental writers. Liberty in the Nether- lands: Spinoza. Germany. Spain: Mariana. Suarez. France: Bossuet. Italy	236
4. Economic thought and the science of statistics. Mercantilism. Statistics: Graunt. Petty	246
CHAPTER IX. HISTORIOGRAPHY	252
1. The conception of history prevalent in the sixteenth and seven- teenth centuries. Periodization. Pascal	252

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07464-3 - A History of Modern Culture: Volume 1

Preserved Smith

Table of Contents

More information

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ix

	PAGE
2. Church History. The Magdeburg Centuries . Baronius. Sleidan. Sarpì. Bossuet	258
3. Political History. Mariana. De Thou. Raleigh. Camden. Clarendon	270
CHAPTER X. BIBLICAL AND CLASSICAL SCHOLARSHIP . . .	279
1. Biblical Criticism. Publication of the texts. Hobbes. Spinoza. Simon. The age of the world. Modern versions of the Bible. Bibliolatry	279
2. Classical Scholarship. Idolatry of the classics. Scaliger. Casaubon. The use of Latin, and its relation to the vernaculars	299

PART III. SOCIAL CONTROL

CHAPTER XI. EDUCATION	315
1. Schools. Function of education. Schools for gentlemen's sons. Schools for the middle class. Expansion of education. Demands for free, compulsory education. Jesuits	315
2. Universities. Bologna. Spanish universities. The Sorbonne. Leyden. German universities. Oxford and Cambridge. Harvard. Student life	326
3. Pedagogical Theory. Criticism of universities. Bacon. Milton. Comenius. Education of women	346
4. Libraries. Vatican. Bodleian	351
CHAPTER XII. RELIGION: THE CHRISTIAN CHURCHES . . .	356
1. Catholic and Protestant. The Reformation. Confessional war. Gallican Liberties. Mystics	356
2. Jesuit and Jansenist. Greatness and corruption of the Jesuits. The Imago Primi Saeculi . Casuistry. Jansen. Port Royal. Pascal's Provincial Letters	361
3. Arminian and Puritan. Ethics of the Calvinists. Predestination. Arminius. The Synod of Dort. English Puritans. Milton. Bunyan. American Puritans	375
4. Quaker, Socinian, and Lutheran. The sects. Fox. Pietism. Mysticism	391
CHAPTER XIII. FREE-THOUGHT	398
1. Nature and amount of free-thought. Its growth in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries	398
2. Causes of the growth of rationalism. The warfare of the sects. The new knowledge of heathen religions. The rise of the scientific spirit	401

TABLE OF CONTENTS

	PAGE
3. Deism. Growth of the idea of natural religion. Bodin, Campanella, Lord Herbert of Cherbury	408
4. The warfare of reason and religion. Montaigne, Charron, Pascal	414
CHAPTER XIV. SUPERSTITION	425
1. Mythology. Fairies. Alchemy. Astrology. The Royal Touch. Special Providences. Demonology	425
2. The Witch Hunt. Its rise, cruelty, sadism, mania, and ravages	434
3. Protest and Skepticism. Growth of the scientific spirit. Weyer. Spee. Spinoza. Scot. Glanvill	450
CHAPTER XV. PERSECUTION AND TOLERANCE	459
1. The Practice of Persecution. Reasons for persecution. The Inquisition, Roman and Spanish. French persecution of the Huguenots. Persecution and religious war in Germany. The Netherlands. England. America	459
2. The Theory of Tolerance. Growth of tolerance due to deadlock of religious war and to rise of indifference. The sects. Montaigne, Spinoza. Milton. Taylor. Penn. Roger Williams	481
CHAPTER XVI. LAWS	493
1. The Spirit of the Laws. Religious bias. Roman Law. English Common Law. Torture. Humanity of Massachusetts laws	493
2. The Blue Laws. Common in Catholic and Lutheran as well as in Puritan lands. Blasphemy. Sabbath-breaking. Drama. Games. Dancing	498
3. Sumptuary Laws. Regulation of Dress. Mendicancy. Usury .	508
4. Censorship of the Press. The Index of Prohibited Books . Censorship in France, the Netherlands, Germany, England. Milton's Areopagitica . America	511
PART IV. THE SPIRIT OF THE TIMES
CHAPTER XVII. MORALS AND MANNERS	525
1. Morals. Causes of change in moral customs. Murder. Position of woman. Sexual offences. Drunkenness	525
2. Manners. Class divisions. Courts. Bourgeoisie. Growing refinement. Influence of coffee, tea, and chocolate	535
3. Ethics. Cause of changing ethical theory. Protestant ethics. Rationalist ethics. Bruno. Hobbes. English moralists. Gas-sendi. La Rochefoucauld	542

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07464-3 - A History of Modern Culture: Volume 1

Preserved Smith

Table of Contents

More information

TABLE OF CONTENTS

xi

	PAGE
CHAPTER XVIII. LITERATURE	549
1. The old Romances. Transition from medieval to modern spirit. Tasso. Spenser. Cervantes	550
2. The new Drama. Shakespeare. Cervantes. Lope de Vega. Tirso de Molina	558
CHAPTER XIX. ART	570
1. Italian Art. The baroque. Counter-Reformation, Despotism. Architecture. Painting	575
2. Spanish Art. Herrera. El Greco. Murillo. Velasquez	582
3. Baroque Art in Flanders. Rubens. Jordaens. Van Dyck	590
4. The Birth of the Modern School in Holland. Hals. Steen. Terborch. Ruisdael. Rembrandt	600
5. French Classicism. Claude Lorraine. Poussin. Versailles	604
EPILOGUE. THE CHARACTER OF THE AGE	604
Conflicts in the Age of the Great Renewal. Its achievements. Its style	604
BIBLIOGRAPHY	609
INDEX	654