

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07994-5 - The Civilisation of the Period of the Renaissance in Italy: Volume 1

Jacob Burckhardt

Table of Contents

More information

CONTENTS

OF

THE FIRST VOLUME.

PART I.

THE STATE AS A WORK OF ART.

CHAPTER I.

INTRODUCTION.

	PAGE
Political condition of Italy in the thirteenth century . . . . .	4
The Norman State under Frederick II. . . . .	5
Ezzelino da Romano . . . . .	8

CHAPTER II.

THE TYRANNY OF THE FOURTEENTH CENTURY.

Finance and its relation to culture . . . . .	10
The ideal of the absolute ruler . . . . .	12
Inward and outward dangers . . . . .	13
Florentine estimate of the tyrants . . . . .	15
The Visconti . . . . .	17

CHAPTER III.

THE TYRANNY OF THE FIFTEENTH CENTURY.

Intervention and visits of the emperors . . . . .	23
Want of a fixed law of succession. Illegitimacy . . . . .	28
Founding of States by Condottieri . . . . .	29

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07994-5 - The Civilisation of the Period of the Renaissance in Italy: Volume 1

Jacob Burckhardt

Table of Contents

More information

viii

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
Relations of Condottieri to their employers . . . . .	31
The family of Sforza . . . . .	32
Giacomo Piccinino . . . . .	35
Later attempts of the Condottieri . . . . .	36

CHAPTER IV.

THE PETTY TYRANNIES.

The Baglioni of Perugia . . . . .	39
Massacre in the year 1500 . . . . .	42
Malatesta, Pico, and Petrucci . . . . .	45

CHAPTER V.

THE GREATER DYNASTIES.

The Aragonese at Naples . . . . .	48
The last Visconti at Milan . . . . .	52
Francesco Sforza and his luck . . . . .	54
Galeazzo Maria and Ludovico Moro . . . . .	56
The Gonzaga at Mantua . . . . .	60
Federigo da Montefeltro, Duke of Urbino . . . . .	62
The Este at Ferrara . . . . .	65

CHAPTER VI.

THE OPPONENTS OF TYRANNY.

The later Guelphs and Ghibellines . . . . .	76
The conspirators . . . . .	78
Murders in church . . . . .	79
Influence of ancient tyrannicide . . . . .	80
Cataline as an ideal . . . . .	81
Florentine view of tyrannicide . . . . .	82
The people and tyrannicide . . . . .	83

CHAPTER VII.

THE REPUBLICS: VENICE AND FLORENCE.

Venice in the fifteenth century . . . . .	86
The inhabitants . . . . .	89
Dangers from the poor nobility . . . . .	90

CONTENTS.

ix

	PAGE
Causes of the stability of Venice . . . . .	91
The Council of Ten and political trials . . . . .	93
Relations with the Condottieri . . . . .	94
Optimism of Venetian foreign policy . . . . .	96
Venice as the home of statistics . . . . .	96
Retardation of the Renaissance . . . . .	100
Mediæval devotion to reliques . . . . .	102
Florence from the fourteenth century . . . . .	103
Objectivity of political intelligence . . . . .	104
Dante as a politician . . . . .	105
Florence as the home of statistics : the two Villanis . . . . .	106
Higher form of statistics . . . . .	109
Florentine constitutions and the historians . . . . .	113
Fundamental vice of the State . . . . .	115
Political theorists . . . . .	117
Macchiavelli and his views . . . . .	117
Siena and Genoa . . . . .	120

CHAPTER VIII.

FOREIGN POLICY OF THE ITALIAN STATES.

Envy felt towards Venice . . . . .	124
Relations to other countries : sympathy with France . . . . .	125
Plan for a balance of power . . . . .	126
Foreign intervention and conquests . . . . .	128
Alliances with the Turks . . . . .	129
Counter-influence of Spain . . . . .	132
Objective treatment of politics . . . . .	132
Art of diplomacy . . . . .	134

CHAPTER IX.

WAR AS A WORK OF ART.

Firearms . . . . .	137
Professional warriors and dilettanti . . . . .	138
Horrors of war . . . . .	140

CHAPTER X.

THE PAPACY AND ITS DANGERS.

Relation of the Papacy to Italy and foreign countries . . . . .	141
Disturbances in Rome from the time of Nicholas V. . . . .	145

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-07994-5 - The Civilisation of the Period of the Renaissance in Italy: Volume 1

Jacob Burckhardt

Table of Contents

More information

x

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
Sixtus IV. master of Rome . . . . .	146
States of the Nipoti in Romagna . . . . .	147
Cardinals belonging to princely houses . . . . .	149
Innocent VIII. and his son . . . . .	150
Alexander VI. as a Spaniard . . . . .	152
Relations with foreign countries . . . . .	153
Simony . . . . .	155
Cæsar Borgia and his relations to his father . . . . .	155
Cæsar's plans and acts . . . . .	156
Julius II. as Saviour of the Papacy . . . . .	163
Leo X. His relations with other States . . . . .	167
Adrian VI. . . . .	169
Clement VII. and the sack of Rome . . . . .	169
Reaction consequent on the latter . . . . .	172
The Papacy of the Counter-Reformation . . . . .	174
Conclusion. The Italian patriots . . . . .	175

PART II.

THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE INDIVIDUAL.

CHAPTER I.

THE ITALIAN STATE AND THE INDIVIDUAL.

The mediæval man . . . . .	181
The awakening of personality . . . . .	182
The despot and his subjects . . . . .	183
Individualism in the Republics . . . . .	185
Exile and cosmopolitanism . . . . .	186

CHAPTER II.

THE PERFECTING OF THE INDIVIDUAL.

The many-sided men . . . . .	190
The universal men . . . . .	192

CONTENTS.

xi

CHAPTER III.

THE MODERN IDEA OF FAME.

	PAGE
Dante's feeling about fame . . . . .	197
The celebrity of the Humanists : Petrarch . . . . .	198
Cultus of birthplaces and graves . . . . .	200
Cultus of the famous men of antiquity . . . . .	202
Literature of local fame : Padua . . . . .	205
Literature of universal fame . . . . .	206
Fame given or refused by the writers . . . . .	211
Morbid passion for fame . . . . .	213

CHAPTER IV.

MODERN WIT AND SATIRE.

Its connection with individualism . . . . .	216
Florentine wit : the novel . . . . .	217
Jesters and buffoons . . . . .	218
Leo X. and his witticisms . . . . .	220
Poetical parodies . . . . .	222
Theory of wit . . . . .	223
Railing and reviling . . . . .	225
Adrian VI. as scapegoat . . . . .	227
Pietro Aretino . . . . .	229

PART III.

THE REVIVAL OF ANTIQUITY.

CHAPTER I.

INTRODUCTORY REMARKS

Widened application of the word ' Renaissance ' . . . . .	239
Antiquity in the Middle Ages . . . . .	241
Latin poetry of the twelfth century in Italy . . . . .	242
The spirit of the fourteenth century . . . . .	245

CONTENTS.

CHAPTER II.

ROME, THE CITY OF RUINS.

	PAGE
Dante, Petrarch, Uberti . . . . .	247
Rome at the time of Poggio . . . . .	250
Nicholas V., and Pius II. as an antiquarian . . . . .	251
Antiquity outside Rome . . . . .	253
Affiliation of families and cities on Rome . . . . .	254
The Roman corpse . . . . .	255
Excavations and architectural plans . . . . .	257
Rome under Leo X. . . . .	258
Sentimental effect of ruins . . . . .	259

CHAPTER III.

THE OLD AUTHORS.

Their diffusion in the fourteenth century . . . . .	261
Discoveries in the fifteenth century . . . . .	262
The libraries . . . . .	265
Copyists and 'Scrittori' . . . . .	268
Printing . . . . .	270
Greek scholarship . . . . .	272
Oriental scholarship . . . . .	275
Pico's view of antiquity . . . . .	281

CHAPTER IV.

HUMANISM IN THE FOURTEENTH CENTURY.

Its inevitable victory . . . . .	284
Dante, Petrarch, and Boccaccio . . . . .	285
Coronation of the poets . . . . .	289

CHAPTER V.

THE UNIVERSITIES AND SCHOOLS.

Position of the Humanists at the Universities . . . . .	294
Latin schools . . . . .	297
Freer education : Vittorino da Feltre . . . . .	298
Guarino of Verona . . . . .	300
The education of princes . . . . .	302

CONTENTS.

xiii

CHAPTER VI.

THE FURTHERERS OF HUMANISM.

	PAGE
Florentine citizens : Niccoli and Manetti . . . . .	303
The earlier Medici . . . . .	307
Humanism at the Courts . . . . .	311
The Popes from Nicholas V. onwards . . . . .	312
Alfonso of Naples . . . . .	315
Frederick of Urbino . . . . .	317
The Houses of Sforza and Este . . . . .	318
Sigismondo Malatesta . . . . .	320

CHAPTER VII.

THE REPRODUCTION OF ANTIQUITY. LATIN CORRESPONDENCE AND ORATIONS.

The Papal Chancery . . . . .	323
Letter-writing . . . . .	325
The orators . . . . .	327
Political, diplomatic, and funeral orations . . . . .	329
Academic and military speeches . . . . .	332
Latin sermons . . . . .	333
Form and matter of the speeches . . . . .	335
Passion for quotation . . . . .	336
Imaginary speeches . . . . .	338
Decline of eloquence . . . . .	339

CHAPTER VIII.

LATIN TREATISES AND HISTORY.

Value of Latin . . . . .	341
Researches on the Middle Ages : Blondus . . . . .	345
Histories in Italian ; their antique spirit . . . . .	349

CHAPTER IX.

GENERAL LATINISATION OF CULTURE.

Ancient names . . . . .	351
Latinised social relations . . . . .	353
Claims of Latin to supremacy . . . . .	354
Cicero and the Ciceronians . . . . .	356
Latin conversation . . . . .	358

CHAPTER X.

MODERN LATIN POETRY.

	PAGE
Epic poems on ancient history : The 'Africa' . . . . .	362
Mythic poetry . . . . .	363
Christian epics : Sannazaro . . . . .	365
Poetry on contemporary subjects . . . . .	367
Introduction of mythology . . . . .	369
Didactic poetry : Palingenius . . . . .	371
Lyric poetry and its limits . . . . .	372
Odes on the saints . . . . .	373
Elegies and the like . . . . .	374
The epigram . . . . .	376

CHAPTER XI.

FALL OF THE HUMANISTS IN THE SIXTEENTH CENTURY.

The accusations and the amount of truth they contained . . . . .	383
Misery of the scholars . . . . .	389
Type of the happy scholar . . . . .	391
Pomponius Lætus . . . . .	393
The Academies . . . . .	395