

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

I N D E X.

				Page
A
A SH, described	—	—	—	Vol. I. 32
Animals, figures of, in stone and wood; remarks upon them	—	—	—	I. 35
Alder described	—	—	—	I. 64
Acacia described	—	—	—	I. 68
Allegory on the fall of the leaf	—	—	—	I. 103
Address of the oak to the saplin on his removal from the forest	—	—	—	I. 117
Arbor-de-rays, or Banian-tree	—	—	—	I. 154
Aquaduct, how it may be introduced	—	—	—	I. 217
Autumn, the most replete with incidental beauty of any season	—	—	—	I. 257
Angel-inn at Lymington; a good view from the stable-yard there	—	—	—	II. 85
Atmosphere, it's various effects on landscape described	—	—	—	II. 241
Afs; a forest-animal	—	—	—	II. 268
B
Balance of trees	—	—	—	I. 5
Blasted tree, often beautiful	—	—	—	I. 14
	b			Brionies,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(ii)

	Page
Brionies, beautiful — — — —	I. 17
Beech described — — — —	I. 43
Birch described — — — —	I. 66
Bloom of different trees — — — —	I. 110
Britannia, dimensions of her bowsprit — —	I. 128
Boabab, an uncommon tree found in Senegal —	I. 152
Brown, Mr. ; his resources in landscape —	I. 183
Bramble, an unaccommodating plant — —	I. 220
Britain, despoiled of wood — — — —	I. 293
Beafon-castle — — — —	I. 313
Bull-running, a diversion in Needwood-forest	I. 316
Beanmanour-park in Charnwood-forest —	I. 316
Bosworth-field, on the borders of Leicester-forest	I. 317
Berkly-castle, on the confines of Micklewood-forest	I. 320
Bradon-forest, a scene of great slaughter, when in- vaded by the Danes 905 — —	I. 321
Boldre, vicar of; his assignment of forest-timber	II. 20
Bedford, duke of; his fruitless attempt to remove a hamlet of trespassers in New-forest —	II. 45
Bogs, frequent in New-forest — —	II. 56
Brokenhurst, a pleasant village; view from the church-yard — — — —	II. 62
Bute, lord; views from his house — —	II. 83
Buckland-ring, a Roman camp — —	II. 98
Bottom, it's meaning in forest-language —	II. 106
Burley-hill; view from it — — — —	II. 108
Burley-lodge — — — —	II. 109
Boldre-wood lodge — — — —	II. 110
Beech, remarks on it's mode of growth —	II. 111
Blackamsley-hill; view from it — —	II. 124
Boldre-church; view from it — —	II. 129
Buckler's-hard — — — —	II. 138
Beaulieu-abbey — — — —	II. 139
	Beau-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(iii)

	Page
Beaulieu-river ; entrance of it described —	II. 159
————— character of it — — —	II. 165
Birds, which frequent Beaulieu-river —	II. 171
Beaulieu-bridge ; view from it to the right —	II. 177
Butt's-ash-farm — — — —	II. 206
Beaulieu-heath, western side of it — —	II. 212
Bramble-hill, a view from it — — —	II. 231
Bere-forest ; care taken there in breeding horses	II. 252
Black-cock ; a forest-bird — — —	II. 285
Birds, singing ; frequent in the forest —	II. 288

C

Curtailed trunk — — — —	I. 8
Chequered shade — — — —	I. 21
Chestnut described — — — —	I. 58
Cedar of Lebanon described — — — —	I. 73
Cluster-pine described — — — —	I. 82
Colour in general, remarks on it — —	I. 86
————— farther remarks on the same sub- ject — — — —	I. 96
Crown, a French-ship, dimensions of her keel	I. 127
Chestnut, a celebrated one on Mount Etna —	I. 130
Cleves, account of a remarkable lime-tree there	I. 133
Chaucer's oaks, account of them — —	I. 134
Cadenham-oak — — — —	I. 165
Clump ; properties required in a small one —	I. 172
————— properties required in a large one —	I. 177
Copse described — — — —	I. 191
Claude, subjects of his pictures — —	I. 215
Cottage, how far the introduction of it may be al- lowed in landscape — — —	I. 216
Cæsar, his account of the early Britons in their forests — — — —	I. 275
b 2	Cougar

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(iv)

	Page
Cougar — — — —	I. 280
Caractacus taken by the Romans in Clune-forest	I. 315
Corff-castle in the forest of Purbeck —	I. 327
Compton, Mr. ; his park — —	II. 82
Christ-church — — —	II. 82
Churches, forest ; their common situation —	II. 129
Choulsey ; a large abbey-barn there —	II. 137
Culverly-heath ; view over it — —	II. 147
Creek, one near Leap — — —	II. 196
Calshot-castle — — —	II. 201
Cadland, Mr. Drumond's — —	II. 202
Cuffnals, Mr. Rose's — — —	II. 219
Chasm, a gaping one in the vista beyond Lyndhurst	II. 221
Cleavland, Mr. ; his views over Lymington-river	II. 238
Colts, in New-forest ; how caught —	II. 251
Cattle, horned ; abound in the forest —	II. 271
Cawing of rooks, a pleasing sound —	II. 295
Cormorant described — — —	II. 301

D

Diseases of trees often beautiful — —	I. 7
Damory's oak, a celebrated tree near Blandford, in Dorsetshire — — —	I. 142
Deception ; of little estimation in painting —	I. 265
Dog, the first associate of man in a state of nature	I. 273
Destruction of forests — — —	I. 285
Deer-stealer, the history of a noted one —	II. 43
Dialect of New-forest — — —	II. 48
Division, under which New-forest is considered in this work — — —	II. 51
Divisions of property offensive to the picturesque eye	II. 79
Dells, several in the road between Christchurch and Lymington — — —	II. 85
	D'Oyly-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

		Page
(v)
D'Oyly-park	— —	II. 133
Denny-wood	— —	II. 148
Dauphin, supposed to imbarck near Exbury	—	II. 189
Distances, and foregrounds, should be balanced in a view	— —	II. 199
Dibden, views about it	— —	II. 207
Deer-leap	— —	II. 211
Docking-horses, the absurdity of the practice		II. 255
Deer, fallow; more encouraged in the forest, than the stag	— —	II. 278
E
Elm, description of it	— —	I. 39
Effects of light, not enough studied by landscape painters	— —	I. 249
Elephant	— —	I. 278
English-forest, character of it	— —	I. 303
Edwin, k. of Northumberland, slain in Hatfield-chace	— —	I. 313
Edelfleda, a town built by her in Delamere-forest		I. 313
Enfield-forest divided into farms by Cromwell		I. 324
Even-water-bottom	— —	II. 106
Exbury, a description of the scenery about it		II. 183
Ear, horse's; the absurdity of cropping it		II. 265
Eagle, often found in the forest	—	II. 293
F
Form of trees	— —	I. 3
Firs in different parts of the world, suppositions about them	— —	I. 91
Fairlop, a celebrated oak in Hainhault-forest in Effex	— —	I. 141
b 3		Fig-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(vi)

	Page
Fig-tree in the Deanery-garden at Winchester	I. 148
Fig-trees at Lambeth ——— ———	I. 148
Forest, a general idea of it's scenery ———	I. 209
Fore-ground, in a forest ——— ———	I. 211
Fern, it's use in scenery ——— ———	I. 219
Forest-distance considered ——— ———	I. 225
Forest-lawn ——— ——— ———	I. 225
Forest-heath ——— ——— ———	I. 226
Felling trees accidentally has often a good effect	I. 266
Fitz-Stephen's account of the woods near London in the time of Henry II. ———	I. 293
Forests of Derry-more, and Derry-monach	I. 304
——— of Coygach, and Loch Mais ———	I. 304
——— of Abernethy, and Rothimurcha ———	I. 305
——— of Loch-loyn, and Glenmoriston	I. 305
——— of Strath-glaſs, and Loch-garrie ———	I. 305
——— of Loch-artrig, and Kinloch-leven ———	I. 305
——— of Glenmore, and Glentaner ———	I. 305
——— of Braemar, and Invercald ———	I. 305
——— of Loch-rathoc, and Loch-tulla ———	I. 307
——— of Torwood, Tiviot, and Cheviot	I. 307
——— of Rothbury, and Lowes ———	I. 308
——— of Nicol, and Knaresdale ———	I. 308
——— of Westwood, Inglewood, and Copeland	I. 308
——— of Milburn, Whinfield, and Martindale	I. 309
——— of Thornthwait, Stainmer, and Mellerftang	I. 309
——— of Langden, or Teefdale ———	I. 310
——— of Lancaster, Bowland, and Simonfwood	I. 310
——— of Lime, and Applegarth ———	I. 311
——— of Swale-dale, and Wenfely-dale ———	I. 311
——— of Pickering, and Knarefborough ———	I. 312
——— of Harewood, and Galtries ———	I. 312
——— of Hallifax, and Hatfield ———	I. 312
——— of Delamere, and Macclesfield ———	I. 313
Forefts

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(vii)

	Page
Forests of Wireall, and Sherwood	I. 313
—— of Huckstow, and Kingwood	I. 314
—— of Bridgenorth, and Clune	I. 315
—— of Needwood, and Cankwood	I. 316
—— of Charnwood, and Leiceſter	I. 316
—— of Lyfield, Bringwood, and Deerfield	I. 317
—— of Hawood, and Acornbury	I. 317
—— of Wire, Malvern, and Fackingham	I. 317
—— of Arden, Rockingham, and Sacy	I. 318
—— of Yardly, Whittlebury, and Wabridge	I. 318
—— of Dean, Micklewood, and King's wood	I. 320
—— of Which-wood, Bernwood, and Clitern	I. 320
—— of Epping, and Hainhault	I. 321
—— of Peeviſham, and Blakemore	I. 321
—— of Bradon, and Savernack	I. 321
—— of Windſor, and Enfield	I. 322
—— of Tunbridge	I. 324
—— of St. Leonard's, Word, and Aſhdown	I. 325
—— of Waterdown and Dallington	I. 325
—— of Arundel, and Charlton	I. 325
—— of Dartmore, and Exmore	I. 325
—— of Neroke, and Selwood	I. 326
—— of Gillingham, and Cranburn	I. 327
—— of Blackmore, and Purbeck	I. 327
—— of Chute, and Harewood	I. 327
—— of Holt, and Waltham	I. 328
—— of Bere and New-foreſt	I. 328
Foreſt-law, it's grievances	II. 9
Fire, often miſchievous in the foreſt	II. 34
Foreſter, and mountaneer compared, to the diſad- vantage of the former	II. 41
Foxlees	II. 74
Foſſil ſhells; a variety of them found at Hordwell- cliff, near Lymington	II. 87
	Flat

b 4

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(viii)

	Page
Flat surfaces, remarks on them	II. 121
Fishing, and fowling	II. 190
Fowler, story of one	II. 193
Fawley	II. 202
Farm-yard, ill stationed near a great house	II. 204
Fritham, heathy-grounds about it	II. 236
Farmer; story of one, who shot his own horse	II. 282
Fly, horse; a troublesome insect in the forest	II. 297

G

Groaning-tree of Badesley	I. 162
Gates as the entrances into parks; remarks upon them	I. 186
Glen described	I. 197
Grove, the open one described	I. 201
Greenland, and other northern countries; accounts of great quantities of drift-timber thrown on them	I. 288
Gibraltar; drift-timber thrown up there	I. 289
Germany deplored of wood	I. 290
Ghent, John of; destroyed the forest of Caledonia	I. 298
Gillingham-forest; Danes defeated on the confines of it by Edmund Ironside	I. 326
Game-law arose in the room of forest-law	II. 14
Gradation, remarks on this principle	II. 125
George III. his visit to New-forest	II. 218

H

Hop, the growth of, beautiful	I. 18
Horn-beam	I. 48
Horse-chestnut	I. 61
Hemlock-spruce	I. 91
Holly

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(ix)

			Page
Holly	—	—	I. 98 and 218
Haw-thorn	—	—	I. 99 and 219
Holm-trees, four of great antiquity, at Tybur, and Rome	—	—	I. 125
Hitchin-priory in Hertfordshire; account of an im- mense chefnut there	—	—	I. 140
Hern's oak, near Windfor	—	—	I. 145
Hazines, it's effect in forest-scenery	—	—	I. 234
Hunting in Braemar-forest	—	—	I. 306
Hallifax-law	—	—	I. 312
Hastings, Henry; account of him	—	—	II. 22
Hordwell-cliff; a description of it	—	—	II. 86
Hurst-castle; it's situation, and the views it com- mands	—	—	II. 89
Hogarth, an instance of his humour	—	—	II. 91
Hinchelsea-wood	—	—	II. 104
Hogs; method of feeding them in the forest	—	—	II. 113
Hampshire, coast of, described	—	—	II. 158
Hill-top-gate, views from thence	—	—	II. 178
House, situation for one, difficult to choofe	—	—	II. 205
Hethe, views from it	—	—	II. 206
Hound's-down described	—	—	II. 208
Horfe, New-forest; description of him	—	—	II. 250
Hart	—	—	II. 273
Hind, her spirit in defending her calf	—	—	II. 278
Hares abound in the forest	—	—	II. 283
Harmony, local; remarks upon it	—	—	II. 289
Honey-bee; frequent in the forest	—	—	II. 296
Honey, forest; not in esteem	—	—	II. 296
Hern described	—	—	II. 300
I
Ivy, often beautiful	—	—	I. 15
Ilex, or ever-green oak	—	—	I. 97
			Johnfon,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(x)

	Page
Johnson, Dr. ; a passage quoted from him —	I. 222
Incidental beauties of distant forest-scenery	I. 233
Italy despoiled of wood — —	I. 290
Iceland also — — — —	I. 290
Iron's-hill-lodge — — — —	II. 212
Jay — — — —	II. 291

K

Kircher's account of a chestnut on mount Etna	I. 131
Kenelworth-castle in the forest of Arden —	I. 318
Keepers, and groom-keepers of New-forest	II. 18
Kitchens, those of abbeys commonly very substantial	II. 144
King, capt. ; his description of a river-scene	II. 167
King's-house at Lyndhurst — — — —	II. 216
Kite — — — —	II. 291
King's-wood, frequented by eagles —	II. 293

L

Lightness, a characteristic of beauty in a tree	I. 5
Lombardy-poplar, described — — — —	I. 52
Lime-tree described — — — —	I. 55
Larch described — — — —	I. 70
Luccam-oak described — — — —	I. 97
Lycian-plane — — — —	I. 123
Longleat, situation of — — — —	I. 182
Lion — — — —	I. 277
Lymington, town of, described — — — —	II. 94
Longflade-bottom, a vast bog — — — —	II. 104
Leonard's, St. ; a large barn — — — —	II. 136
Lady-cross-lodge — — — —	II. 150
Lymington, harbour of, described — — — —	II. 157
Leap, views about it — — — —	II. 188

Lutterel's

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xi)

	Page
Lutterel's tower	II. 196
Lyndhurst	II. 216
Landscape, woodland ; most subject to injury	II. 304

M

Moss, often beautiful in trees	I. 10
Motion, beautiful in trees	I. 20
Mountain-ash described	I. 37
Maple described	I. 56
Menalaid-plane	I. 123
Maudrel, his account of the cedars of Lebanon	I. 128
Magdalen college in Oxford, an account of a celebrated oak there	I. 135
Mist, it's effect on forest-scenery	I. 235
Meridian-sun, it's effects on forest-scenery	I. 242
Man, in his early state, a forest-animal	I. 271
Monkey	I. 279
Moose-deer	I. 280
Marsden, Mr. ; his account of the woods of Sumatra	I. 287
Mansfield, millar of	I. 314
Morant, Mr. ; view from his park	II. 63
Monmouth, duke of ; where taken, after the battle of Sedgmore	II. 81
Marl-pit-oak, a landmark	II. 102
Mark-way-bottom	II. 108
Mudlands, how dangerous	II. 171
Maniac, story of one	II. 188
Mud-pattens	II. 193
Mount-royal, Mr. Ballard's	II. 220
Malwood castle ; a view from it	II. 231
Miniature, landscapes in ; remarks upon them	II. 232
Mule, a forest animal	II. 269

Newfoundland

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xii)

Page

N

Newfoundland (or black) spruce	—————	I.	91
Newftadt, account of a remarkable lime-tree there		I.	131
North-wind, it's effect on forest-scenery		I.	236
New-forest, first made	—————	II.	2
————— reasons given for making it		II.	2
————— question examined, how far William I depopulated the country	—————	II.	4
————— it's ancient boundaries	—————	II.	8
Nature's superiority to art in forming combinations of trees	—————	II.	65
New-park in New-forest	—————	II.	70
Needles; account of them	—————	II.	91
No-man's-walk	—————	II.	119
Norley-wood; description of it	—————	II.	151
Needfore-point	—————	II.	160
Nag-tail, it's absurdity	—————	II.	256
Nature; ideas of improving her works, absurd		II.	272
Nightingale, frequent in the forest	—————	II.	288

O

Oak described	—————	I.	23
Occidental-plane described	—————	I.	48
Oriental-plane described	—————	I.	50
Oak, against which the arrow of fir Walter Tyrrel glanced	—————	I.	160
Officers of New-forest	—————	II.	17
Oak-woods converted into beech-woods		II.	33
Oak of New-forest, it's picturesque character		II.	73
Oak-brow	—————	II.	105
Oaks, remarkable, at Burley-lodge	—————	II.	110
Ober-green

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xiii)

	Page
Ober-green	II. 121
Orford, earl of; account of his training two stags in a carriage	II. 279

P

Poets not always uniform in their ideas of beauty	I. 14
Pliny's account of the rooting of trees	I. 19
Poplar described	I. 52
Pinafter described	I. 81
Park-scenery	I. 181
Petworth-house, situation of	I. 182
Park-ornaments	I. 185
Pleasure-ground	I. 188
Pouffin, subjects of his pictures	I. 214
Pont-du-Gard, in Languedoc, an account of it	I. 217
Permanent beauties of forest-scenery	I. 229
Parts in painting should always be subordinate to the whole	I. 250
Planters in vain attempt, by affording their trees, to afford the beauties of autumn	I. 260
Picturesque pleasure; its sources	I. 265
Purchas's account of the drift-timber carried down the Oby, and Jenisca	I. 288
Polidore Virgil's account of the state of forests in England in the time of Henry VII.	I. 293
Pines, which yield excellent timber, found in the forest of Invercald in Scotland	I. 306
Pendragon-castle	I. 309
Purlieu of New-forest	II. 15
Purveyor, in New-forest	II. 22
Planting oak; different opinions about it	II. 35
Planting different trees alternately, disagreeable	II. 75
Priestlands; a good view of the isle of Wight from it	II. 93
Pawnage

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xiv)

	Page
Pawnage month — — — —	II. 112
Pilewell — — — —	II. 134
Picturesque ideas, and their limits, explained	II. 166
Palatines, a scheme to settle them in New-forest	II. 222
Plano-convex-mirror examined — —	II. 224
Paultons — — — —	II. 228
Pheasants abound in the forest — —	II. 284
Partridges, less frequent — — —	II. 285
Plover, common in its heathy parts —	II. 287

Q

Queen Elizabeth's oak — — —	I. 147
Queen Ann, a scheme in her reign to settle a body of Palatines in New-forest — —	II. 222

R

Rooting of trees, a source of beauty — —	I. 19
Royal Sovereign; dimensions of her main-mast	I. 127
Ravenna in Italy; gates of the great church there, made of vine-planks — — —	I. 131
Rising-sun, its effect on woods — —	I. 239
Rubens, his faulty introduction of spots of light	I. 245
Rein-deer — — — —	I. 282
Robin-Hood, and other banditti, frequented Sher- wood-forest — — — —	I. 314
Rockingham-castle in the forest of Rockingham	I. 318
Rapacity exercised in forests — — —	II. 32
Rope-hill; view from thence of the estuary of Ly- mington-river — — — —	II. 61
Regular forms allied to greatness — —	II. 65
Russian forest; description of one — —	II. 68
Rhapsody, and verbal description, compared	II. 69
Rufus,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xv)

	Page
Rufus, scene of his death — — —	II. 76
Ringwood — — — — —	II. 80
Rabbits injurious to seedling oaks — —	II. 107
——— abound in the forest — —	II. 283
Rhinfield-lodge — — — — —	II. 120
Roydon — — — — —	II. 128
Roads, when straight, disfigure an open country	II. 210
Rails, a good mode of fencing — —	II. 216
Ring-dove, a forest-bird — — —	II. 286
Rook, haunts the forest only at night —	II. 293

S

Sycamore, description of — — —	I. 58
Stone-pine described — — —	I. 78
Scotch-fir described — — —	I. 84
Spruce-fir described — — —	I. 88
Silver-fir described — — — — —	I. 90
Spray of trees, the study of; useful to landscape- painters — — — — —	I. 102
Spray of the oak — — — — —	I. 106
——— of the ash — — — — —	I. 107
——— of the elm — — — — —	I. 108
——— of the beech — — — — —	I. 109
Stawel, lord; situation of his house in Holt-forest	I. 182
Swanevelt, subjects of his pictures — —	I. 214
Salvator, subjects of his pictures — —	I. 215
Smoke, its effect in forest-scenery — —	I. 236
Setting sun, its effect on forest-scenery —	I. 243
Storms, their effect on forest-scenery —	I. 247
Shade, predominancy of; produces the best effect	I. 251
Seasons, a source of incidental beauty — —	I. 255
Spring — — — — —	I. 255
Summer — — — — —	I. 256
Strabo,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xvi)

	Page
Strabo, his account of certain Asiatics ———	I. 272
————— and of the ancient Britons	I. 276
Subterraneous-timber accounted for ———	I. 294
Spaniards in 1588 intended to cut down the forest of Dean ——— ——— ———	I. 298
Scotch forest, character of it ———	I. 301
Selwood-forest, remarkable for a victory obtained near it by Alfred over the Danes ———	I. 326
Sopley, view there ——— ———	II. 82
Salt-works near Lymington ———	II. 88
Shingles, an island on the Hampshire coast, account of it ——— ——— ———	II. 92
Skiff in motion, described ———	II. 96
Sethorn-wood ——— ———	II. 104
Scotch-cattle at Burly-lodge ———	II. 110
Sandy-down ——— ——— ———	II. 128
Souly-pond ——— ——— ———	II. 134
Spits of land remarkable at the mouths of the forest- rivers ——— ——— ———	II. 160
Singing-birds frequent the banks of Beaulieu-river	II. 173
Sea-views, when seen from lofty stands, will not admit proportion in the fore-grounds	II. 200
Stables, how they may be stationed ———	II. 204
Stobland-common, view from it ———	II. 206
Stag, described — — —	II. 271
Sheep; the forest not much frequented by them	II. 283
Squirrel abounds in the forest —	II. 284
Snipe, frequent in the forest —	II. 287
Sea-gull, his manners described ———	II. 298
Sea-fowl in general ——— ———	II. 299
	Trees

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xvii)

Page

T

Trees compared with animal life	— —	I.	2
Traveller's joy, beautiful	— — —	I.	17
Tugg, a sort of wane used in Suffex for conveying timber	— — — —	I.	116
Trees, which have attained large dimensions; catalogue of	— — — —	I.	120
Tiberius's larch	— — — —	I.	126
Tortworth in Gloucestershire, account of a chefnut there	— — — —	I.	139
Tyrrel, fir Walter; tree, on which his arrow glanced	— — — —	I.	160
Timber-wane, drawn by oxen, has often a good effect	— — — —	I.	267
Tiger	— — — —	I.	278
Turks great admirers of wood	— —	I.	291
Tees, fall of	— — — —	I.	310
Tutbury-castle on the confines of Needwood-forest		I.	315
Turkies, an ornament to parks	— —	I.	323
Timber, care of government in providing a supply in New-forest	— — — —	II.	28
Trespases on forest-lands	— — —	II.	39
Taste, comparison between it, and expence	—	II.	186
Tail, horse's; absurdity of docking it	— —	II.	255

U

Upas, or poison-tree, in Java	— — —	I.	156
Uncommon appearances in nature, to be avoided		I.	237
Underwood, it's use in landscape	— —	II.	72
	c		Vines,

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

{ xviii }

Page

V

Vines, beautiful	—	—	—	—	I.	17
Vanier, his lamentation' over the destruction of timber	—	—	—	—	I.	117
Velitræ, a famous plane-tree there	—	—	—	—	I.	125
Van Egmont, his account of the cedars of Lebanon	—	—	—	—	I.	129
Valentine-house, near Ilford in Essex; a remarkable vine there	—	—	—	—	I.	149
Voltair's reasoning about depopulating New-forest, examined	—	—	—	—	II.	4
—— his epigram on docking horses	—	—	—	—	II.	264
Verderors, judges of the forest-courts	—	—	—	—	II.	20
Vista, a very grand one between Brokenhurst, and Lyndhurst	—	—	—	—	II.	64
Valley of Lymington-river	—	—	—	—	II.	128
Vegetation, extraordinary instance of	—	—	—	—	II.	141
Voyage up Beaulieu-river	—	—	—	—	II.	161
Vista beyond Lyndhurst, of little value	—	—	—	—	II.	220
Vicar's-hill	—	—	—	—	II.	239
Vanderveldt makes great use of the sea-gull	—	—	—	—	II.	299

W

Withered top	—	—	—	—	I.	8
Wreathed fascia	—	—	—	—	I.	36
Witch-elm described	—	—	—	—	I.	41
Weeping elm described	—	—	—	—	I.	41
Walnut-tree described	—	—	—	—	I.	54
Weeping-willow described	—	—	—	—	I.	62
Willows of different kinds	—	—	—	—	I.	63
Withy described	—	—	—	—	I.	64
					Weymouth-

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xix)

	Page
Weymouth-pine described — — —	I. 82
Workfop, an account of a celebrated oak there	I. 138
Wallace-tree, a celebrated oak near Sterling —	I. 143
Waterlo, subjects of his pictures — —	I. 214
Weeds, their use in landscape — —	I. 219
Weather, a source of incidental beauty —	I. 233
Winter, the picturesque effect of that season —	I. 261
Wild-boar — — — — —	I. 281
Wolf — — — — —	I. 282
Windfor-forest formerly the property of queen Emma	I. 322
Windfor great park — — —	I. 323
Whorwell-abbey, founded by Elfrida in the forest of Harewood — — —	I. 327
Walks, different; into which New-forest is divided	II. 18
Woodward, and regards, officers in New-forest, who superintend the timber — —	II. 20
William III, a salutary act in his reign, for pro- viding a supply of timber in New-forest	II. 30
Widow; story of one on the borders of the forest	II. 46
Wilverly-lodge — — —	II. 107
Wild-boar introduced into New-forest by Charles I	II. 118
Warwicksted — — — — —	II. 120
Walhampton — — — — —	II. 131
Whitley-ridge-lodge; a beautiful forest-lawn there	II. 149
Wood-cutters, their different modes of felling timber	II. 155
Wight, island of; it's coast described — —	II. 158
White-hart-silver — — — — —	II. 274
Wood-cock, not often found in the forest	II. 287
Wood-pecker — — — — —	II. 289

X

Xerxes's plane — — — — —	I. 122
--------------------------	--------

Yew

Cambridge University Press

978-1-108-08486-4 - Remarks on Forest Scenery, and Other Woodland Views:

Illustrated by the Scenes of New-Forest in Hampshire: Volume 2

William Gilpin

Index

More information

(xx)

Page

Y

Yew	—	—	I. 92
Ytene, the ancient name of New-forest	—	—	II. 2
Yew-tree-bottom	—	—	II. 106

Z

Zealand; account of a bleak sea-coast there			I. 269
---	--	--	--------