

Contents

Acknowledgments ix

-
- 1 Writing: The Most Vital – and Neglected – Skill 1
 Introduction 1
 Beyond IMRaD 2
- 2 Writing for Your Reader’s Brain 4
 Making Your Writing Clear, Effective, and Efficient 4
 Recognizing Reading’s Three Challenges 5
 The First Two Stages in Reading: Lexical and Syntactic 7
 The Third Stage of Reading: Inference-Building 12
 Creating Coherence: Priming, Primacy, and Recency Effects 16
- Progressing Your Career: Writing Needs Just Enough Focus 23
- 3 Before You Begin: Getting to So What? and Who Cares? 25
 Before You Begin 25
 Classify Your Research According to Anticipated Outcomes 27
 Answering “So What?” and “Who Cares?” through Outcome Categories 32
- Progressing Your Career: Why You Need a Mentor 34
- 4 Getting Published: Manuscripts, Journals, and Submissions 38
 Step 1: Write to Specifications 38
 Step 2: Expect to Make Revisions 40
 Step 3: Perform Due Diligence 40
 Step 4: Frame Your Study Design 42
 Step 5: Design an Introduction that Fits Your Article’s Type 44
 Step 6: Pre-empt Peer Reviewers’ Objections 60
 Step 7: Avoid the Curse of Information in Writing Results 67
 Step 8: Manage the Scylla and Charybdis of Discussions 71
 Step 9: Write the Abstract 81
- Progressing Your Career: Resilience and Resubmissions 85
- 5 Getting Funded: Applying for Grants 87
 Tackling Grant Applications 87
 Cast a Wide but Highly Targeted Net 88
 Before You Start Writing 88
 Follow the Proposal Guidelines Closely 94

Watch Where You Fall on that Anticipated Outcomes Continuum	94
Choose Your Collaborators	96
Understand the Structure and Content of Each Section	98
Use Priming, Primacy, and Recency Effects	105
Identify Implications	106
Contact Grant Program Officers Early	114	7
Understand the Odds of Receiving Funding	115
Progressing Your Career: Responding to Comments on Grants and Manuscripts	119
6 Collaborative Writing: Pass the Baton	122
Pass the Baton	122
Step 1: Identify Team Members' Strengths	124
Step 2: Assign Tasks that Match Team Members' Strengths	128
Step 3: Use a Gantt Chart, Online Platform, or Software	132
Step 4: Maintain Communication between Team Members	135
Progressing Your Career: Getting Your Name on Papers	139
Communicating with the Public	141
Mastering Three Different Means of Reaching the Public	141
Securing Informed Consent	141
Communicating Guidelines and Recommendations	143
Getting Your Research Outcomes to a Mass Audience	150
References	175
Index	198	