

CONTENTS

List of Figures	page viii
List of Tables	ix
Acknowledgements	x
List of Cases	xiii
List of Instruments	xvi
List of Abbreviations	xxxviii
1 Introduction	1
1.1 Setting the Questions	1
1.2 Research Design	7
1.3 Theoretical Framework	8
1.4 Structure of the Book	13
2 Procurement and International Organizations: A Conceptual Map	16
2.1 A Problem of Definition	16
2.2 Types of Organizations and Implications for Procurement	35
3 The Institutional Roots of Change: From Private Negotiations to Public Tenders	47
3.1 Introduction	47
3.2 The Institutionalization Phase: Contracts	47
3.3 The Emergence of Procurement Procedure and Its Problems (the 1960s and 1970s)	51
3.4 A System in Transition (the 1980s)	62

3.5	Administrative Reforms and Procurement Regulation (the 1990s)	70
3.6	Codification, Proceduralization and Publicization: Scope and Limits	95
4	The Regulatory Architecture: Principles and Practices	96
4.1	Introduction	96
4.2	The Law Applicable to Procurement	97
4.3	The Phases of the Procurement Procedure	109
4.4	Principles in Practice: Competition Through Indicators and Ladders of Transparency	121
4.5	Integrity: Rules of Conduct and Practices	194
4.6	Conclusions	202
5	Procurement Contracts and Limits to the Contractual Freedom of Private Parties and States	204
5.1	Introduction	204
5.2	Contracts and Limits to the Contractual Freedom of Private Parties in Direct Procurement	205
5.3	Contracts in Indirect Procurement and Limits to the Contractual Freedom of States	252
5.4	Conclusions	258
6	Contracts and Applicable Law: Blurring the Lines between Public and Private Law	261
6.1	Introduction	261
6.2	Theories and Practices in the History of International Organizations	262
6.3	The Current Approaches	270
6.4	Conclusions	286
7	Accountability in Procurement	288
7.1	Introduction	288

CONTENTS	vii
7.2 Operational Definitions and Components of International Organizations' Accountability	290
7.3 External Controls	295
7.4 Internal Controls on Direct Procurement	304
7.5 Inter-Institutional Controls On Indirect Procurement	319
7.6 Private Subjects' Rights vis-à-vis International Organizations	322
7.7 Conclusions	371
8 How the Interplay of Interests Shapes Procurement	376
8.1 Introduction	376
8.2 National Roots of Procurement Regulation and the Anomalous Legal Transplant	377
8.3 Interests and Principles: Dynamics in National Public Procurement	383
8.4 Interests and Principles: Dynamics in International Organizations' Procurement	389
9 Conclusions: Global Administrative Law for Procurement of International Organizations: Development and Limits	410
9.1 The Questions	410
9.2 Between Past and Future: Multipolarity as the Source of Global Administrative Law for Procurement	411
9.3 Proceduralization and New Rights: The Functionalization of Conflicting Interests and Its Limits	414
9.4 Contracts for Organizations: Privileges and Public-Private Regulatory Hybridization	418
9.5 Implications for the Legitimacy of International Organizations	423
Bibliography	429
Index	457