

CONTENTS

Preface	page ix
Introduction	I
Reconstruction and Commentary	31
Prefatory Material	33
The Authenticity of the Title	33
Sphragis	34
Paraphrases: Simplicius and the MXG	38
Paraphrases on the Generation and Destruction of What-is	43
B1: What-is Did Not Come to Be	52
εἰ δέ τι ἔστιν	52
ἀεὶ ἦν ὁ τι ἦν καὶ ἀεὶ ἔσται	56
†εἰ τοίνυν μηδὲν ἦν, οὐδαμὰ ἂν γένοιτο οὐδὲν ἐκ μηδενός†	59
B2 and B3: Spatial Infinity	65
Introduction	65
B2: Text and Translation	71
The Confirmation of Aristotle	85
B3: Text and Translation	94
B4, B5, B6: What-is Is One	97
Introduction	97
B5: Text and Translation	101
B4: Text and Translation	102
B6: Text and Translation	107
Eudemus' Criticism	114
B9 and B10: Bodilessness and Indivisibility	117
Introduction	117
σῶμα	120
πάχος	126
Making Sense of the Argument	130
Indivisible	133
	vii

Contents

Reconstruction	141
Reconstruction Thus Far	143
B7: Change, Pain, and Motion	145
Introduction	146
Alteration	154
Rearrangement	163
Pain and Grief	169
Void and Motion	181
Motion: Text and Translation	185
B8: Sense Experience and Plurality	194
Introduction and Section (1)	194
Section (2): Text and Translation	198
Section (3): Text and Translation	202
Section (4): Text and Translation	209
Section (5): Text and Translation	211
Section (6): Text and Translation	214
Appendix 1 Melissus' Περί φύσεως ἢ περὶ τοῦ <ἐ>όντος:
The Reconstructed Text	216
Appendix 2 How Much Do We Have of Melissus Book?	219
Appendix 3 Melissus and the Eleatics: A Map of Melissus	223
Bibliography	230
Index	239