Contents

List of Figures
Preface

Introduction: Relocation – A Racial Obsession

PART I THE REACH OF AMERICAN RACISM?

1 Racism and Anti-Racism
2 The Ballad of Frankie Seto: Winning Despite the Odds
3 The Chinese and European Origins of the West Coast Alien Dilemma
4 The Impact of World War II: A Multicausal Brief
5 The Lagging Backlash
6 The Looming Roberts Report: An Adverse Fleeting Moment
7 Races and Racism

PART II CONCENTRATION CAMPS OR RELOCATION CENTERS?

8 Definitions versus Historical Reality: Concentration Centers in Cuba, South Africa, and the Philippines
9 Resistance or Cooperation?
10 Bowling in Twin Falls: An Open Door Leave Policy
11 Food, Labor, Sickness, and Health
12 Wartime Attitudes toward Relocation
13 Family Life, Personal Freedom, and Combat Fatigue

vii
Table of Contents

14 Economics and the Dust of Nikkei Memory 212
15 Consumerism: Shopping at Sears 221
16 The Leisure Revolution: Mary Kagoyama, the Sweetheart of Manzanar 228
17 Of Horse Stalls and Modern “Memory”: Housing and Living Conditions 238
18 Politics 245
19 Culture: Of Judo and the Jive Bombers 250
20 Freedom of Religion 257
21 Education, the Passion of Dillon Myer 269
22 The Right to Know: Information and the Free Flow of Ideas 282
23 Administrators and Administration 288

PART III THE DEMISE OF RELOCATION

24 The Politics of Equilibrium: Friends and Enemies on the Outside 293
25 Endgame: Termination of the Centers 305
26 Conclusion: The Place of Race 309

Appendix: Historians and the Racism and Concentration Center Puzzles: A Compact with Comity by Zane L. Miller 313

Bibliography 317

Index 337