

Index

- Accumulating Righteousness, Further Writings*, lxxx; Banzan's remarks on Christianity, xxii; Responding to the Great Learning, lxxviii; Shintō, cii
- Accumulating Righteousness, Japanese Writings*, xxvi, xli, xlv; Banzan on Zhu Xi and Wang Yangming, lxxviii; Banzan's reflections on confinement, xlvi; Banzan's understanding of the Great Learning, lxi; Responding to the Great Learning, lxxviii; Shintō, cii
- age of chaos and disorder: following degradation of mountains and rivers, 45, 71; impact on Buddhist clergy, 71; revival of Buddhism, 71
- Akamatsu Hiromichi: Fujiwara Seika, xviii
- Akashi: Banzan's custody, xliii
- alternate attendance, xcv, 20; Banzan calls for reductions in, xcv; compassionate government, lii; outer lords, xxi; preparation for invasion by northern barbarians, 39;
 reduction of for debt elimination, 41;
 skipping in order to prepare for invasion
 by northern barbarians, 36; Tokugawa economy, xcii
- Amaterasu: Fu Xi, xxv; shrine in Ise, 48;
 virtuous rule, 75
- Analects*: compassionate government, lxxxvii
- Anthology of Old and New Poems*: Shigeyama-mura, xxxv
- archery and horsemanship: in samurai education, 85
- Asami Keisai, xi
- Ashikaga school, 92
- Ashikaga shogunate, 39
- august supreme monarch: ultimate filial piety,
 lxxiii
- Baopuzi*: early variation of keizai, xlix
- Battle of Sekigahara: Banzan's family, xx;
 Fujiwara Seika, xix
- Bodhidharma: temple construction and spiritual merit, 51
- Book of Changes*, xxv; hexagram kui, 9
- Book of Rituals*, lxii, lxiii, lxxiv; education, civ;
 the Great Learning, xviii, lvii; the great way,
 xcii; importance of mountains and rivers,
 xcvi
- Brief Explanation of the Analects of Confucius*, xlv
- Brief Explanation of the Great Learning*:
 Banzan's second study of the Great Learning, xlv, lxiv; in Banzan's corpus, lxvii
- Buddhism, xxvi; ancient regulations for entering priesthood, 49; Banzan's proposals and Meiji policies, liv; Banzan's thoughts on clergy, ci; the brink of ruin in Japan, 70; Buddhists should not be teachers of ethics, 92; Christianity, ci; compassionate government, lii, lxix; Confucianism, xvii; day of remembrance, 72; few sincere practitioners, 70; impact on China, lxvi;
 infirmity of relying excessively upon, 79;

Index

- Buddhism (cont.)
 mastery of three-fold training, 49; Meiji period, x; monks as robbers and thieves, 70; not mentioned in the Great Learning, lxvi; oneness with all things, lxv; relation to Christianity, xxii; revival of, ci; Seika and Lin Zhao'en, lxxi; temple regulations, 50; timber usage, 48
- calamities and disasters: heaven's warnings, 10
 castles: timber usage, 48 channels of communication, lxxxix; closed when rulers rely on selfishness and partialities, 79; importance of maintaining, 14; should be open, 7, 9
- Chen Beixi: Hayashi Razan, xvii
- Cheng Yi, lxiii; Itō Jinsai, lxxvi; the Great Learning, xviii, lxii; Zhu Xi on the Great Learning, lvi
- China: as the source of Japanese culture, 76; Christianity, 68; importance of for Japanese ethical and spiritual culture, 77; teacher of all within the four seas, 76
- Chinese classics and commentaries: best explain the three treasures of Japan, 75; in education, 83; record methods of the early kings, 17; Shintō, cii
- Chinese notion of a sage: Japanese kami, 76; spiritual luminosity, 76
- Christianity: Banzan's distaste for, xxii; Banzan's early opposition to, xxiii; Banzan's teachings a variation of, xxxiii; China, ci; compassionate government, lii; eliminating, 68; oneness with all things, lxv; Shimabara Uprising, xxi; temple registration criticized, c; Wang Yangming teachings, xl
- Chronicles of Japan*: Banzan's thoughts on, cii; omits important dimensions of Shintō, 74
- Classic of Filial Piety*: Tōju's lectures on, xxv; Tōju's lectures on, xxiv
- Commentary on the Great Treatise of the Book of Changes*, xlv
- Commentary and Questions on the Classic of Filial Piety*: Banzan's first reference to Responding to the Great Learning, xlix
- commoners: in education of the realm, 93
 compassionate government, lxxxv; as way to avoid war and chaos, 72; assistance for rōnin, vagrants, the unemployed, and the impoverished, 45; assistance to those in need, xcvi; Banzan's ideal, li; Christianity, c; conflagrations, 51; debt elimination, xcvi, 28, 41, 45; drought control, 25; droughts and flooding, 27; the duties of the people's ministers, 8; elimination of Christianity, 68; elimination of temple registration requirement, 72; the eternal way, 22; expedient alternatives to, cv; financial benefits of, 28; floods, xcii; the importance of a reliable livelihood, lxix; jinsei, x; King T'ang, 80; labor management, 26; land reclamation projects, 24; loving the people, lxvi; meant to enhance wealth and socio-political strength, c; the Mencius, lxi; mountains and rivers, 45; people's ruler, 3, 4; provides abundance for everyone, 57; rarity in history, 96; reduced alternate attendance requirement, 40, 59; re-engineering of the Tokugawa polity, xcix; relies on the essence of Confucianism and Buddhism, 78; Responding to the Great Learning, lii; return of samurai to countryside, 59; rulers, xcvi; succession of bad harvests, 98; way to govern the realm and bring peace to all below heaven, 82; wealth, 15; the well-being of the people, 52; when realized, 60
- compassionate mind: of the shogun, 84; people's ruler, 3
- compassionate rulers: do not have to be a sage to govern well, 82; fondness of material things, 81; wealth, xci
- Confucian Existentialism, liv
- Confucian scholars from Kingdom of Baekje: brought to Japan to teach Confucianism, 77
- Confucian utopian vision: the great way, xcii
- Confucianism: Banzan's criticism of contemporary expressions of, 79; Buddhists borrowed from, 77; considered an expression of Buddhism, 77; elimination of Christianity, 68; enlightened teachers, ci; foundation for reviving Shintō, 77; infirmity of relying excessively upon, 79; not well suited to Japan's environmental circumstances, xxv; Seika's study at a Zen temple, xvii; Shintō, xxiv

Index

- Correct Meanings of the Great Learning*: Lin Zhao'en's thinking on the Great Learning, lxxi
- cotton cultivation: Banzan's plan to stop, 28; in rice fields, 28
- creative processes of the cosmos: assisting, 99; obstruction of leads to calamities and disasters, 79; ruling, ciii; way of humanity should assist, 79; way to assist, 100
- cultural and military subjects: to be taught at schools, 84
- currency, cv, 21; Banzan's proposal to use of rice as, xc, 20, 28, 29
- curriculum of schools: reading, writing, math, ritual, hunting, horsemanship, archery, civ
- Czarist Russia: rival of Japan in northeast Asia, xcv
- Daigaku heitenka no wakumon*, xlix
- Daigaku wakumon*, x, xiv
- Daoism: Seika and Lin Zhao'en, lxxi
- Daxue huomen*, xiv
- Daxue wen*, xxxi
- Dazai Shundai, xiii, li; political economy genre, l
- debt elimination, 41; Banzan's proposals for, xcv; in preparation for invasion by northern barbarians, 36; managed by shogunate, 40
- decree of heaven: Banzan's thinking about political legitimacy, lxxxv; favors compassion and goodness, 4; not for eternity, 4; shogunal legitimacy, x; the Great Learning, lxxxvi
- Discussions of Master Wenzhong*: includes early variation of keizai, l
- Discussions of Political Economy*: alternative name for Responding to the Great Learning, xlix
- Discussions with an Old Man*: Nakae Tōju, xlii; Nakae Tōju's thinking on the Great Learning, lxxiii
- Edo, xi, xii, lxx; Banzan's distance from, xx; Banzan's early prominence in, xxxi; Banzan's experiences in, xxxi; Banzan's fall from favor in, xxxvii; Banzan's first trip to, xxi; Banzan's last trip to, xliii; Banzan's vision for, xcix; criticism of Banzan in, xxxiii; Hayashi Razan and Zhu Xi Confucianism, xv; outer lords, xxi; samurai residences and timber usage, 48; well-field system for vacated land, 60
- elevating the worthy: open channels of communication, 7
- Essentials of the Great Learning*: Fujiwara Seika, lxiii; Seika's emphasis on political message of, xviii; Seika's legacy, xviii
- Essentials of Politics and Viable Administrative Measures*: alternative name for Responding to the Great Learning, xlix
- Established Text of the Great Learning*: Itō Jinsai's assessment of the Great Learning, lxxiv
- Evolution of the Rites, xcii
- Explanation of the Great Learning*: Hayashi Razan, lxxii
- farmers and samurai, 33; achieve peace, happiness, prosperity in countryside, 60; improves martial strength, 62; return to advocated, 61; should live in countryside together, 58
- father and mother of the people: heaven-decreed duty of the ruler, 4; people's ruler, 3
- Fisher, Galen M., lix; first English language study of Banzan, lviii
- flooding and droughts, xcii–xciv, 22, 31; Banzan's concerns for, xcii; compassionate government, lii; Okayama domain, xxxiv; prevention of, 25
- Flower Garden Center, xxviii; Banzan's followers, xxxiii; Flower Garden Oath, xxix; Flower Garden Oath and Christianity, xxxiii
- Four Books, xviii
- Fu Xi: Amaterasu, xxv
- Fu Yue: elevated from bricklaying, 5
- Fujiwara Seika: early-modern Confucianism, lxiii; Hayashi Razan, lxxi; Kyoto Confucianism, xvi–xx; legacy of, xx; the Great Learning, lxxi
- Ge Hong, xlix
- Gleanings from Political Economy*: alternative name for Responding to the Great Learning, xlix

Index

- governing the realm and bringing peace
to all below heaven: finding the right people, 82
- governing with education, civ, 83–92
- government measures: domestic silk production, 65; to ensure integrity of mountains and rivers, 45; needed to prepare Japan for possible invasion by northern barbarians, 31; to prevent upheaval, 99; for reforesting mountains, 47; for wealth and plenty, 55
- grand project for growing wealth, xc, 15–22; alternatives to, 96; compassionate government, x; economic worries of the day, 48; expedient alternatives to, cv; the Great Learning, xci; reviving Japan, 82; shogunal wealth, 61; succession of bad harvests, 98; years of good harvests, 98
- great emptiness: source of heaven and earth,
lxxiii
- Great Learning*, lxiii, lxiv; ancient Japanese imperial realm, lxv; assistance for the elderly, orphans, and those in need, xcvi;
Banzan's relationship to, xv; Banzan's
Responding to the Great Learning, lvi, lviii; Banzan's thinking on legitimacy, lxxxvi;
the grand project for growing wealth,
xci; Hayashi Razan, lxxi, lxxii; imperially focused program of education, civ;
importance for post-Song Confucianism, xviii; opening passage of, lix; political project of, lx; Responding to the Great Learning, lxxviii, lxx; Tōju's lectures on,
xxiv, xxv; usage of the people's ruler,
lxxxiv; Wang Yangming and Banzan, lvii;
Zhu Xi, lxii
- great way, 17; abandoned with reliance on reward and punishment, 80; as means to gain wealth for all, 17; compassionate government, 22; education, 92; expenses of the realm, 48; facilitates return of samurai to countryside, 57; farmers and samurai in the countryside, 50; Great Learning, section 15, xci; impact on Buddhism and Buddhist clergy, 73; in the Book of Rituals, xcii; Itō Jinsai, lxxv; shogun must implement, 19;
silk imports, 66; timber supply, 48; when it prevails in the world, 61
- Han dynasty, 10
- Han Gaozu: heeded remonstrance, 10; ruled with only three laws, 87
- Hayashi Gahō, xi
- Hayashi Razan, xv, xxiv; critic of Christianity, xxiii; Fujiwara Seika, xvii;
the Great Learning, lxxii; Nakae Tōju's criticism of, xxvi, xxxii; passing of, xxxvi;
the old text of the Great Learning, lxiii;
Wang Yangming, lxxi; Zhu Xi, lxxii
- heaven-decreed duty of the people's ministers, 8–13
- heaven-decreed duty of the people's ruler, 3–7
- heavenly disasters and earthly calamities, civ;
result when creative processes of cosmos are obstructed, 79
- helpless people: compassionate government, 15
- Hirado, 66; Banzan criticizes closing of, c; port closed, 66
- Hōjō regents: alternate attendance requirement, 39; Banzan praises, xcvi;
governed excellently, 55
- Hoshina Masayuki: opposition to Sokō and Banzan, xl; Yamazaki Ansaï, xxxviii, lxiii;
Zhu Xi, xxxvii
- Hotta Masatoshi: Banzan's possible service to the shogunate, lxiii
- Ikeda Mitsumasa, xxvii; Banzan accompanied to Edo, xxx; Banzan's concerns about northern barbarian threat, xliv; Banzan's service to, xx; flooding, xxxiv; passing of, xliv; Shizutani Academy, xli; ties to Tokugawa Ieyasu, xxi; warned about Wang
Yangming teachings, xxxiii
- imperial aristocracy: as teachers for the realm, 92; opportunities for, 93; sent to countryside as teachers, 93
- imperial princesses, 93
- Inaba Hikobei, xlv; Banzan expresses his concerns to, xlv
- inborn talents for governing: meaning of, 5
- Inoue Tetsujirō: interpretations of the Japanese Wang Yangming School, xxiv
Inquiry on the Great Learning, lvi, lvii;
Confucian mysticism, xxxi; Wang
Yangming, lii

Index

- intuitive ethical knowledge, xxix; Wang Yangming's thinking on, lv
- investigation of things, lxii; Banzan's thinking on, lxvii; Wang Yangming's thinking, lv; Zhu Xi's addition of Cheng Yi's remarks on, lvi
- Ise Shrine: virgin princesses, 94, 95
- Itakura Shigenori: Banzan's exile to Akashi, xl
- Itō Jinsai: Kyoto Confucian, xxxvii; the Great Learning, lxxvii
- Iwashimizu Hachiman Shrine, 49
- Japan: a sacred country, 49; total debt, 99
- Japanese Explanation of the Great Learning*: Banzan's early study of the Great Learning, 60; anticipates Responding to the Great Learning, lxvi; criticizes Buddhism, lxvi; in Banzan's corpus, lxvii
- jewel, mirror, and sword: Japan's sacred texts, 75
- Kamakura shogunate: alternate attendance, xcv, xcvi, 39, 56; Banzan admired, xcvi; Banzan's admiration for, xi; ritual practices, 89
- kami*: Banzan's explanation of, 76; luminous wisdom, 76
- Kamo Shrine: virgin princesses, 94, 95
- Kang Hang: Fujiwara Seika, xvii; impact on Seika, xix; Tokugawa Ieyasu and Fujiwara Seika, xix
- keizai*: political economy, xlix
- Keizai ben (Discussions of Political Economy)*, xlix, liii
- Keizai jūi (Gleanings from Political Economy)*, xlix
- Keizai katsuhō yōroku (Essentials of Politics and Viable Administrative Measures)*, xlix
- keizaigaku*, xliii; political economy genre, xlix
- King Tang: compassionate government, 80
- King Wen: as the people's ruler, lxxxiv
- Kitakōji Toshimitsu, xlvii
- Kiyomizu, 50
- Koga: Banzan's burial, ix, xi, xlix; Banzan's final confinement, xlvii
- Kōriyama: Banzan's custody, xliii
- Kumazawa Banzan: Accumulating Righteousness and the Great Learning, lxx; as an independent thinker, lxxvii–lxxxiii; assisting rōnin and the needy, xcvi; Brief Explanation of the Great Learning, lxvi; Christianity, xxiii; Christianity and temple registration, c–ci; debt elimination, xcv; disaster relief in Okayama, xxxv; early-Tōkugawa studies of the Great Learning, lxxvii; environmental concerns, xcvi, xcvi; exile in Yamato, xlvi; final years in Koga, xlix; Flower Garden Center, xxix; genre of political economy (keizaigaku), liv; governing with education, civ–civ; grand project for growing wealth, 15–22; Great Learning, lviii–lxi; Japanese Explanation of the Great Learning, lxviii; Kyoto Confucianism, xvi–xx; Kyoto's imperial culture, xl; landless income, xcix; Mencius, lxxxiii–xc; northern barbarian threat, xciv–xcv; Okayama rifle brigade, xxx; people's ministers, lxxxviii–lxxxix; people's ruler, lxxxiv–lxxxviii, 3; prominence in Edo, xxxi; proposals regarding flooding and droughts, xcii–xciv; relocation and adoption, xxi; resignation, xxxvii; returning samurai to the countryside, xcvi–xcix; reviving Buddhism, ci–cii; reviving Japan, ciii–civ, 78–82; reviving Shintō, cii–ciii; rice as currency, cv; rōnin uprisings and Razan's criticisms, xxxiv; semi-exile in Akashi, xliii; silk and textiles, c; study with Nakae Tōju, xxvii; synopsis of Responding to the Great Learning, lxxxiii–cvi; teachers for the realm, cv; viable measures for saving the realm, 2; Wang Yangming, Confucian existentialists, lviii; wasted rice, 98; Zhu Xi and the Great Learning, lxiii; Zhu Xi and Wang Yangming, lxxxiii
- Kumazawa Morihisa, xx
- Kyoto, xi, xi; Banzan expelled from, xxxix; Banzan's birthplace, lxxvi; Banzan's closeness to, xx; Banzan's outlook, lxx; Banzan's preference for, xliii; Banzan's thinking on Shintō, lxix; Banzan's time in, xxxviii; Confucianism, xvi; Fujiwara Seika, xix; Matsunaga Sekigo, xxiii; Ōmi, xxiv;

Index

- Kyoto (cont.)
 outer lords, xxi; rice as currency, 37; role in education of the realm, 93; silk marketing, 67; the spread of education, 76
- landless income: to be eliminated, xcix, 63
- learning of the mind: Banzan on, lxxix; Wang Yangming teachings, xxxiii
- Lin Zhao'en: Fujiwara Seika, lxxi; later follower of Wang Yangming, xvii
- “love the people”: Nakae Tōju’s interpretation of, lxxiii; old text of the Great Learning, lxii, lxvi; Seika, lxxi
- Lü Zuqian: Reflections on Things at Hand, xxx
- lumberjacks: of Yoshino and Kumano, 32
- Manchu invasion, xi; China, xciv; control of China, xlviix; Nakae Tōju, lxxiv; northern barbarians, xlv
- martial arts: in samurai education, 86
- Marubashi Chūya: Yui Shōsetsu, xxxii
- Matsudaira Nobuyuki: Banzan’s detention, xli, xlii
- Matsudaira Tadayuki: Banzan in custody of, xlv; Koga daimyō, xlix
- Matsunaga Sekigo: critic of Christianity, xxiii
- McMullen, James: interpretation of Banzan, xiv
- Meiji period: accounts of keizaigaku genre, li; appreciation for Banzan during, xii; Banzan, x; Banzan’s proposals, liii; education and Banzan’s proposals, liv; Japan’s rivalry with Russia, xciv
- men of high rank: valued by sages, 83
- men of talent: compassionate government, lii
- Mencius*, lxxxiix–xc; compassionate government, lxi, lxix, lxxxvii; reference to the people’s ruler, lxxxv
- methods of the mind, lxxix
- Middle Way*: creative processes of the cosmos, ciix; the Japanese three treasures, xxv, 76; Shintō, cii, cii; Tōju’s lectures on, xxiv, xxv; Zhong yong, lxii
- Ming dynasty, x
- Mongols: Japan, xciv
- mountains and rivers, xcvi–xcvii, 45; as foundations of the realm, 45; chaos and disorder following degradation of, 71; compassionate government, lii, lxix; environmental concerns and the realm, xcvi; the eternal way, 22; importance of, xlii, xcvi; revival of Buddhism, 71
- Mt. Otokoyama, 49
- Murasaki Shikibu, xxxviii, lxiv
- music: in samurai education, 85
- Nagasaki, 66
- Nakae Tōju, xiv, xxiv; as a Wang Yangming scholar, liv; Banzan, lxxix; Banzan’s relationship to, xxvii; Banzan’s study with, xxiii; Confucianism and governing, xxv; criticism of Hayashi Razan, xxxii; the Great Learning, lxxiv; intuitive moral knowledge, lxi; Manchu threat, lxxiv; time, place, and circumstance, xlii, lxxix
- New Discussions of Government and Political Economy*: alternative name for Responding to the Great Learning, xli
- Nihon*: often referred to in Responding to the Great Learning, lxx
- northern barbarians, xciv–xcv, 21, 31–35, 97; Banzan’s call for preparations for, xciv; Banzan’s fear of invasion by, xi, xlv, xciv; Banzan’s oneness with all things, lxxv; Chinese writing not introduced to, 76; compassionate government, lii; flight of Buddhist monks, 70; Manchus, 31; Mongols, 31; need for preparations against, 36; possible impact on Buddhism, 71; rice storage in preparation for invasion by, 38; social and political consequences of, 33; temporary expedients needed to prepare for, 96
- Oda Nobunaga, xx
- official stipends: Banzan’s opposition to hereditary stipends, 6
- Ogyū Sorai, xii; Banzan, lxxvi; imperial throne, lxiv; political writings of, l
- Okayama, xxviii; Banzan’s rifle brigade, xxix; departure from, xxix; drought control, 25; fall from favor in, xxxvii; flood control, 25; flooding, xciii; impact on thinking, lxix, lxx; proximity to Kyoto and Kyushu, xxiii; resignation from service to, xxxvii; tozama, xxi
- Okina mondō*, xlii
- Osaka, xc; and Edo, rice shipped to, xciii; rice as currency, 37

Index

- people's ministers, 8–13; in the Mencius, lxxxviii–lxxxix people's ruler, lxxxiv, lxxxvi, 3–7; utmost brilliance of, 11
Plan for an Age of Great Peace: Sorai and political economy genre, 1
Political Discussions, xii; Sorai and political economy genre, 1 poverty, 98, 99
 pragmatic relativism, xiv, xv, xxvii prime minister, 5, 6, 100
- Qin dynasty: criminalized remonstrance, 10
- reading and writing: in samurai education, 84
Reflections on Things at Hand: Zhang Zai, xxx reforestation: of timber-stripped mountains, 46 reliable mind and heart: a reliable livelihood, lxix relocating people: to Kyushu for improved circumstances, 46 renew the people: new text of the Great Learning, lxii; Seika, lxxi; Zhu Xi's emendation of the Great Learning, lxvi reservoirs, 22–28
Responding to the Great Learning, xiii, lxxvi;
Accumulating Righteousness, lxxviii; advocacy of education, xli; anticipated by Japanese Explanation of the Great Learning, lxvi;
 Banzan's command of the rifle brigade, xxx; and Banzan's earlier thinking on the Great Learning and the Analects, lxi; Banzan's perspective on self-cultivation, lx; chapter summary, lxxxiii–cvi; compassionate government, lii; Confucianism and governing, xxvi; criticisms of hereditary stipends, xxxvi; Daigaku wakumon, x; Dazai Shundai, li; emphasis on time, place, and circumstances, xv; environmental concerns, xxxi; first publication of, liii; flood control preparations, xxxiv; in Banzan's corpus, lxvii, lxvii; mountains and rivers, xliii, xxvii; Nakae Tōju's thought, lxxiv; northern barbarian threat, xlv; not published in Banzan's day, xii; oneness with all things, lxv; plan to reduce Edo's size, xxxiii; political economy genre, l; quoted by Tokugawa scholars, xiii, li; referred to as a secret writing, xlvi, xlix;
- Wang Yangming's Inquiry on the Great Learning, lii, xxxi, lvi, lvii Responding to the Great Learning and Bringing Peace to the Realm below Heaven: mentioned in Banzan's Commentary and Questions on the Classic of Filial Piety, xlix returning samurai to the countryside, xc, 57–62; compassionate government, xcvi; Meiji period, x revering good counsel, 13
 reviving Buddhism, 70
 reviving Japan, 78–82; achieved through education, 87; worthy rulers, ciii reviving Shinto, 74; Confucianism as foundation for, 77 rewards and punishments, 79; in ancient Japan, 80; not integral to practicing the way, 11; should not be relied upon excessively, 79 rice: as a unit of currency, 36; as currency, 99
 rice, wasted, 19, 98
 rifle brigade, xxix; Banzan's service with, xxxii rites and music: best means to gain people's consent, 11 ritual behavior: in samurai education, 87 rōnin: as military threats during times of upheaval, 32; compassionate government, 15; population doubled, 98; suffering of, 99
 rōnin scholar: Banzan as, lxx rōnin, vagrants, the unemployed, and the impoverished: assistance for, 43; Banzan's plan for helping, xcvi
- sages and worthies: limited political power of, 83
 saké, xciii, 29; Banzan's thoughts on, cvi; closing breweries to prepare for northern barbarian invasion, 37
 samurai curriculum, 83–92
 samurai residences, 50; return to rice fields, 59 samurai women: labor force for silk and textiles, c samurai, farmers, artisans, and merchants, lxxv, c, 16, 18, 28, 37, 55, 66, 70, 81, 97
Seidan, xii
Sentetsu sodan, lxxvi
 Shigeyama-mura: Banzan's name, xxxv
 Shimabara Uprising: Banzan, xxi; temple registration, xxii

Index

- Shinkokinshū*, xxxv
- Shinsei keizai ben*. See Banzan's New Discussions of Government and Political Economy
- Shintō: Amaterasu, xxv; Banzan's proposals and Meiji policies, liv; Banzan's regard for, lxiv; borrowings from Confucianism, 76; Buddhist impact on, lxvi; compassionate government, lii, lxix; Confucianism, xxvi; contemporary expressions, 74, 76; governing the realm and bringing peace to all below heaven, 75; infirmity of relying excessively upon, 79; Kyoto culture, xxxviii; Meiji period, x; no written literature in antiquity, 74; ruling, cii; timber usage, 48
- Shizutani Academy, xli
- shogun: ability to transform the realm, 84; compassionate government and eternal way, 22; the great way, 19; great way and compassionate government, 22; influence of his words, 83; methods of the mind, 84; relationship with daimyō, 83; role in education, civ
- silk and textiles, 65–68; plan for domestic production of, c; samurai, 28; short-term need to import, c
- six infirmities of the mind: ruling, ciii
- spiritual lord: governs the realm below heaven, 75
- spiritual way of heaven and earth: tenchi no Shintō, 76
- starvation, xxxiv, lxix, xc, xci, cv, 16, 23, 23, 33, 71, 72, 98; resulting from invasion by northern barbarians, 32
- sumptuary laws, 28
- Susano, 48
- Taira Kiyomori, 23
- Tale of Genji*: Banzan's admiration of, xxxviii; Banzan's view of, lxiv; completion in Akashi, xli
- Tale of Miwa*, xxxviii–xxxix
- Tanaka Magojurō, xlvi, xlvi
- teachers, 84, 92–95; Kyoto's aristocracy and cultured elite, cv
- teachers for the realm, 92
- temple registration, xxii, 68, 71, 71, 72; Banzan's criticism of, xxii; futility of, ci
- three treasures: as Japan's sacred texts, 75; as sacred texts, cii; as wisdom, compassion, and courage, 77; Chinese classics and commentaries, 75; comparable to symbols of the Book of Changes, 75; the Middle Way, 75; most ancient texts of Shintō, xxv
- time, place, and circumstance, xlii; Banzan's emphasis on, xv; Banzan's own disregard for, lxxi; determinants in assessing things, xlii; geography, 23
- tobacco, 20: Banzan criticizes cultivation of, xci; Banzan's view of, xciii; ending consumption of, 29
- Tokugawa Iemitsu: Banzan, xxxi
- Tokugawa Ieyasu: Hayashi Razan, xvii; Ikeda Mitsumasa, xxi
- Tokugawa Tsunayoshi: Banzan's unwillingness to serve, xliii; possibly learns of Banzan's writings, xlv
- Tokugawa Yoshimune, xii; Sorai's political writings, l
- Toyotomi Hideyoshi: Korean invasions, xvii
- tozama* scholar: Banzan as, lxx
- unity of the three teachings: Banzan's disuse for, lxxix
- upheaval, civ, 9, 32, 72, 79, 80, 92, 97, 98, 99; resulting from poverty and distress, 98
- vagrancy and starvation: due to poorly managed land reclamation projects, 23
- “Variant Editions of the Great Learning”: Hayashi Razan on the Great Learning, lxxii
- Vernacular Explanation of the Great Learning*: Hayashi Razan, lxxii
- viable measures, lxxiii; for saving the country, 2
- virgin princesses, 94
- Wang Anshi: Song references to jingji/keizai, l
- Wang Ji: influence on Tōju, xxiv; Nakae Tōju, xlii, lxxiii
- Wang Tong, xlix

Index

- Wang Yangming, xlii, liv; alleged heterodoxies, xxviii; as a military commander, xxx; Banzan, lxxi; Banzan's distance from, lxxvii; Banzan's references to, xxxii; Christianity, xl, ci; Confucian existentialism, lv; Confucian mysticism, xxxi; exiled, lvi; Fujiwara Seika, lxxi; the Great Learning, xviii; impact on Seika, xix; in early Tokugawa Japan, xiv; Inoue Tetsujirō's views of, xxiv; Inquiry on the Great Learning, lii; intuitive knowledge, xxix, lxi; learning of the mind, xxxiii; Nakae Tōju, lxxii; the old text of the Great Learning, lxiii; quashes rebellions, lvii; rejects Zhu Xi's work on the Great Learning, lxii; rival of Zhu Xi, xvii; teaching of oneness with all things, lxiv
- Warring States' period: education, 92
- way for loving women, 81
- way of heaven: exemplifies compassion and love, 11
- way of humanity: governing the realm, 83; schools teach, 83
- way of the minister: modeled on the way of earth, 8
- way of the ruler: follows heaven, 11
- way of the true king: generous compassion of, 11
- wealth: compassionate government, 15
- well-field system: Mencian compassionate government, lxix
- Western Inscription*: oneness with all things, lxxv; Zhang Zai, xxx
- Western Inscription for Japan*: Banzan and the environment, xxx
- wisdom, compassion, and courage: Shintō, 75; utmost virtues of all below heaven, 75
- wives and children of samurai: silk production, 65
- worthy ruler: necessary for reviving Japan, 82
- Writings on Political Economy*: quotes Banzan, li; Shundai and political economy genre, 1
- Writings on the Three Virtues*: Hayashi Razan and the old text of the Great Learning, lxiii; the Great Learning, lxxi; Hayashi Razan's thoughts on the Great Learning, lxxi
- Ximing*, xxx
- Xuanzong, 81
- Yamaga Sokō, xi; Banzan, xxxii; sent into exile, xl; Shintō, xxv; Hoshina Masayuki's passing, xliii
- Yamato Province: droughts and floods, 27
- Yamazaki Ansai: as an Edo Confucian, lxx; Hoshina Masayuki, xxxviii, xl; passing of, xliii; Shintō, xxv; teacher of Hoshina Masayuki, xxxvii
- Yang Guifei, 81
- Yao: conception of the middle way, 78; consequences of poverty of the realm, 55
- Yi Yin: elevated from farming, 5
- Yu: channels of communication, 13; punished people but did not reward, 80
- Yui Shōsetsu: Banzan, xxxi, xxxii
- Zhang Liang and Kongming, 34
- Zhang Zai: oneness with all things, lxxv; Western Inscription, xxx
- Zhong yong*. See the Middle Way
- Zhu Xi, lxiii, lxvi, lxxiv; Banzan's distance from, lxxvii; Banzan's historical contextualization of, lxiii; Christianity, ci; the Great Learning, lvii, lxi, lxii; Fujiwara Seika, lxxi; Fujiwara Seika and Hayashi Razan, lxxi; Hayashi Razan, xvii, lxxii; impact on Seika, xix; in early Tokugawa Japan, xiv; Itō Jinsai, lxxvi; Razan's interpretations of, xxxvi; Tōju, xxiv; Wang Yangming, lv; Wang Yangming's opposition to, lvi; Yamazaki Ansai, xliii; Zhang Zai, lxxv
- Zhu Xi and Wang Yangming: Kumazawa Banzan's thinking on, lxxvii–lxxxiii
- Zhu Xi's Commentaries on the Four Books: Banzan's early reading of, xxiv