

INSTITUTIONS AND IDEOLOGY IN REPUBLICAN ROME

This volume brings together a distinguished international group of researchers to explore public speech in Republican Rome in its institutional and ideological contexts. The focus throughout is on the interaction between argument, speaker, delivery and action. The chapters consider how speeches acted alongside other factors – such as the identity of the speaker, his alliances, the deployment of invective against opponents, physical location and appearance of other members of the audience and non-rhetorical threats or incentives – to affect the beliefs and behaviour of the audience. Together the chapters offer a range of approaches to these issues and bring attention back to the content of public speech in Republican Rome as well as its form and occurrence. The book will be of interest not only to ancient historians but also to those working on ancient oratory and to historians and political theorists working on public speech.

HENRIETTE VAN DER BLOM is Lecturer in Ancient History at the University of Birmingham. Her publications include Cicero's Role Models: The Political Strategy of a Newcomer (2010), Community and Communication: Oratory and Politics in Republican Rome (edited with Catherine Steel, 2013) and Oratory and Political Career in the Late Roman Republic (Cambridge, 2016). She is a member of the editorial board of The Fragments of the Roman Republican Orators project.

CHRISTA GRAY is Lecturer in Classics at the University of Reading. She is the author of Jerome, Vita Malchi: Introduction, Text, Translation, and Commentary (2015) and co-editor, along with Andrea Balbo, Richard Marshall and Catherine Steel, of Reading Republican Oratory: Reconstructions, Contexts, Receptions (2018). She is a member of the editorial board of The Fragments of the Roman Republican Orators project.

This volume arises from the project The Fragments of the Republican Roman Orators (FRRO), funded by the European Research Council (ERC Project 283670) at the University of Glasgow (2012–17) and would not have been possible without the ERC’s generous and sustained support. The editors are extremely grateful to the members of the FRRO Advisory Board for their advice and contributions both at the conference in London in 2014 (at which these papers received their initial presentation) and throughout the project, and in particular, we are grateful to Professor Gesine Manuwald, who hosted the conference at University College London; to the project’s two PhD students, Christopher Burden-Stevens and Jennifer Hilder; to Zara Chadha, editorial assistant on the FRRO project; to Joel Leslie, who compiled the index at short notice; and above all to Richard Marshall, research associate on the FRRO project, without whose tactful, meticulous and persistent editorial work this volume would have been much slower to reach completion.
