

GREAT CHRISTIAN JURISTS IN THE LOW COUNTRIES

What impact has Christianity had on law and policy-making in the Lowlands from the eleventh century through the end of the twentieth century? Taking the gradual “secularization” of European legal culture as a framework, this volume explores the lives and times of twenty legal scholars and professionals to study the historical impact of the Christian faith on legal and political life in the Low Countries. The process whereby Christian belief systems gradually lost their impact on the regulation of secular affairs passed through several stages, not in the least the Protestant Reformation, which led to the separation of the Low Countries in a Protestant North and a Catholic South in the first place. The contributions take up general issues such as the relationship between justice and mercy, Christianity and politics as well as more technical topics of state-church law, criminal law and social policy.

Wim Decock holds the chair of Roman Law and Legal History at the University of Louvain (UCLouvain). He is the author of the prize-winning books Theologians and Contract Law (2013) and Le marché du mérite (2019). In 2014, he was awarded the H.M. Leibnitz-Prize by the German Research Foundation.

Janwillem Oosterhuis is Assistant Professor in the Department of Methods and Foundations of Law at Maastricht University. He is the author of Specific Performance in German, French and Dutch Law in the Nineteenth Century (2011).

The Law and Christianity series publishes cutting-edge work on Catholic, Protestant, and Orthodox Christian contributions to public, private, penal, and procedural law and legal theory. The series aims to promote deep Christian reflection by leading scholars on the fundamentals of law and politics, to build further ecumenical legal understanding across Christian denominations, and to link and amplify the diverse and sometimes isolated Christian legal voices and visions at work in the academy. Works collected by the series include groundbreaking monographs, historical and thematic anthologies, and translations by leading scholars around the globe.
