Index

3D law. See Three-dimensional law
Abbot, Francis Ellingwood, 285
Abbot, Henry, 454
Abraham, Kenneth S., 469, 483
Abras v. United States, 169, 461
Acheson, Dean, 140
Adams, Brooks, 461
Adams, Henry, 204, 253–54, 261, 285, 454, 461
The Education of Henry Adams, 10
Adler, Mortimer J., 211, 456
Aeschylus, 126
Alberstein, Michal, 216, 249, 453
Allen, William, 345
Alschuler, Albert W., 252, 254
Aronson, Moses J., 216–20, 222
Atiyah, P. S., 210, 436
Auerbach, Jerold S., 345
Austin, John, 18, 113, 135, 370, 379–80, 414, 462–63
Bacon, Francis, 300, 311–12, 462
Badger, William V., 419
Baier, Paul R., 456
Bailey v. Alabama, 438
summary and discussion, 439
Bard, Douglas G., 255, 291, 436
Baker, J. H., 279
Baker, Liva, 258, 333, 353, 454
Balkin, J. M., 126
Bartlett, Sidney, 345, 349, 361
Bateman Eichler, Hill Richards, Inc. v. Berner, 41
Beard, Charles, 218
Berger, Raoul, 456–37
Berlin, Isaiah, 217, 466
Bezemek, Christoph, 282
on the “bad man”, 282–83
Biddle, Francis, 174
Bigelow, Melville, 108, 386, 408, 503
Bingham, Joseph Walter, 186, 213
Bishop, Joel Prentiss, 492
Blackstone, William, 49, 139, 404
on acts malae in se and mala prohibitae, 54–55
on the sublimity of the common law, 55–56
Boorstin, Daniel J., 54, 36, 180
Boston, Charles A., 258
Boston’s Tavern Club, 448
Bouquet, Paul, 448
Bowen, Catherine Drinker, 59, 107
Boyd, Susan K., 356
Bradford, William, 55
Brandes, Louis D., 106, 432, 456
Breen, John M., 173
Brewer, Scott, 263
Bricolage, 125, 441
Briggs, Charles W., 199
Brown, Henry B., 324
Brown v. United States, 409
Bryce, James, 358–59, 366
on Roman law as propaedeutic, 358–59
The Academical Study of the Civil Law
summary, 358–59
Buck v. Bell, 178
Budiansky, Stephen, 433, 454
Burke, Edmund, 96, 353, 357, 419
Burrow, J. W., 209
Burton, David H., 178, 335

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org
Cardozo, Benjamin N., 186, 199, 345, 369
Carter, James C., 325
Cavell, Stanley, 453
Chartier, Gary, 282
Chase, Anthony, 279, 357
Chipman, Nathaniel, 54–55, 139
Choate, Joseph, 210
Choate, Rufus, 208
Chong, J. Y., 489
Clark, Charles E., 166, 235, 352
Cohen, Felix, 109, 148, 213, 446, 465
Cohen, Morris R., 105, 166, 446, 473
critique of The Law in Quest of Itself, 190–93
on the “bad man”, 192–93
on the principle of polarity, 188
Coke, Edward, 207, 439, 460–61
and the artificial reason of the law, 464–65
Collingwood, R. G., 494
Commonwealth v. Barry, 389
Commonwealth v. Lannam, 389
Commonwealth v. Rubins, 388–91, 394–96, See also Trespass ab initio Commonwealth v. Ryan, 389
Comte, Auguste, 289
Conkin, Paul K., 36, 353
Cook, Charles M., Jr.
 correspondence with Holmes regarding contracts, 170–72
on Holmes as legal scientist, 168–72
on Holmes’s separation of law and morals, 169–71
on the “bad man”, 171
on the logic of inquiry, 166–67
on the scientific viewpoint, 168
Correggio, Antonio da, 327, 403, 481
Cosgrove, Richard A., 56, 324, 460
Dailey, Anne, 72, 211
Daniels, George H., 300
Dennett, Daniel C., 126
Derrick v. Wallace, 39
Development of legal doctrine distinguishing feature for Holmes, 313–14
Holmes compared to Langdell, 303
Dewey, John, 89, 166, 172, 194, 218, 222, 371, 410
on law’s practical office, 409–10
Diamond, Alan, 87
Dicy, Albert Venn, 304–5, 448
Donnelly v. U.S., 426
Dostoyevsky, Fyodor, 203
Duty. See Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr.: legal duty: on the nature of types as categories of exposition, 135, 143, 146, 171
Duxbury, Neil, 86, 212, 440, 493
Edwards, Jonathan, 351
Ehlich, Eugen, 496
Eliot, Charles Williams, 279, 337, 361, 492
on the rise of the legal academic, 491–92
Elliott, E. Donald, 284, 290, 435
Emerson, Ralph Waldo, 81, 139, 172, 203, 253, 275, 277, 333, 354, 356, 439, 453
Ezra v. Wilmarth, 391
Feldman, Stephen M., 55
Ferguson, Robert A., 459
Finch, Gerald B., 361
Fisch, Max H., 221–22, 242
on the origins of legal pragmatism, 221–22
Fisher, William W., III, 345
Forain, Jean-Louis, 372
Ford, John C., 177, 199
Frank, Jerome, 115, 149, 154–55, 159, 186, 197, 217, 219, 222, 230, 292, 309, 491
on Holmes and the “bad man”, 147–49
on non-Euclidean legal thinking, 147–48
Frankfurter, Felix, 111, 165, 195, 199, 495
Freund, Paul, 196
Fried, Barbara H., 440
Friedman, Lawrence M., 2–3, 23, 25–26, 57, 65
Fuller, Lon L., 199–201, 203, 206–9, 212, 217, 219, 252, 468, 503
on Holmes and totalitarianism, 194–95
on Holmes’s moral skepticism, 201
on legal positivism, 189–90
on legal positivism and natural law, 190
on scientific attitude and legal study, 187–88
on the “bad man”, 191–92
on the literary tradition in law, 186–87
on the separation of law and morals, 193–95
principle of polarity use of, 888–89
Garner, Bryan A., 469
Garth, Bryant, 23
Gavison, Ruth, 211
Gawalt, Gerard W., 484
Gibian, Peter, 321
Gillette, Clayton P., 105
Golding, Martin P., 405
Gordon, Robert W., 61, 74, 124, 284, 335
critique of LaPiana, 318
on Holmes’s performance as historian, 60
Grant, Susan-Mary, 81
Gray, John Chipman, 151, 195, 255, 327, 420, 424, 427, 429, 492
Green, Nicholas St. John, 120, 222–23, 235, 281, 316

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org
Index

Gregg, Paul L., 177, 186
Gresham Commission, 366
Grey, Thomas C., 222, 284–85, 409, 469, 502
“Accidental Torts”
don “The Path of the Law”, 227–28
on Holmes’s use of “experience”, 97
on judicial remedies, 235–37
on legal pragmatism, 232–35
on perspectivism, 235
on the “bad man”, 230–32
on The Common Law, 67
on the coordinate practices of the law, 229–30
on the demands of legal education, 222
Grinnell, F. W., 499, 500
“The ‘Functioning’ of the Judicial Intellect”
summary and discussion, 345
on “Daniel S. Richardson”, 347
on “John Marshall”, 346
Haack, Susan, 222, 284, 502
on “Learning and Science”, 244–45
on the “bad man”, 248
on the “bad man” and “The Path of the Law”, 245–47
on the pragmatist spirit, 243
Haber, Samuel, 24, 28
Hale, Robert
on Holmes and the “bad man”, 440–41
Hamilton, Walton H., 138, 180
Hammond, William Gardiner, 29, 222, 320, 409
on the legal academy, 401
Hand, Learned, 185
Harlan, John Marshall, 254
critique of the prediction theory of law, 268
on the “bad man”, 220
on The Common Law, 80–81
Hart, Henry M. Jr., 212, 218, 220, 227, 284, 468, 494
on “The Path of the Law”, 212–14, 216–17
on the “bad man”, 217
Healy, Thomas, 181
Heidegger, Martin, 204
Hemingway, Ernest, 444
Hegel, James, 28–29, 31
Hesse, Herman, 282
Hill, James J., 126, 139, 172
Hinsfeld, Alan W., 140
History
and the temporal dimensions of experience, 102–8
as a means for creating dimensionality, 335, 396–97
sense of and actuality, 180
Hofmich, M. H., 363
Hooper v. Tax Comm. of Wisconsin, 433
Hoffheimer, Michael H., 165, 180
Hohfeld, Wesley Newcomb, 430, 440
Hollinger, David A., 188, 461
Holmes, Fanny, 454
Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr., 358
“1872 Jurisprudence Essay”, 425, 474–75
summary and discussion, 37–41
“Address at Brown University Commencement”, 456
“Address at Tavern Club Dinner”
summary and discussion, 447–49
“Address to Middlesex Bar”
summary and discussion, 449–52
“bad man”
and defeasibility, 426
and the modeling of Holmes’s jurisprudence, 418
as a projection, 261–65, 416–19
as heuristic, 219, 407
as personification of legal point of view, 23, 118, 128
as tool for perfectionist professional judgment, 364, 441–42
diagramming his function, 421–23
first explicit reference, 351
introduction in The Common Law, 115 “Codes, and the Arrangement of the Law”, 444
summary and discussion, 25
“Common Carriers and the Common Law”, 79, 126
“Daniel S. Richardson”, 7, 344
“Early English Equity”, 315, 435
“George Otis Shattuck”, 344
summary and discussion, 337–43
“Introduction to the General Survey”, 466, 505
“Just the Boy Wanted”, 354, 364, 410, 475, 499
summary and discussion, 348–53
“Law and the Court”, 461
“Law in Science and Science in Law”
basic problem for legal education, 398
contract historical antecedents of, 434–37
development of discipline, 381
on establishing law’s postulates, 124–25, 465–66
on history as a practical form of explanation, 400
on inflated and unreal explanations, 391–93
on legal dogma and teaching methods, 407–13
on perfecting professional judgments, 402–3
on the measure of social desires from within the practice, 395–97
Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr. (cont.)
on the paucity of original ideas, 484
on the value of historical study, 38–86
stating fundamental theorem of the law, 112, 489
use of critical history, 393
“Learning and Science”, 384, 466
summary and discussion, 325–26, 335–37
the oblivion of learning, 328
“Misunderstandings of the Civil Law”
summary and discussion, 301–83
“Montesquieu”, 319, 327–8, 402
“Natural Law”, 386, 458
summary and discussion, 180–83
“Note” on Harvard Law School
summary and discussion, 376–77
“On Receiving the Degree of Doctor of Laws”, 352
summary and discussion, 332
“Prize Vole in Modern Law, No. 1”, 64,
75, 137, 391, 502
“Privilege, Malice, and Intent”, 460
dimensionality of intent, 483–87
illustrating the development of the discipline
of law from practice, 407–87
on legislative questions and self-reflexivity, 473–75
on temporal harm or damage, 469–70
self-reflexivity as a source of law, 475–76
summary and discussion, 467–87
use of external standard to demarcate legal landscape, 471–73
“prophecy” or “prophesy” use of, 262–64, 410–12, 425
“Radio Address”, 258–59 “Review of [James Bryce’s] Academical Study of the Civil Law”
summary and discussion, 444–45, 452–53,
456–57
“Sidney Bartlett”, 343
“Speech to Bar Association of Boston”
summary and discussion, 444–45, 452–53,
456–57
“The Bar as a Profession”, 355–56, 415
on the study of Roman law, 359
summary and discussion, 363–69
“The Law”
summary and discussion, 459–64
“The Path of the Law”
alternate or working titles, 4
compared to “The Use of Law Schools”, 370–72
connection to The Common Law, 109–10
critique of history and tradition, 382–85
delivery of address, 1–2
mature statement on legal pedagogy, 419–21
multivalency, 34
on committing a tort or contract, 433–34
on history as a practical form of explanation, 400
on improving professional judgments, 408
on legal dogma, 110–11, 407–9, 412–13
on prescription and statute of limitations, 500, 504
on prophecies and professional judgments, 410–12
on the process of legal reasoning, 370–72, 415–17
on the value of historical study, 386–86
prediction as professional judgment in active mode, 379–80
purpose, 4
titled, 3–4
use of “in fact”, 425–26
use of history, 381–83
“The Profession of the Law”
summary and discussion, 330–32
“The Puritan”, 351
summary and discussion, 328–30
“The Soldier’s Faith”
summary and discussion, 203–6, 444–45
“The Theory of Torts”, 346, 425, 474
summary and discussion, 57–64
“The Use of Law Schools”, 352
summary and discussion, 273–74
on cultivation as the goal, 382
on moral education, 454
role of law schools, 454–55
summary, 270–71
“Trespass and Negligence”, 466
“William Allen”, 344
as self-identified pedagogue, 249, 327
Civil War as moral experience, 10, 81–82, 204–6, 453
criticisms of his performance as historian, 60
critique of his jurisprudence, 415–16
faith
compared to William James, 444–46
effort as object and source, 453–59
in law, 251, 410
ideals of truth and democratic freedom, 329, 379–82, 384
on democracy, 352
intuition or tacit knowledge use of, 56–62
legal duty
on the nature of, 51–56, 72–73, 380
refinements in expression, 423–30
legal education objective, 361
legal landmarks or vanishing points use of, 77–80
legal pedagogy, See also Legal education
basic problem, 319–21
critique of Harvard’s approach, 381–83
methods, 163
legal profession
as moral experience, 10, 204–6, 455–58
unique dignity, 446–47
legal right as hypostasis of prophecy, 438–39
on “felt reconciliations”, 277, 317
on “theologian” use of term, 304–5, 309
on “think things not words”, 430, 467
on acts making in se, 55
on Chauncey Wright, 465
on codes of law, 27–28
on codification, 38
on codification and legal education, 29, 361
on contracts
as a legal generalization, 438–39
common law understanding, 119–21
conditions, 116–21
critique of Langdell, 116–21 contract as a legal event, 118–19, 288–89
loss of control as defining feature, 437, 440
meaning of “commit a contract”, 117, 170–71, 434
origin and evolution, 444–46
rejecting the idea that a contract is an option, 439–37
on cultural-spatial location, 352
on education, 113–14
on fallibilism and its charms, 319
on fallibilism and legal reform, 182, 304
on fashion and present needs, 450–51
on feeling as a source of law, 61–62, 312–15
on forms of understanding proper to American law, 360
on fundamental theorem of law, 96–113, 438–59
as basis for legal education, 406–67
on grounding law’s postulates, 124–26
on his unsuccessful efforts to coordinate learning and science, 386–88
on historical perspective, 71–72
on history
its role in legal education, 381–83
on intentional torts, 483–84
on John Austin’s definition of law, 33–34, 37–38, 380
on John Chipman Gray and the ideal of legal learning, 396–97
on jurisprudential boundaries, 36–45, 142–43, 430–31
on Langdell
basic problem of legal pedagogy, 319–21
critique, 277–79, 304–5, 309–10, 318
reviews of casebook on contracts, 276–77, 314, 317–18
on law and its study
development of Holmes’s ideas, 356–63
on law as a corporate calling, 279–82
on law as a path to the higher reaches of the mind, 356
on law as a statement of circumstances, 427–32
on law as an arbitrary fact, 428–10
on law as an empirical discipline, 35
on law as an organic whole, 449–50
on law as combined social action, 123–24
on law’s actuality, 76, 98–100, 121
on lawyers’ law, 97
on legal dogma and teaching methods, 407
on legal profession
function in democratic society, 342–44
recourse to its own experience, 111–12
on living greatly in the law, 463–64
on mapping the common law, 30–31
on perfecting professional judgments, 402–3
on perspective as the goal of legal pedagogy, 378–80
on policy rationalizations, 60
on postulates and their formation, 310, 312–13, 316–17
on psychology and the limits of historical explanation, 105
on resultant in law, 315–17, 369–69, 451–52, 484
on role of jurisprudential critique, 113–15
on Roman jurists’ lack of historical perspective, 71–72
on self-devotion, 331–32, 369–70
on sovereignty (personal), 428–29
on sovereignty (territorial), 428–29
on temporal harm or damage, 469–70
on the common law as a system, 55–56
on the development of legal doctrine, 362, See also Development of legal doctrine on the function of the jury, 63
on the law of fashion, 55, 180
on the limitations of the civil law, 36
on the love of honor, 332
on the magnetic polarity between generations, 240–47
on the past and self-exertion, 331–35, 384
on the spontaneous action of intelligence, 60
on the study of jurisprudence, 370–71
on the triangulation of viewpoints, 80–90
on the use of facts in determining what is the law, 63
Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr. (cont.)
on the use of intuition or tacit knowledge, 53
on the value of a university education, 363–65
on tradition, 450
praise of the case method, 271
Rideout v. Knox
summary and discussion, 477–83
use of temporal harm to create three-dimensionality, 477–83 Roman law
argument against its use as a propaedeutic, 539–65
comparison to common law, 370–72
Speeches
style of composition, 321–34
stereoscopic view of law, 432–33
The Common Law
cultural positioning, 72–73
Holmes’s unique approach, 86–87
illustrating Holmes’s jurisprudential method, 415
imperative at the heart of the book, 98–100 liability formation and forms, 69–80
on internal standard deficiencies, 85–86
shift to external standard, 83–90
on theories of punishment, 84
paradox of substance and form, 99–100 Plank of Carneades, 263
revenge as a source of law, 71
revenge as an example of a “felt necessity”, 61
revenge’s role in law, 102–4
style and purpose, 67–69
use of apperception, 69–70
use of experience and history, 97–100
use of history, 70–71
Holmes, Oliver Wendell Sr., 9, 321
Holmes, Sherlock, 201
Holmes Stereoscope, 9
Horwitz, Morton J., 4, 83, 440, 467–68
on “Privilege, Malice, and Intent”, 467
Hovenkamp, Herbert, 280, 474, 488
Howe, Mark A. DeWolfe, 33, 75, 82, 103, 115, 128, 165, 185, 195, 213, 218, 220, 260, 337, 357, 433, 448, 469, 503, 506 critique of Fuller, 199–203
on “Natural Law”, 210
on “The Path of the Law”, 207–8
on “The Soldier’s Faith”, 202–3
on Holmes’s notion of a legal duty, 40, 42–45
on Holmes’s performance as historian, 61, 111
on Holmes’s reverence for the law, 141
on Holmes’s sense of purpose, 196–97
on Holmes’s skepticism, 206–7
on positivism in American law, 200
on the “bad man”, 208–10
on The Common Law, 68, 207
on the origins of legal pragmatism, 222
on the romantic elements in Holmes’s thought, 211–12
on the significance of The Common Law, 402 on the static and dynamic elements in Holmes’s thought, 207–9
on vengeance and the principle of responsiveness, 88
on Westbrook Pegler, 129
response to Henry M. Hart, Jr., 217
Hudson Water Co. v. McGuire, 125
Hughes, Charles Evans, 258, 433
Hull, N. E. H., 125, 157
Hume, David, 282
Hurst, James Willard, 12, 22, 50, 68, 70–71, 80, 82, 93, 139, 377, 418, 476, 501–2
introduction to lectures on Holmes and legal history, 100–2
Justice Holmes on Legal History
critique, 154–269
on “ordering society”, 46
on “The Use of Law Schools”, 269
on context as a category of experience, 108–26
on Holmes and Brandeis, 106–7
on Holmes’s use of experience and history, 97–100
on Holmes’s use of history, 102–4
on psychology and the limits of historical explanation, 106
on sequence as a category of experience, 102–6
on the “living law”, 98
on the life of the law, 56
on time and the legal order, 77
Intraprofessional awareness. See Three-dimensional law
Jackman v. Rosenbaum Co., 416
James, Henry, 253–54, 261
James, William, 144, 194, 198, 457, 474
“Is Life Worth Living?”, 254, 443
on “Speech to the Bar Association of Boston”, 443–44
Jimenez, Marco
on the “bad man”, 286–87
Jonsen, Albert R., 469
Judson, Clara Ingram, 197
Kaczorowski, Robert J., 488, 493
Kagan, Robert A., 23
Kang, John M., 81, 334, 461
Kant, Immanuel, 340
Kawananokoa v. Polyblank, 153
Keener, William A., 271–72, 277, 420, 492
Kellen, William V., 1
Kelley, Patrick J., 117, 120, 290
Kellogg, Frederic R., 31–32, 37–38, 80–81, 123, 125, 181, 213, 222, 280, 502
on abstracting, 123
on Austin and Holmes and legal duty, 223
on Holmes abandoning the notion of a legal duty, 42
on Holmes and legal logic, 310
on Holmes and the nonlogical origins of law, 244
on Holmes and the pragmatic maxim, 224–25
on Holmes's social indeterminism, 371
on Nicholas St. John Green, 223–24
on The Common Law, 67
on the prediction theory of law as heuristics, 225–26
Kennedy, Duncan, 312, 315, 407
Kennedy, William, 173
Kent, James, 210, 474
Kevelson, Roberta, 50, 375
Kimball, Bruce A., 2, 276, 305, 337, 357
on Langdell's three-dimensional mode of reasoning, 357
on the paradox of substance and form, 272–73
on three-dimensional law, 272–73
Kipling, Rudyard, 446
Kocher, Paul H.
on legal maxims, 462–63
Kornstein, Daniel, 58, 278, 426
Kronman, Anthony T.
description of a "legal sociopath", 254
Krutch, Joseph Wood, 140
Kuhn v. Fairmont Coal Co., 150

Lacey, Nicola, 103
Langdell, Christopher Columbus, 2, 116, 277, 327, 337, 350–57, 400, 408, 413, 419–20, 405, 491–92
jurisconsult self-perception as, 275
legal education objective, 361
method of legal study, 275–76
on contractual conditions, 116
LaPiana, William P., 2–3, 271, 274, 279, 305, 330, 337, 345, 348, 357
on "The Use of Law Schools", 269–70
on Holmes, 314–15
on Langdell and the importance of legal procedure, 299–303
on Langdell's contributions to legal education, 300

on Langdell's use of legal technique, 302–3
on Langdell's use of procedural facts, 318
Laski, Harold J., 162, 197, 272, 288, 506
Lasswell, Harold D., 456
Lavery, Emmet, 197
Law
and “actual forces”, 427
antiquity and futurity, 263–64, 416–17
as a discipline of power, 370–71
as a matrix, 356
as a statement of circumstances. See Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr., on law as a statement of circumstances as muddled force, 251
as the ethos of the profession, 378–79
development of discipline from practice, 381 expanding its capacity to be known (knowability), 98–100, 121–30
meaning of “knowability”, 122
ineradicable temporal component for Holmes, 431–32
mode of study, 335–36
persistance of operative legal concepts, 264–65
Le Roy Fibre Co. v. Chicago, M. & S. P. Railway, 433
Legal education, See also Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr., legal pedagogy development of Holmes’s ideas on, 356–63
objective, 361
overcoming time constraints, 361
purpose, 372, 466–67
Legal events
basic units of legal study, 146
formation or emergence, 426
Legal point of view. See Purely legal point of view
Lehman, R. C., 448
Lerner, Max, 8, 149–99
Lévi-Strauss, Claude, 123–26
Levy, Leonard W., 57
Lincoln, Abraham, 356
Lippmann, Walter, 493
Little, Eleanor, 306
Llewelyn, Karl N., 115, 125, 186, 197, 213, 215
summary and discussion, 494–99
on “vitality”, 264
on the primacy of procedure, 314
Lobban, Michael, 31, 401, 460, 462, 467
Lochner v. New York, 152, 462
Index

Lord Chief Justice. See Russell, Charles
Lovejoy, Arthur O., 217
Luban, David J., 231, 458, 462, 464
on the purpose of “The Path of the Law”, 4 Lucey, Francis E., 133, 194, 199, 249, 252, 459, 502
critique of Holmes’s idea of law, 185
on Holmes’s “can’t help”, 179
on Holmes’s guile, 184–85
on Holmes’s lack of concern for individual dignity, 174–77
on natural law and natural rights, 175–76
on the “bad man”, 180–85
on the teaching methods of the law schools, 176–78
Lundquist, William A., 469
Luther, Martin, 179, 459

Magistrate’s intuition. See Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr.: intuition or tacit knowledge
use of Maine, Henry Sumner, 86–88, 206, 303, 358, 370, 397
Maitland, Frederic William, 372
on tough law, 408
Malone, Michael P., 139
Mandeville, Bernard, 493
McKinnon, Harold R., 108
on the “bad man”, 168–99
Medema, Steven G., 440
Menand, Louis, 71, 101, 257, 322, 454
on Holmes’s use of “experience”, 97
Mendell, Mark Steven, 215, 226
Mendenhall, Allen, 180, 326–27
on the Holmes aesthetic, 322–23
Mercuro, Nicholas, 440
Merton, Thomas, 228
Metric of the law, 8
as tool for advancing legal knowledge, 124–28, 209
for organizing social desires, 124–28
Holmes’s effort to articulate, 115
introduction of topic, 13
purpose, 315
Miller, Perry, 54–55, 242, 353, 459
on American hostility to the common law, 25
Minow, Martha, 489
Mitchell, S. Weir, 448
Moore, Underhill, 186
Morse, John T. Jr., 337
Morse, Robert, 360
Nansen, Fridtjof, 340
Nat’l Bank & Loan Co. v. Petrie, 40

on “moral proof”, 311
on antecedent probability, 311–12
on development idea of, 306–9
on postulates and their formation, 310–12
Niebuhr, Barthold Georg, 312
Niebuhr, Reinhold, 189
Nietzsche, Friedrich, 169, 203, 235, 333, 344
Noonan, John T. Jr., 121, 419, 429–30, 432
on Holmes and American Banana, 427–28
Northern Securities v. United States, 392
Novak, William J., 65
Novick, Sheldon M., 60, 71, 140, 221, 456, 503
on Holmes abandoning the notion of a legal duty, 42
on Holmes’s paradigm shift in law, 148–49
on Holmes’s reverence for the law, 141
on Holmes’s sense of dignity, 143
on Holmes’s table of duties, 143
on The Common Law, 68

O’Shaughnessy, James B., 177
Ortega y Gasset, Jose, 126
Osborn, John Jay Jr., 2
Outlaw, 39–40, 122, 421, 430, 432

Palmer, Ben W., 177, 198–99, 211
Palmer v. Gordon, 59
Parker, Joel, 357
Parker, Kunal, 280, 336, 409, 460, 467
Pater, Walter, 322
Path dependency, 104–5
Patterson, Edwin W., 233
Pegler, Westbrook, 199
Peirce, Charles Sanders, 221–22, 280, 317
Perillo, Joseph M., 120, 436
Perry, Ralph Barton, 443
Phelps, Edward J., 420
Plucknett, Theodore F. T., 61
Pocock, J. G. A., 435, 460, 464
Pohltman, H. L., 4, 124
on John Austin’s lack of legal learning, 52
on the vocation of the common law, 323–24
Pope, Alexander, 356
Pope, Herbert, 291
Posner, Richard A., 159, 208, 226, 242, 323, 399, 494–95
on duties and other social acts, 144
on Holmes and contracts, 436
on path dependency and Holmes, 104
on the supersession of law, 8

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org
Index

Stoffela v. Nugent, 39
Storey, Moorfield, 255
Story, Joseph, 210, 370, 386–87, 401, 464
Strang, Lee J., 173
Stromberg, Roland N., 36
Subrin, Stephen N., 25
Summers, Robert Samuel, 212, 368
Tacitus, 434
Tarde, Gabriel, 397
Taylor, Charles, 136
Thackeray, William Makepeace, 353, 357
Thayer, James Bradley, 106, 285, 327, 386, 408, 503
on Langdell and legal pedagogy, 449–50
on the role of the legal scholar, 400–2
response to “The Path of the Law”, 400–2
The Youth’s Companion, 348
Three-dimensional law, 10–11, 481
arising from a self-aware present, 112
dimensionality and purposive activity, 368–69
introduction of topic, 8–11
role of duty and legal event, 369–70
sense of depth, 93–100, 334–35
creation of, 388–97
view of, 387
Tiedeman, Christopher G., 420
Toulmin, Stephen, 496
Touster, Saul, 72, 197, 304
Trespass ab initio
discussion, 388–94
example of a survival, 394–95
Tufts, James H., 147–48, 210, 231, 502
comparing Holmes and William James, 144
on the “bad man” and morality, 144–47
Twining, William, 5, 23, 358
on legal education, 403–5
on legal education and legal theory, 5
on the “bad man”, 405–7
on the purpose of “The Path of the Law”, 4–6
Tyler, John, 361
Union P.R. Co. v. Public Serv. Co., 437
Valverde, Mariana, 464
Vanderveele, Kenneth J., 467, 483
Vanishing point, 87 See also Holmes, Oliver Wendell Jr. legal landmarks or vanishing points, use of as essential for cultural formation, 329–30
as organizer of perceptions, 470
Holmes’s use of, 48
mentioned in letter to James Bryce, 59
mentioned in letter to William James, 59
Vebelen, Thorstein, 214, 215, 488, 496
Vegelahn v. Gunter, 473
Verisimilitude, new plane of, 482
as basis for new teaching method, 408
Holmes’s desire to move to, 125–26
Vico, Giambattista, 149
Wald, Gustavus H., 325
Weaver, William G., 331
Weber, Max, 256, 496
on the meaning of science, 258
Weinberg, Louise, 352
Weiss, Gunther A., 25
Wells, Catharine Pierce, 183, 222, 276, 300, 502
on generalizations, 239–40
on Holmes’s intellectual openness, 241–42
on the “bad man”, 283, 288, 290
on the pragmatic presuppositions of Holmes’s thought, 258–59
West, Robin L., 136, 488
Whewell, William, 571
White, G. Edward, 35, 83, 86, 178, 271, 273, 286, 333, 357, 432, 467, 469, 483 on Holmes’s “Radio Address”, 442
on Holmes’s use of “revenge” and “culpability”, 63
on John Zane’s effect on Holmes, 151
on legal education, 300
on Speeches, 343
on The Common Law, 67
on the defining characteristic of tort law, 484
on the intraprofessional perspective in The Common Law, 87
on the Jesuit attack on Holmes, 173
White, Morton G., 217, 220–21, 305
on “The Path of the Law”, 213–16
on historicism and cultural organicism, 104
on the “bad man”, 215
Whitman, Walt, 454
Wiener, Frederick Bernays, 456
Wiener, Philip P., 229, 223, 285, 316, 446
Wigmore, John, 151
Wilcox, William H., 456
Wilson, Edmund, 323, 326–27
on Holmes, 260–61
on the Holmes aesthetic, 321–22
Wilson, Robert J., 453
Woodard, Calvin, 87
Wordsworth, William, 326, 340
Wright, Chauncey, 285, 465
on the parallax of philosophical standpoints, 285–86
Wright, R. S., 297
Wu, John C. H., 433
Index

Yntema, Hessel E., 5, 142, 169, 172, 197, 219, 382, 495, 497, 502 on “The Path of the Law’s” canons of legal study, 160–63 on “The Path of the Law” and “Law in Science and Science in Law”, 155–64
on historical study, 398–400
on Holmes’s rational ideal, 163–65
on Holmes’s theory of legal history, 156–60, 397–99
on paradox of substance and form, 398–99
on the “bad man”, 160–61, 230
on The Common Law, 68
on the purpose of “The Path of the Law”, 5
Zane, John, 133, 155, 172–73, 177, 184–85, 198, 219, 252, 427, 502
critique of Holmes’s idea of law, 149–55
on John Chipman Gray’s The Nature and Sources of Law, 153 Zobel, Hiller B., 400

517