Index

affect, dirt and, 65–69
age demographics of cleaners, 41 exclusion, inclusion and identification based on, 91 air pollution, cleaners’ exposure to, 72–74
Alex (pseudonym), profile of, 46–50 Ali (pseudonym)
post-COVID trajectory for, 158–159
profile of, 50–54
status given to, 121–122
The Anatomy of Disgust (Miller), 70
Anton (CleanUp foreman)
(pseudonym), 22
apprenticeships in cleaning, workers’ attitudes about, 48 architecture in Potsdamer Platz, 14–20 asymmetric relations, client encounters with cleaners and, 103–104 Auffangbecken (catch basin), CleanUp’s diversity image as, 43–45 Augé, Marc, 12–14
autonomy of workers resistance to surveillance as, 142–145 shortcuts in work and, 74–76 avoidance rituals, client encounters with workers and, 113–115 Bartmann, Christoph, 153 basement room of Potsdamer Platz smells of garbage in, 67 workers’ use of, 28–33
Bearman, Peter, 122, 126n.63
Bergson, Henri, 70–71
Berlin, Germany, economic conditions in, 17n.18
Berlin International Film Festival (Berlinale), 18–19 boredom, cleaners’ fight against, 75–76 break times for cleaners conditions of break areas, 28–33 improvised break times, 142–145 work-related duties during, 142–145 Certeau, Michel de, 134, 143 class structure
cleaners’ resistance to, 150 corporate reinforcement of, 35–38 privatization of urban space and, 19–20 researcher’s encounter with cleaners and, 147 in underworld of cleaning, 84–87 cleaners. See also invisibility of cleaning work; profiles of individual (pseudonymous) cleaners anti-surveillance tactics of, 127–128 cleaners’ attitudes about, 7–8, 60–62
CleanUp’s attitudes concerning, 43–45 conflicts between, 82–84 confrontations with surveillance by, 134–142 COVID pandemic impact on, 157–160 dignity in work of, 8–10, 148–152 diversity of cleaners’ backgrounds, 39 encounters with clients and, 102–105 endlessness of work and, 76–78 families involved in, 46–50 fieldwork methodology in ethnographic study of, 161–170 gendered division of labor in, 41 guest workers involved in, 50–54 hierarchy of workers in, 20–24 historical evolution of, 40 market growth for, 5–6 monitoring of other cleaners, 131 non-person status of, 110–113

189 cleaners. (cont.)
occupational training for, 41 outsourcing of, 5–6, 20–24, 40–41 personal encounters in the upperworld by, 110–122 physical strength required for, 72–74
post-COVID trajectory for, 157–160 post-research developments for, 157–160 pride of workers in, 7–8 profiles of individual cleaners, 45–46 researcher’s encounter with, 147 resentment of wealth and exclusivity among, 109–110 reverse surveillance of management by, 138–142 shortcuts used by, 75–76 social interactions outside work, 80–82 stigmatization of work in, 40–43 surveillance of, 128–133 training and guidelines for, 3 ubiquitous presence of, 2 work-related social interactions and, 52–53

CleanUp (pseudonym)
autonomy of workers at, 74–76 client interaction training at, 103 diversity of cleaners’ backgrounds at, 39 employees at, 3
lack of support for cleaners from, 117 loss of Potsdamer Platz contract by, 157–160 as outsourced cleaning service, 5–6 post-research interview with management of, 169–170 “Prestige object” contracts sought by, 20–24 profile of company, 43–45 promotion system of, 44–45, 52–53 smiley system at, 82–84 social interaction of staff in, 80–82 corporate underworld, cleaners as part of, 7–8 COVID pandemic, impact on cleaners of, 157–160 criminal activities, cleaners’ involvement in, 46–50 cultural affiliations cleanliness linked to morality, 108
East and West German differentiation in, 51
cultural events, Potsdamer Platz as hub for, 18–19

Daimler AG, 17
Daimler Financial Services, 17
Das Messie Team (television show), 85
deference, client encounters with, 103–104
Der Bundesinnungsverband des Gebäudereinger-Handwerks (federal cleaning trade association), 43
detergents
health effects of, 72–74
workers’ reliance on, 67–68
Deutsche Bahn, 17

clients
appreciation of cleaners by, 119–122 cleaners’ encounters with, 102–105 face-to-face confrontations with, 115–118 visibility of cleaners to, 123–124 non-person status of cleaners for, 110–113 rudeness to cleaners from, 113–115

Coercive surveillance, resistance as trigger for, 143n.34 Collinson, David, 140–141 communication, cleaners’ blocking of, 135–138 conflict between cleaners incidents of, 82–84
racism and, 91–99
sexism and, 87–91
corporate markets, Potsdamer Platz and, 18–20
deference, client encounters with, 103–104
East and West German differentiation in, 51
racism and, 91–99
cultural events, Potsdamer Platz as hub for, 18–19
Das Messie Team (television show), 85
deference, client encounters with, 103–104
Der Bundesinnungsverband des Gebäudereinger-Handwerks (federal cleaning trade association), 43
detergents
health effects of, 72–74
workers’ reliance on, 67–68
Deutsche Bahn, 17

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org
Index

differentiation among cleaners, 82–84 workers’ embrace of, 99–101 dignity of cleaners. See also dramas of dignity, for cleaners chemical as route to, 8–10, 48–49, 60–62
client-cleaner encounters and protection of, 115
face-to-face client-cleaner
confrontations and, 115–118 materiality of dirt and, 78–79 resistance to surveillance and,
142–145
undermining of, 148–152
upperworld as threat to,
124–126
valorization of cleaning as path to,
75–76
dirt
cleaners’ experience of, 63–64 detection skills of cleaners for, 64–65
materiality of, 78–79
persistence of, 76–78
wealth and exclusivity linked to, 109–110
dirty work, characterization of cleaning
as, 9–10, 42–43
disgust
cleaners’ feelings of, 65–69 humor and, 69–72
diversity of cleaning workforce, 7–8 CleanUp’s emphasis on, 43–45
Doormen (Bearman), 122
Douglas, Mary, 40, 64
dramas of dignity, for cleaners, 8–10, 80–82, 99–101, 148–152. See also dignity of cleaners dropout, as cleaners, 59–60 economic conditions, persistence of East and West differentiation concerning, 51
education levels, class identity and,
86–87
elevators, client-cleaner encounters in, 111, 113–115, 121–122
environmental issues, detergents and,
67–68
equipment
cleaners’ competition over, 28–33 quality issues with, 76–78 ethical issues in research participant as observer status and, 161–170
exclusivity, cleaners’ annexation of,
106–107
face-to-face confrontations, client-cleaner encounters as, 115–118 Fanon, Frantz, 111
foreign workers
in cleaning industry, 41
racism concerning, 91–99
foremen
client encounters with, 102–105 inspection rounds by, 131–133 responsibilities of, 22, 75 surveillance of workers by, 128–133, 135–138
Foucault, Michel, 129n.3
Fresfields, 17
garbage collection point, workplace conditions in, 25–28
Geertz, Clifford, 94
gendered division of labor in cleaning, 41, 47–48
stereotypes about, 87–91
German cleaners, racism among,
91–99
German reunification, persistence of East and West differentiation and, 51
gifts from clients, 119–122 gloves, cleaners’ reliance on, 67–68
Goffman, Erving, 103–104, 111–115, 123
Graham, Stephen, 19–20
guest workers (Gastarbeiter), cleaners
as, 50–54
Hall, Stuart, 83–84
health concerns of cleaners, 47, 49, 53 aches and injuries from work, 72–74 detergents and, 67–68
exposure to dirt and filth and, 65–69 Hidden Injuries of Class (Sennett & Cobb), 8
hierarchical status of workers cleaners place in, 20–24 client encounters with cleaners and, 103–104 debunking of upperworld and, 107–108 dignity of cleaners and, 148–152 importance to cleaners of, 99–101 Potsdamer Platz design as reinforcement of, 35–38
racism linked to, 91–99 re-emergence of servant society and, 152–153 stigmatization of cleaners and, 42–43 surveillance as sign of, 128–133 as threat to dignity, 124–126 Hochschild, Arlie, 103–104 homosocial reproduction, in workplace, 88n.11 Hughes, Everett, 8–9, 40n.3, 79, 99–100 humiliation, in client-cleaner encounters, 113–115 humor, disgust and, 69–72 IG BAU trade union, 43 immigrants. See foreign workers; migrant workers impression management, cleaners’ engagement in, 140 income inequality, cleaning work and, 6 industrial workers decaying employment for, 53–54 migration to cleaning by, 50–54 injuries, cleaners’ risk of, 72–74 inspection rounds, cleaners’ reaction to, 131–133 interaction knowledge, client encounters with cleaners, 103 invisibility of cleaners cleaners’ non-person status and, 110–113 clients’ perceptions of, 123–124
dignity and, 8–10
evidence of, 4–6, 35–38 rise of servant society and, 152–153 surveillance avoidance and, 135–142 verticalized urban planning and emphasis on, 20 visibility of surveillance and, 145–146 Kollhoff, Hans, 1–2
Kollhoff Tower, 14–20, 15n.9, 22
Kunda, Gideon, 168
language barriers for migrant cleaners, 54–56, 92n.19
racism linked to, 95–96
LaPorte, Dominique, 109–110
Laughter (Bergson), 70–71
Lefebvre, Henri, 14, 36–38
Leidner, Robin, 105
Lloyd, Harold, 153–156
Luisa (pseudonym), profile of, 54–56
post-COVID trajectory for, 158–160
Lyon, David, 131
The Making of the English Working Class (Thompson), 9n.29
The Managed Heart (Hochschild), 103–104
Marcel (pseudonym)
on disgust and humor, 71–72
profile of, 57–60
promotion to foreman, 157–160 work-related injuries of, 72–74 marginal work, cleaning as, 41–42 masculinity
cleaners’ identity linked to, 33–38, 87–91
resistance to surveillance and, 134–135
Mauss, Marcel, 120
McDonald’s (Potsdamer Platz), as cleaners’ gathering place, 33–35 media consumption, class identity linked to, 85 middle classes, reliance on servants by, 153 migrant workers
in cleaning industry, 41, 50–56
racism concerning, 91–99
militarism among cleaners, 57–60
Miller, William Ian, 70
minijob employment classification, cleaning positions and, 55 minimum wage laws in Germany, cleaners and, 6, 41–42 minus area. See also underworld cleaners’ occupation of, 1–4
Index

essentially contested space and, 37–38 labyrinthine passages in, 25–28 mobile phones
 cleaners’ disabling of, 135–138 surveillance of cleaners with, 128–133, 135–138 morality, cleanliness linked to, 108–110 non-persons, cleaners’ status as, 110–113 Norbert (CleanUp foreman) (pseudonym), responsibilities of, 22 observation, surveillance vs., 145n.39 occupational training
 cleaners’ attitudes about, 48
in cleaning industries, 41 otherness, cleaners’ engagement with, 148–152 outside work, reduction of surveillance in, 141–142 outsourcing of cleaning work, 5–6, 20–24, 40–41 participant as observer status ethnographic research using, 161–170 part-time workers, in cleaning, 41–42, 55 physical appearance, class identity linked to, 84–85 physical disability, threat to cleaners of, 72–74 physical strength, cleaners’ need for, 72–74 Piano, Renzo, 1–2
post-panopticon, disciplinary power of surveillance and, 129n.3
Potsdamer Platz magazine, 5–6
Potsdamerstraße, 12–14
The Practice of Everyday Life (de Certeau), 134 presence from below, cleaners’ status as, 35–38 prestige object cleaners’ lack of access to, 124–126 service work at Potsdamer Platz as, 20–24 PricewaterhouseCoopers, 17 private household service work, outsourcing of, 5–6 privatization of urban space, low-income displacement and, 19–20 professionalism, CleanUp’s emphasis on, 43–45, 60–62 Protestant work ethic, capitalism and, 61
Purity and Danger (Douglas), 64 racism among cleaners, 57–60 diversity management and, 91–99
Rancière, Jacques, 117
refusal of surveillance, cleaners’ resistance as, 134–135 research methodology in cleaning ethnography, 161–170 residential districts, class identity linked to, 85–86 right-wing politics
 racism among cleaners and, 91–99 workers’ involvement in, 57–60 rituals, social structures and, 94n.22
Rogers, Richard, 1–2, 21–22
Rollins, Judith, 103–104, 108, 111
Safety Last! (film), 153–156
Sayer, Andrew, 42
Schröder, Gerhard, 61
security guards, surveillance of workers by, 128–133 self-worth of cleaners, valorization of work and, 61–62, 100 Sennett, Richard, 8, 79 servant society, re-emergence of, 152–153 service workers cleaners in hierarchy of, 20–24
client encounters with, 103–104

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment

www.cambridge.org
service workers (cont.)
community in Potsdamer Platz of, 33–35 invisibility of, 152–153 third-party service-work providers of, 20–24 verticalized urbanization and invisibility of, 20 sexism in cleaners’ culture, 35–38 recruiting and promotion policies at CleanUp and, 87–91 sexual flirtations, cleaners’ engagement in, 33–35, 87–91 shame, dirt as source of, 78–79 Sherman, Rachel, 125n.57, 126n.63 shit cleaners’ attitudes about, 65–72
wealth and exclusivity linked to, 109–110 skin contact with dirt, cleaners’ anxieties concerning, 65–69 smells, cleaners’ awareness of, 65–69 smoking areas, workers’ use of, 25–28, 33–35 social drama of work, 8–9 client encounters with cleaners, 102–105 confrontations with surveillance, 134–142 differentiation in workers interactions and, 99–101
face-to-face client-cleaner
confrontations and, 115–118
non-person status of cleaners and, 110–113 outside social interactions, 80–82 personal encounters between workers and clients and, 110–122 work-related interactions, 52–53, 82–84
The Social Drama of Work (Hughes), 99–100
Sony Corporation, 17
spatial segregation
essentially contested space and, 35–38
in Potsdamer Platz, 12–14
surveillance avoidance and, 138–142
of upper and underworlds of cleaners, 35–38 Statue of Liberty, 153–156 status shield, client encounters with workers and, 103–104 stigmatization of cleaning class identity and, 86–87
cleaners’ resistance to, 78–79
dignity and, 8–10
public perceptions linked to, 42–43 work ethic as antidote to, 142–145 support networks for migrant workers, 54–56 surveillance cleaners’ tactics against, 127–128, 151–152 confrontations with, 134–142 disciplinary power of, 129n.3 invisibility of cleaning as resistance to, 135–142 observation vs., 145n.39 Potsdamer Platz system for, 128–133 refusal of cleaners to care about, 134–135 reverse surveillance, 138–142 turning off by cleaners of, 134–135 work ethic despite resistance to, 142–145 Surveillance Society (Lyon), 131
Systemrelevante Berufe (system-relevant occupations), 157–160 theft of cleaners’ belongings, 28–33
The Theory of the Leisure Class (Veblen), 112–113 Thompson, E. P., 9n.29, 150 toilets, cleaners’ anxieties over exposure to, 65–69 Tom (CleanUp account manager) (pseudonym) cleaners’ relationship to, 59–60
diversity management and, 91–99
offices of, 20–24
recruiting and promotion policies, 87–91 teamwork advocated by, 82–84 tourism, Potsdamer Platz and, 18–20 traceless cleaning, cleaners’ techniques for, 76–78
Index

Turkish workers, cultural differences among, 51 turning away tactics, cleaners’ surveillance avoidance using, 138–142 turning off tactics, cleaners’ surveillance avoidance using, 135–138 uncanniness of dirt, cleaners’ encounters with, 65–69 underclass, cleaners as part of, 84–87 underworld. See also minus area

American Dream icons in, 153–156 basement room in, 28–33 class structure of cleaners in, 84–87 cleaners’ references to, 1–6 drama of dignity in, 148–152
essentially contested space and, 37–38
visibility of, 145–146

verticalized architecture and urban planning Potsdamer Platz as example of, 19–20 underworld cleaning and, 5–6 visibility of surveillance, invisibility of cleaners and, 145–146 vomit, cleaning of, 67

wages
in cleaning industry, 6, 41–42
income inequality and, 123–124

Weber, Max, 61, 100
WeWork, 17

women cleaners
barriers for, 56
marginalization of, 41–42 roles assigned to, 87–91
surveillance of, 128–133

work ethic of cleaners dignity linked to, 75–76, 148–152 resistance to surveillance and persistence of, 142–145 working hours, for cleaners, 41–42 working poor, cleaners as, 6 working with the eye, cleaning shortcuts and, 74–76

workplace conditions for cleaners, 4–6, 41–42
cleaners’ attitudes about, 7–8 cleaners’ lockers and break areas, 28–33 injuries and discomfort from cleaning work, 72–74 social drama of work and, 8–9 social interactions among workers and, 82–84 surveillance systems and, 128–133 underworld labyrinth of Potsdamer Platz, 25–28

xenophobia, racism among cleaners and, 91–99

Žižek, Slavoj, 96
Zukin, Sharon, 19–20

Van Maanen, John, 168
Veblen, Thorstein, 112–113