GLOBAL PRO BONO

The principle and practice of pro bono, or volunteer legal services for the poor and other marginalized groups, is an increasingly important feature of justice systems around the world. Pro bono initiatives now exist in more than eighty countries – including Colombia, Portugal, Nigeria, and Singapore – and the list keeps growing. Covering the spread of pro bono across five continents, this book provides a unique data set permitting the first-ever comparative analysis of pro bono’s growing role in the access to justice movement. The contributors are leading experts from around the world, whose chapters examine both the internal roots of and global influences on pro bono in transnational context. Global Pro Bono explores the dramatically expanding geographical and political reach of pro bono: documenting its essential contribution to bringing more justice to those on the margins, while underscoring its complex and contested meaning in different parts of the world.

Scott L. Cummings is the Robert Henigson Professor of Legal Ethics at the UCLA School of Law, where he teaches and writes about the legal profession, law and social change, and local government law. He is the faculty director of UCLA’s Program on Legal Ethics and the Profession.

Fabio de Sa e Silva is assistant professor of international studies and the Wick Cary Professor of Brazilian Studies at the University of Oklahoma. He is also an affiliated fellow at Harvard Law School’s Center on the Legal Profession. He studies the social organization and the political impact of law and justice in Brazil and comparatively.

Louise G. Trubek is clinical professor of law emerita at the University of Wisconsin Law School, where she founded the Center for Public Representation. Louise is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the Yale Law School. An active scholar, she does research on public policy, public administration and human rights, and the legal profession.
CAMBRIDGE STUDIES IN LAW AND SOCIETY

Founded in 1997, Cambridge Studies in Law and Society is a hub for leading scholarship in socio-legal studies. Located at the intersection of law, the humanities, and the social sciences, it publishes empirically innovative and theoretically sophisticated work on law's manifestations in everyday life: from discourses to practices, and from institutions to cultures. The series editors have longstanding expertise in the interdisciplinary study of law, and welcome contributions that place legal phenomena in national, comparative, or international perspective. Series authors come from a range of disciplines, including anthropology, history, law, literature, political science, and sociology.

Series Editors

Mark Fathi Massoud, University of California, Santa Cruz
Jens Meierhenrich, London School of Economics and Political Science
Rachel E. Stern, University of California, Berkeley

A list of books in the series can be found at the back of this book.
GLOBAL PRO BONO

Causes, Context, and Contestation

Edited by

Scott L. Cummings
University of California, Los Angeles

Fabio de Sa e Silva
University of Oklahoma

Louise G. Trubek
University of Wisconsin–Madison
CONTENTS

List of Contributors \hspace{1cm} page vii

1 What Is Global about Pro Bono and What Is Global Pro Bono about?
  SCOTT L. CUMMINGS, FABIO DE SA E SILVA, AND LOUISE G. TRUBEK  \hspace{1cm} 1

PART ONE: THE AMERICAS

2 Rationalizing Pro Bono: Corporate Social Responsibility and the Reinvention of Legal Professionalism in Elite American Law Firms
  JOHN BLISS AND STEVEN A. BOUTCHER  \hspace{1cm} 77

3 Pro Bono Legal Work in Canada
  ROBERT GRANFIELD AND FIONA KAY  \hspace{1cm} 112

4 Private Law Practice and the Public Good: Individual Pro Bono’s Institutionalization in São Paulo Law Firms
  FABIO DE SA E SILVA  \hspace{1cm} 144

5 The Mandarins of the Law: Pro Bono Legal Work in Argentina, Chile, and Colombia
  DANIEL BONILLA MALDONADO  \hspace{1cm} 169

PART TWO: EUROPE

6 Le Pro Bono: The Development of Legal Volunteerism in Europe
  EDWIN REKOSH AND LAMIN KHADAR  \hspace{1cm} 215

7 An Explosion of Legal Philanthropy? The Transformation of Pro Bono Legal Services in England and Wales
  ANDREW BOON AND AVIS WHYTE  \hspace{1cm} 269
CONTENTS

8 No Lawyers without Generosity: Lessons on Pro Bono from France

LOUIS ASSIER-ANDRIEU AND JEREMY PERELMAN 318

9 Narrowing the Justice Gap: Clearinghouses for Spain

LEIRE LARRACOECHEA SAN SEBASTIÁN, MICHELLE HA, AND S. TODD CRIDER 357

10 Pro Bono in Portugal

SUSANA SANTOS 413

11 Lawyers’ Pro Bono Work in Denmark

ANNETTE OLESEN AND OLE HAMMERSLEV 446

PART THREE: OCEANIA

12 The Tripartite Effect of Pro Bono: The Australian Experience

FIONA MCLEAY AND LUCY ADAMS 477

PART FOUR: AFRICA

13 Pro Bono in South Africa

THABANG M. POOE, ALICE L. BROWN, AND JONATHAN KLAAREN 535

14 The Evolution of Pro Bono Legal Services in Nigeria

JAYANTH K. KRISHNAN AND KUNLE AJAGBE 570

PART FIVE: ASIA

15 The Evolving Contours of Private Pro Bono Policy and Practice in India: Local and Global Contexts

ARPITA GUPTA 603

16 “Pro Bono” in Singapore: Importing, Adopting, Transforming

HELENA WHALEN-BRIDGE AND ROBERT GRANFIELD 641

17 The Rise of Private Public Interest Lawyers in China

JIN DONG AND QIAN CHENG 672

Index 705
CONTRIBUTORS

Alice L. Brown is an attorney based in Johannesburg who is a board member of the public interest law firm Section27 and a visiting research fellow with the African Centre for the Study of the US at the University of the Witwatersrand. Previously, she practiced law with the NAACP Legal Defense Fund in the United States and acted as the representative of the Ford Foundation Office for Southern Africa. She obtained her JD from New York University School of Law.

Andrew Boon has a PhD in law from the University of Westminster for a study of professionalism, ethics, and legal education. He is a professor of law at City, University of London.

Annette Olesen has a PhD in law from the University of Southern Denmark and studies access to justice, legal aid, and the voluntary sector. She is an associate professor at the Department of Sociology and Social Work, Aalborg University.

Arpita Gupta is an associate professor at the Jindal Global Law School, O.P. Jindal Global University, India. She holds an SJD from the University of Wisconsin Law School, and an LLM from the Catholic University of Portugal (UCP), Lisbon.

Avis Whyte holds an LLM in European and international trade law from Leicester University. A member of the Centre on the Legal Profession at the University of Westminster, London, Avis's research focuses on this field. She is an assistant course leader, senior researcher, and senior lecturer at Westminster.

Daniel Bonilla Maldonado is a full professor of law at Universidad de los Andes in Bogotá. He holds a doctorate and a Master of Laws from Yale Law School and a law degree from Universidad de los Andes.

Edwin Rekosh is co-founder and managing partner of Rights CoLab. He previously founded PILnet: The Global Network for Public Interest Law. He was a member of the adjunct faculty of Columbia Law School for twenty-one years and a visiting professor of law at
LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Cardozo Law School and Central European University. He holds a JD from Columbia Law School.

Fabio de Sa e Silva is assistant professor of international studies and the Wick Cary Professor of Brazilian Studies at the University of Oklahoma. He is also an affiliated fellow at Harvard Law School’s Center on the Legal Profession. He studies the social organization and the political impact of law and justice in Brazil and comparatively.

Fiona Kay holds a PhD in sociology from the University of Toronto and studies gender and racial diversity in the legal profession, career pathways among notaries and lawyers in civil law jurisdictions, and the regulation of paralegals. She is a professor of sociology at Queen’s University in Kingston, Canada.

Fiona McLeay is the regulator of lawyers in the state of Victoria, Australia. She was formerly the CEO of Justice Connect, Australia’s leading pro bono access to justice nonprofit. She holds a BA (Hons) and an LLM from the University of Melbourne, an LLB from the University of New South Wales, and an LLM from New York University Law School.

Helena Whalen-Bridge is an associate professor at the National University of Singapore Faculty of Law. She holds an LLM from the National University of Singapore and a JD from the University of Connecticut. Her research on the legal profession focuses on regulation, legal ethics, and access to justice.

Jayanth K. Krishnan is the Milt and Judi Stewart Professor of Law and director of the Stewart Center on the Global Legal Profession at the Indiana University – Bloomington Maurer School of Law. He holds a PhD from the University of Wisconsin–Madison and a JD from Ohio State University.

Jeremy Perelman is an associate professor at the Sciences Po Law School. His research focuses on the intersection between human rights–based approaches to sustainable development, global economic governance, and social change advocacy in the Global South. He is also the faculty and executive director of the Sciences Po Law School Clinic.

Jin Dong holds a PhD in sociology from State University of New York at Buffalo. His main research interests include law, social change, and globalization. He is the author of several scholarly articles regarding lawyers’ pro bono and the legal profession in the age of globalization.
John Bliss is an assistant professor at the University of Denver Sturm College of Law. He is also a faculty affiliate at the Harvard Law School Center on the Legal Profession. He holds a JD from Berkeley Law and a PhD from Berkeley's Jurisprudence and Social Policy program.

Jonathan Klaaren is a professor at the University of the Witwatersrand (Wits). He holds a PhD in sociology from Yale and law degrees from Columbia (JD) and Wits (LLB). He served as head/dean of the Wits Law School from 2010 to 2013.

Kunle Ajagbe is a partner at Aidan Partners Law Firm in Lagos, Nigeria. He was called to the bar in 1999 and has previously worked in some of Nigeria’s leading commercial law firms. He is a graduate of the Nigerian Law School and holds an LLB from Obafemi Awolowo University.

Lamin Khadar is the pro bono manager for Europe at the international law firm, Dentons. He is also an adjunct global professor of law at New York University in Paris, where he runs a legal clinic. He completed his PhD at the European University Institute in 2019, which was awarded the Mauro Cappelletti Prize for best thesis in comparative law. He qualified as a lawyer in England in 2012.

Leire Larracoechea San Sebastián is co-founder and executive director of Fundación Pro Bono España. She is also an adjunct professor at IE Law School’s legal clinic. Previously, Leire was the director of Pro Bono Partnerships at the Cyrus R. Vance Center for International Justice and an associate lawyer at Cuatrecasas. She holds an LLM from Harvard Law School and was awarded a Fulbright scholarship.

Louis Assier-Andrieu is a professor at Sciences Po, a research assistant with the laboratory of Claude Lévi-Strauss (Collège de France), a fellow at the Mario Einaudi Center for International Studies (Cornell) and the Cambridge Group for the History of Social Structure, and a senior adviser to the ministries of justice and foreign affairs (France). His areas of expertise include the cultural theory of law, the historical anthropology of Western law, legal norms and cultural norms, and the history and culture of the legal profession.

Louise G. Trubek is clinical professor of law emerita at the University of Wisconsin Law School, where she founded the Center for Public Representation. Louise is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the Yale Law School. An active scholar, she does research on public policy, public administration and human rights, and the legal profession.
LIST OF CONTRIBUTORS

Lucy Adams is the strategic advocacy and policy manager of Civil Justice at Victoria Legal Aid and was previously the head of Homeless Law and Advocacy at Justice Connect, Australia’s leading pro bono access-to-justice nonprofit. She has a BA/LLB (Hons) from the University of Melbourne and was awarded a Churchill Fellowship to study the criminalization of homelessness and poverty. Michelle Ha was a fellow at PILnet: The Global Network for Public Interest Law focusing on refugee assistance pro bono. She received a Harvard Sinclair-Kennedy Fellowship to conduct research on legal assistance for asylum seekers in Spain. She holds a JD from Harvard Law School, where she served as the president of the Harvard Immigration Project and director of the International Refugee Assistance Project.

Ole Hammerslev is a professor in sociology of law at the University of Southern Denmark. He holds a PhD in sociology and an LLM from the University of Copenhagen. His research focuses on the legal profession, access to justice, globalization, and state construction.

Qian Cheng is a venture capitalist in Silicon Valley. He holds a PhD in law from Wuhan University and an LLM in corporate governance and practice from Stanford Law School. His research has focused on venture capital financing, technology law, and lawyering for innovation.

Robert Granfield holds a PhD in sociology from Northeastern University and is a professor of sociology and the vice provost for faculty affairs at the University at Buffalo – The State University of New York. His research has focused on the socialization of law students, the social organization of the legal profession, drug policy, and addiction studies.

S. Todd Crider is an M&A and finance partner at Simpson Thacher & Bartlett LLP, New York, where he heads the Latin American practice. He was a founder of the Cyrus Vance Center for International Justice. His pro bono practice focuses on issues of access to justice, indigenous peoples’ rights, and advocacy for justice and rule of law. He holds a JD from Columbia Law School.

Scott L. Cummings is the Robert Henigson Professor of Legal Ethics at the UCLA School of Law, where he teaches and writes about the legal profession, law and social change, and local government law. He is the faculty director of UCLA’s Program on Legal Ethics and the Profession.
Steven A. Boutcher is the executive officer of the Law and Society Association and senior research fellow at the Institute of Social Science Research at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst. His research broadly focuses on the intersection of law, social movements, and organizations, with a particular focus on the institutionalization of pro bono in large US firms and its connection to social movement causes.

Susana Santos holds a PhD in sociology from ISCTE University Institute of Lisbon and a Master's Degree in communication, culture, and technology studies. She is a research fellow at the Centre of Studies in Sociology (CIES) and an adjunct professor in the Department of Sociology, ISCTE. Her research has focused on the socialization of lawyers, the effects of globalization on the legal profession and legal education, and the study of transnational elites, combining qualitative and quantitative methods.

Thabang M. Pooe is a practicing advocate with the Johannesburg Society of Advocates and in-house counsel at public interest law center, Section27. She holds an LLM (specializing in public interest law and policy) from the University of California, Los Angeles, and an LLB from the North West University.