Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Acknowledgements</th>
<th>page vii</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>List of Abbreviations</td>
<td>ix</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Introduction

- 0.1 The Essays as Philosophy
- 0.2 Reading the Essays as a Whole
- 0.3 Progress, Social, and Individual
- 0.4 Summary of Chapters

1 Governing

- 1.1 The Antiquarian Principle
- 1.2 A Great Change for the Better
- 1.3 Progress and Government Intervention

2 Domineering

- 2.1 The Qualified Uniformity of Human Nature
- 2.2 War
- 2.3 Slavery
- 2.4 Priests

3 Working

- 3.1 The Progress and Purpose of Industry
- 3.2 Industry as a Principle of Human Nature: The Essays on Happiness
- 3.3 Total Work?

4 Composing

- 4.1 Much Inferior to the Ancients
- 4.2 Aggressive and Melancholy Passional Problems
- 4.3 Therapeutic Beauty

5 Self-Loving

- 5.1 Egoisms, Benign, and Malignant
- 5.2 Self-Love, Pride, and Vanity
Contents

vi

5.3 Close Allies to Virtue 173
5.4 Beyond Egoisms 179

6 Loving 185
6.1 Friendship and the State 185
6.2 Delicate Taste versus Love of the Public 192
6.3 The Amorous Affection 199
6.4 Gallant Men and Rare Women 213

7 Thinking 219
7.1 On the Use and Abuse of “Philosophy” in the Essays 219
7.2 Philosophy as Distance 228
7.3 Ancients and Moderns: A Pas de Deux 233

Conclusion 245

Bibliography 247
Index 260