

INDEX

- Abadie, A., 119–120, 232–233
- Acemoglu, D., 3–4
- Ager, P., 57
- Agricultural History
- culture and immigration and, 179–180
 - state-level deep roots development in
 - US and, 180–183
- Aldosary, Abdullatif Ali, 126
- Alesina, A., 55–56, 73–76, 173
- Algan, Y., 169–171
- Al Haj, M., 228
- Alien and Sedition Acts, 214–215
- Aliya Party (Israel), 242–243
- Am Ehad Party (Israel), 242–243
- American Association for Labor
- Legislation (AALL), 205–207
- American Federation of Labor (AFL), 207
- American General Social Survey (GSS),
- 162–163
- Andersen, T., 55–56
- Arafat, Yasser, 253
- Argentina, trust-growth theory under,
- 166–167
- armed conflict. See also internal conflicts;
- internationalized conflicts
 - terrorism and role of, 140–142, 146–157
- assimilation
- corruption and immigration and role
 - of, 100
 - epidemiological model of immigrant
 - TFP and, 62–65
 - immigrant self-selection and, 39–41
- Badran, Mudar (Jordanian prime - minister), 263, 265
- Banting, K., 73–75
- Barro, R., 72
- Basso, G., 144–145
- Bastiat, Frédéric, 20–22
- Bechhofer, Nathaniel, 179–184
- Becker, Gary, 160–161
- Berstein, Sher, 50–51
- Beugelsdijk, S., 177–179
- black box metaphor, cultural theory and,
- 162
- Boockman, B., 250–251
- Borjas, George, 19
- on immigrant self-selection, 37–38
 - on immigration restriction, 3–4,
 - 33–36, 275
 - on negative wage effects of
 - immigration, 23–26
 - on net-positive productive effects of
 - immigrants, 58–62
 - on welfare benefits and immigration,
 - 73–75
- Bove, Vincenzo, 55–56
- Bowles, A., 75

315 / Index

- Brady, D., 73–75
 brain drain, emigration and, 18–19
 Briggs, Vernon M. Jr., 212
 Brückner, M., 57
 Burr, Aaron, 214–215
 Bush, George W., 217–218 business institutions immigrant vs. native populations' trust
 in, 177
 Jordanian refugee shock and growth
 of, 252–255
 state-level economic freedom in US
 and, 85–94
 business startups by highly skilled immigrants, 52–53
 by low-skilled immigrants, 53–55
 Butts, F., 75
- Cachanosky, N., 87–90
 Cahuc, P., 169–171
 capital accumulation, immigrant productivity and output and, 46 capital adjustment, wage effects of immigration, 27
 Caplan, Bryan, 5–6, 93–94, 179–184
 Card, David, 21–22, 25–26
 Carden, A., 111
 Carnegie, Andrew, 203–204
 Catholic immigrants
 US party politics and, 214–216
 US public policy and influence of, 220–221
Charlie Hebdo attacks, 139–140
 Charnysh, Volha, 65–66
 Chassamboulli, Andri, 21–22, 54–55
 Chervyakov, V., 227
 China deep roots–based income predictions in, 179–184
 immigration to US from, 191 trust-based informal agreements (guanxi) in, 173
 Chinese Exclusion Act, 192–194, 207
- citizenship for immigrants automatic citizenship for Jews in Israel, 225–226
 immigrants' opinions on, 93–94 naturalized citizenship population in US, 88
 state-level economic freedom and, 91–93
 city government spending in US cities and share of foreign-born population, 199–200 welfare spending by, immigrant impact on, 212
 Clemens, Michael, 1–2, 15–16, 25–26
 epidemiological model of immigrant productivity, 36–37, 62–65
 on externalities and labor mobility, 274 on H-1B wages, 59–60 wage data analysis, 12–15 on wage effects, 25–26
 Collier, Paul, 3–4, 159–160
 on immigration restriction, 33
 Communism, trust-growth theory and effects of, 166–167 comparative advantage free immigration and, 9–11 for native population, immigrant boosting of, 19–29 congestion, epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and, 62–65
 Congress (US)
 anti-immigration legislation from, 191 constraints on immigrant political influence and structure of, 218–219
 immigrant vs. native populations' trust
 in, 175–176
 Constitution (US), constraints on immigrant influence in, 218–219
 Constitutional Union Party (US), 217–218
 Control of Corruption (COFC) indicator, corruption and immigration, 100–104, 109–111

316 / Index

- corruption and immigration
 - controls used in study of, 107–109
 - cross-country comparisons, baseline results, 104–106
 - data and methodology in research on, 100–104
 - defined, 97–98
 - Jordanian refugee shock case study and, 262
 - levels of corruption and, 109–111, 276
 - Mariel boatlift case study, 115–121
 - origin countries, corruption in, immigrants' impact and, 111–113
 - overview of research on, 97–100
 - robustness checks on data involving, 113–115
 - Soviet corruption migration with Soviet Jewish immigrants to Israel, 238–239
- Corruption Perceptions Index (CPI), 101
- Cortés, P., 45
- cost of immigration, free vs. restricted immigration, 35–36
- counter-terrorism, spending on, 124–127
- court systems, immigrant vs. native populations' trust in, 174–175
- cross-country analysis
 - cultural vs. institutional effects on trust and, 168–172
 - culture and immigration, 161
 - measures of economic freedom in, 72
 - state-level economic freedom and impact of immigrants, 88–89
- culture and immigration
 - assimilation in to American norms and, 212–218
 - cultural change over time, 167–168
 - deep roots theory of economic development and, 179–185
 - definition of culture, 160
 - economic conditions and, 160–161
 - immigrant transmission of trust and, 168–172
 - informal institutions and, 66
 - productivity and impact of, 159–161, 276–277
 - Soviet Jews in Israel ties to Russian culture, 227–228
 - trust-growth theory and, 162–163
 - US immigrants' assimilation and, 212–218
- Current Population Survey, negative wage impacts and, 25–26
- Dalgaard, C., 55–56
- Dawson, J., 72
- Declaration of Independence, history of US immigration policy and, 190–191
- deep roots theory of economic development
 - cross-country income predictions and, 179–184
 - culture and immigration and, 179–185
 - immigration restriction and, 38–39
 - state-based US economic development and, 180–183
- de Haan, J., 72
- Della Pergola, Sergio, 228
- Democracy Party (Israel), 242–243
- Democratic Party, early history of, 216
- Democratic-Republican Party, 214–215
- Desmet, K., 16–18
- destination countries
 - immigrant productivity in, 30–33
 - levels of corruption and effect of immigration in, 109–111
 - negative consequences of immigration in, 19–29
 - terrorism research and, 142–143
- developing countries, terrorism threat in, 127–129
- Diamond, Peter, 21–22
- Diamond, Rebecca, 50–51
- Dimant, E., 99
- DiNardo, John, 21–22
- Doctrine of First Effective Settlement, 212–213
- Doran, Kirk, 58–62

317 / Index

- Doron, G., 242
 Douai, Adolph, 220–221
 Dreher, A., 250–251
 dynamic growth model, income gains from free immigration, 15–16
- Easterly, W., 75–76
 East Germany, trust-growth theory under, 166–167
- economic freedom corruption levels and effect of immigration on, 109–111
 cross-country comparisons of immigration's impact on, 73–85 first difference results analysis of immigration impact on, 79–85
 growth and productivity linked to, 72 in immigrant country of origin, 88–89
 Israeli corruption and, synthetic control research on, 232–239 in Jordan, 250–251, 256–261 mass Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel and, 229–232
 US immigration and state-level
 economic freedom, 85–94
- Economic Freedom of North America Index* (EFNA) growth of government in US and, 194–203
 state-level economic freedom in US
 and, 85–94
- Economic Freedom of the World Annual Report* (EFW index), 72–73 corruption and immigration data and, 107–109
 cross-country data and methodology
 on, 73–76
 Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration to Jordan impact and, 255–256
 Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel
 and, 229–232
 synthetic control model of Jordanian refugee shock, 256–261
- economic growth cultural change and, 160–161 highly skilled immigrants and, 46–53
 immigration's impact on, 44–46
 Jordanian refugee shock and surge in, 263–268
 low-skilled immigrants and, 53–55
 quasi-natural experiment with Polish forced migration, 65–66 rule of law and free markets linked to, 72 Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel
 and, 229–232 terrorism and, 123–124, 140–142
 trust and, 163–166
- economic institutions cross-country data immigration's impact on, 73–76, 277–278
 growth in US of, 194–203
 immigration's impact on, 3–4, 35–36, 71–76, 277–278
 income inequality and, 37–38 in Israel, mass immigration's impact
 on, 239–244
 Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration to Jordan impact on, 255–256 population diversity and reliance on, 66 state-level economic freedom in US
 and, 85–94
 synthetic control model of Jordanian refugee shock impact on, 257–261
- economic redistribution, immigration and diminished support for, 41
- economics, mutually beneficial voluntary exchange, 1
- “Economics of Emigration: Trillion-Dollar Bills on the Sidewalk?”
 (Clemens), 15–16
- education
 immigrant impact on expansion in US
 of, 220–221
 immigrant levels of, 26 immigrants' impact on, 60

318 / Index

- education (cont.)
 - immigration and increased demand for, 75
 - negative wage effects of immigrants on other immigrants, 24–26
 - peer effects of immigrant and native students, 60–61
 - skill cell research on negative wage impacts of immigration and, 23–25
 - state-level economic freedom and role of, 88–89
 - trust-growth theory and, 165–166
- electoral politics
 - comparison of immigrant and native-born populations, 93–94
 - constraints on immigrant participation in, 218–219
 - immigrants' impact on, 73–75, 209–212
 - in Israel, Soviet Jewish mass immigration impact on, 240–244
 - Socialist Party and, 200–202
- Elia, Leandro, 55–56
- Emergency Quota Act (US), 192–194
- endogeneity effects
 - corruption and immigration research, 104
 - immigrant flows and, 143–144
 - Kuwaiti-Palestinian immigrants in Jordan and, 246–247
 - state and local government spending in US and share of foreign-born population, 197–199
 - terrorism-immigration links and, 151
 - trust-growth theory and, 165–166
 - trust in formal institutions and, 177, 277–278
- Engels, Friedrich, 192, 202–204
- entrepreneurship
 - by highly skilled immigrants, 52–53
 - of low-skilled immigrants, 53–55
 - quasi-natural experiment with Polish forced migration, 65–66
- epidemiological model of immigrant productivity, 36–37, 62–65
- equilibrium models, income gains from
 - free immigration, 15–16
- ethnic diversity
 - fragmentation effects of, 75–76
 - government undermined by, 203–212
 - immigration and, 41
 - of Soviet Jewish immigrants in Israel, 227
 - total factor productivity and, 55–56
 - trust-growth theory and impact of, 171–172
- EuroBarometer, 162–163
- European immigrants
 - history in US, 191
 - unionization in US and, 207–208
- European Union, Muslim immigration in, 281
- Everheart, R., 75
- Exodus* (Collier), 3–4
- exogenous shocks
 - Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugees in Jordan as, 253–255
 - Soviet Jewish mass immigration to Israel as, 223–229
- federalism, constraints on immigrant political influence and, 218–219
- Federalist Party (US), 214–216
- Field, Stephen J. (Justice), 191
- Fillmore, Millard, 216
- Finnigan, R., 73–75
- fiscal impacts of immigration
 - global gains vs., 28–29
 - public services consumption vs. tax payments, 27–28
- Forbes, John Murray, 191
- foreign-born students, patenting by, 49–50
- foreign direct investment (FDI),
 - immigrant productivity and output and, 46
- formal institutions
 - Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration to Jordan impact on, 255–256
 - productivity and, 2–3

319 / Index

- quasi-natural experiment with Polish forced migration and, 66
- trust as substitute for, 172–177
- trust-growth theory and, 165–166, 168
- US immigrants' assimilation into, 212–218
- fractionalization
 - ethnic diversity and, 57
 - government undermined by, 203–212
 - impact on welfare state of, 73–75
 - unionization rates and, 208–209
 - US government spending as percentage of GDP and, 196–197
- Frankel, E., 228
- Frattini, Tommaso, 60–61
- free immigration
 - comparative advantage case for, 9–11
 - defined, 4–5
 - economic case for, 9, 29
 - global income gains and, 15–19
 - negative externalities of, 2–3, 19–29
 - normative framework for, 5–6
- free-rider problem, unionization and, 205–207
- free trade
 - immigrant labor and, 9–11
 - mutual benefits of, 9–11
 - Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel and, 229–232
- Frelinghuysen, Theodore, 216
- Fröbel, Friedrich, 220–221
- Gardeazabal, J., 119–120, 232–233
- Gauthier-Loiselle, M., 49
- General Social Survey (GSS)
 - opinions of immigrant and native-born populations in, 93–94
 - trust levels of immigrants to US and, 169–171, 174
- geographic persistence variables, deep roots-based economic development theory and, 179–184
- German immigrants
 - participation in US Civil War by, 220
 - socialism in US and influence of, 202–203
 - US party politics and, 214, 220
- German-Jewish immigrants, prewar patenting rates in US and, 50
- Giavazzi, F., 169–171
- Gintis, H., 75
- Gitelman, Z., 227
- Glaeser, E., 73–75
- global immigration rates,
 - epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and, 64–65
- Global Terrorism Database (GTD), 126–127, 140–142
- Gompers, Samuel, 207
- goods and services demands
 - immigrants labor for meeting, 45
 - labor supply impact on, 26
- Gould, Eric, 60–61
- government institutions
 - diversity and fractionalization and loss of support for, 203–212
 - growth in US of, 194–203
 - immigrant impact in US on, 219–221
 - immigrant vs. native populations' trust in, 175–176
 - in Jordan, Palestinian refugee exclusion from, 247–251
 - Jordanian refugee shock impact on, 263–268
 - Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel and size of, 229–232
- government spending. See also public services
 - costs of terrorism and, 135–137
 - diversity and fractionalization and declines in, 203–212
 - epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and use of, 62–65
 - fractionalization effects of immigration and, 75–76, 196–197
 - immigrants' consumption of, 27–28, 73–75

320 / Index

- government spending. (cont.)
 overreaction to terrorism and, 123–127
 as percentage of GDP, immigrant stock as population percentage and, 195–196
 state-level economic freedom in US
 and, 85–94
 unionization rates and, 205–207
 gravity model of immigration-induced cultural heterogeneity, GDP growth
 and, 55–56
 Greer, C., 75
 Grier, K., 72
 Grier, R., 72
 Grigsby, John, 58
 gross domestic product (GDP) core results of cross-country comparisons of immigrant impact on, 76–85
 culture and immigration and, 179–180
 free immigration and increase in, 16–18 government spending and unionization and, 205–207 gravity model of immigration-induced cultural heterogeneity, 55–56 immigration levels and, 30–33
 Jordanian refugee shock and decline in, 263
 per capita, corruption and immigration data and, 107–109, 233–235
 trust growth linked to, 163–166 US government growth and immigration and, 195–196
 growth institutions, immigrant self-selection and, 37–38
 Gwartney, J., 229–232

 H-1B visa, immigrants with impact on native-born employment not found with, 58–62 national productivity growth and, 48 patenting rates and, 49–50 wage effects of, 47–48

 Hahn, R. W., 135–137
 Hamilton, B., 15–16
 Hanon, Marcus, 203
 Hartford Convention (1814–1815), 214–215
 Heckelman, J. C., 111
 Herfindahl-Hirschman Index, 196–197 heterogeneity, impact on welfare state of, 73–75
 highly skilled immigrants economic growth and impact of, 46–53
 in Israel, 229
 patenting by, 48–52
 high-school dropouts native population portion of, 26 skill cell research on negative wage impacts of immigration and, 23–25 homegrown terrorists, children of immigrants as, 139–140 human capital immigrants' impact on productivity
 and, 60–61
 of Soviet Jewish immigrants in Israel, 229 as ultimate resource, 11–12 human life, cost of terrorism and value
 of, 135–137
 Hunt, J., 49
 Hunt, Jennifer, 25–26

 illegal immigrants, state-level economic freedom and legalization of, 91–93 Immigration Economics (Borjas), 3–4 immigration policy competition between immigrants, 24–26 government growth in US and, 194–203
 impact on wage rates of, 22–26 negative externalities and formation of, 279–283
 social trust and, 177–179
 terrorism and, 137–155
 union opposition and, 205–207 workforce expansion linked to, 21–22

321 / Index

- Immigration Reform and Control Act (US), 88, 91–93
- immigration restriction
 - assessment of economic case against, 275–279
 - costs of, 72–73
 - deep roots theory of economic development and, 38–39
 - economic case for, 3–4, 33–37, 39–42
 - economic freedom and impact of, 72–73
 - economic impact of, 1
 - history in US of, 192–194
 - income loss from, 15–19
 - in Israel, 282
 - Israeli immigration as case for, 225–226
 - New Economic Case for, 39–42
 - self-selection of immigrations, negative effects on growth, 37–38
 - theories on, 33–37
- import substitution industrialization (ISI)
 - economy, Jordanian adoption of, 249–250
- income gains
 - cultural vs. institutional effects on, 168–172
- epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and, 62–65
- free immigration linked to, 15–19
- immigration levels and, 30–33
- for native population, immigrant boosting of, 19–29
- quasi-natural experiment with Polish forced migration, 65–66
- trust growth and, 165
- India, deep roots-based income predictions in, 179–184
- informal institutions
 - productivity of, immigration impact on, 2–3, 277–278
 - quasi-natural experiment with Polish forced migration and, 66
- instrumental variable research,
 - on immigrant productivity, 56–57
- integration, immigrant self-selection and, 39–41
- internal conflicts, terrorism-immigration links and, 150–151
- International Country Risk Guide (ICRG) index
 - corruption and immigration data, 113–115
 - Jordanian refugee shock case study and, 255–256, 262
 - Soviet corruption migration with Soviet Jewish immigrants to Israel, 238–239
- internationalized conflicts, terrorism-immigration links and, 150–151
- international labor market
 - free trade and, 27
 - global apartheid of, 1–2
 - location-specific productivity, 11–15
- International Migrant Stock by Destination and Origin* (World Bank)
 - corruption and immigration data and, 102
 - economic freedom and immigration data, 73–76
- International Monetary Fund (IMF),
 - Jordanian debt crisis and, 249–251
- in-time and in-place placebos
 - synthetic control research on Israeli immigration and corruption, 235–237
- investment, immigrant productivity and output and, 46
- Iregui, A., 15–16
- Islamist ideology, terrorism and, 135
- Israel
 - corruption and economic freedom following mass Soviet immigration to, 232–239

322 / Index

Israel (cont.)

- economic freedom and Soviet Jewish immigration to, 229–232
- history of immigration in, 223–229
- institutions in, mass immigration impact on, 239–244
- Muslim-origin countries, immigration restrictions for, 282
- native population's support for immigrants in, 226–227
- social trust and mass Soviet immigration into, 239–240
- Soviet mass immigration to, 224–225, 278
- Israel Beitenu Party, 243
- Jay, John, 189–190, 214
- Jefferson, Thomas, 189, 214–215
- Jewish identity, lack of clarity for Israeli Jewish immigrants about, 226–227
- job creation, immigration as cause of, 20–22
- job loss
 - myth of immigration as cause of, 19–29
 - skating rink labor market model, 21–22
- Jordan
 - democratic reforms in, 250–251
 - economic institutions and immigration in, 246–247
 - government institutional changes, refugee shock impact on, 263–268
 - history and government institutions in, 247–251
 - Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugees in, 246–247, 252–253, 278–279
 - quasi-natural experiment of immigration in, 253–255
 - synthetic control research on Palestinian migration to, 256–261
- Justesen, M. K., 72
- Kaufmann, D., 100–104
- Keefer, P., 163–166
- Kelly, M., 179–184
- Kennan, J., 15–16, 27–28

- Kerr, Sari, 49–50
- Kerr, William, 49–50
- Kimmerling, B., 229
- Klein, P., 15–16
- Knack, S., 163–166
- knowledge production, immigration's impact on, 44–46
- Know Nothing Party, 216
- Kraay, A., 100–104
- Krieger, T., 99
- Kuwait, Palestinian expulsion from, 246–247
- Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugees
 - exogenous shock in Jordan from influx of, 253–255, 263–268, 278–279
 - Jordan's acceptance of, 246–247, 252–253
- Kymlicka, W., 73–75
- labor mobility
 - free trade and, 9–11
 - of highly skilled immigrants, 48
 - of immigrants, 45–46
- Labor Party (Israel), 240–244
- labor supply
 - global apartheid of, 1–2
 - goods and services demands linked to, 26
 - location-specific productivity, 11–15
- labor unions (US)
 - diversity and fractionalization as barriers to, 203–212
 - German immigrant influence in, 202–203
 - immigrants as members of, 207–208
- La Ferrara, S., 173
- Latin American immigration, to US, 280–281
- Law of Return (Israel), 223–227
- Lawson, R., 250–251
- legal institutions
 - immigrant vs. native populations' trust in, 174–175
 - Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel and, 229–232

323 / Index

- Letnes, B., 15–17
 Levine, R., 75–76
 Lewis, Ethan, 25–26, 44–45
 Likud Party (Israel), 240–244
 Lincoln, Abraham, 217–218, 220
 Lincoln, William, 49–50
 local government spending in US and share of foreign-born population, 197–199 welfare spending by, immigrant impact on, 211
 location-specific productivity, international labor mobility and, 11–15
 low-skilled immigrants, productivity and economic growth linked to, 53–55
 lump of labor fallacy, immigration-induced job loss and, 20–22
 Lundstrom, S., 72
 Lutter, R. W., 135–137
 Lyon, Matthew, 214–215

 Madison, James, 212 marginal value product of labor, capital increases and, 27
 Mariel boatlift as corruption and immigration case study, 115–121 effect on Miami labor market of,
 25–26
 Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration to Jordan compared to, 253–255 market economy
 immigration and failure of, 266–268 Jordanian refugee shock and growth
 of, 266–268
 quasi-natural experiment with Polish forced migration and, 66
 Marx, Karl, 192, 202–204
 Maseland, R., 177–179
 McQuade, Timothy, 50–51
 Meschi, Elena, 60–61
 Meyer, J., 75
 Meyer-Schurz, Margarethe, 220–221 microeconomic models, trust growth

 and, 162–163
 Middle Eastern and North African (MENA) nations
 EU immigration from, 281
 synthetic control research on Israeli immigration and corruption, 233–235
 Mises, Ludwig von, 32–33
 Mizrahi Jews, impact of Israeli immigration on, 226–227
 monetary policy, Jordanian refugee shock and Palestinian impact on, 268
 Montenegro, Claudio, 12–15
 Morse, Samuel, 215–216
 Mortensen, Dale, 21–22
 Moses, J., 15–16
 Müller, D., 169–171
 murder rates, terrorism vs. all murders, 129–135
 Muslim-origin countries
 EU immigration from, 281
 Israeli immigration restrictions on, 282 terrorism-immigration link for immigrants from, 152–154, 276

 National Academies of Science (NAS), 22–28
 national defense exemption, immigration policy and, 280
 National Origins Quota Act (US), 192–194, 207
 native population immigration impact on wage rates for, 22–26
 income gains boosted by immigration, 19–29
 in Israel, support for mass Soviet immigration among, 226–227, 239–240 low-skilled immigrants and productivity of, 53–55 productivity boost from immigrants in, 44–45

324 / Index

- native population (cont.)
 - skill cell research on negative wage impacts of immigration and, 23–25
 - skills of, 26
- nativist movement, 217–218
- naturalized citizens
 - opinions of, similarity with native-born populations, 93–94
 - share of US population, 88
 - state-level economic freedom and impact of, 91–93
- negative externalities
 - assessment of case against immigration and, 275–279
 - case for immigration restrictions and, 275–276
 - free immigration and, 2–3, 19–29
 - immigration policy and, 279–283
- negative wage impacts of immigration
 - Borjas' model for, 33–36
 - native-born wages, immigrants' impact on, 25–26
 - search and matching model, 24–26
 - skill cell research on, 23–25
- net immigrant flows
 - corruption and, 97–100, 104–109
 - cross-country comparisons of economic freedom and, 76–85, 277–278
 - economic impact of, 73–76
 - immigrant share and, 79–85
- Nichola, Tom, 58
- norms and institutions
 - culture and immigration and, 159–161
 - immigrants and role of, 40
 - US immigrants' assimilation into, 212–218
- North, Douglass, 160
- Nowrasteh, A., 93–94
- Nunn, Nathan, 56–58
- OECD countries
 - core results of cross-country comparisons of economic freedom data, 76–85
 - corruption and immigration data from, 104–109, 113
 - immigrant productivity in, 55–56
 - stock of immigrants data from, 73–76
 - synthetic control research on Israeli immigration and corruption, 233–235
 - terrorism threat in, 127–129
- Organization of Islamic Cooperation, 233–235
- Organization of Islamic Cooperation (OIC), Jordanian economic freedom in context of, 257–261
- origin countries. See also Muslim-origin countries
 - corruption in, emigration from, impact in destination countries, 97–100, 111–113
 - terrorism rate in destination country and immigration share data and, 146–157
- origin country, economic freedom in, 88–89
- Ortega, Francesca, 55–56
- Oti, Harrison Gray, 189–190
- Ottaviano, Gianmarco, 23–25, 55–56
- Padilla, A., 87–90
- Page Act (US), 192–194
- Palestinian refugees
 - history in Jordan of, 246–247
 - Jordanian policies concerning, 247–251
- Palivos, Theodore, 21–22, 54–55
- panel data fixed effects model, state-level economic freedom and US immigration rates, 90
- patenting rates
 - of highly skilled immigrants, 48–52
 - historical evidence on immigrants and, 58
- Peabody, Elizabeth, 220–221
- per capita and polity data, core results of cross-country comparisons of immigrant impact on economic freedom, 76–85

325 / Index

- Peres, Shimon, 225–226
 Peri, Giovanni, 44–45, 48, 55–56, 144–145
 Petri, Giovanni, 23–25
 PhD density rates, immigrant vs. native population, 49–50
 Pissarides, Christopher, 21–22 place premium measurement income loss from immigration restrictions, 15–19 international wage data, 12–15 Poland, quasi-natural experiment with forced migration in, 65–66 polarization, ethnic diversity and, 57 political institutions assimilation of immigrants and,
 212–218 Constitutional constraints on immigrant access to, 218–219
 Immigrants' impact on, 32–33, 209–212
 in Israel, Soviet Jewish mass immigration impact on, 240–244
 Israeli immigration policies and,
 225–226
 Jordanian corruption and, refugee shocks and, 262
 Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee shock
 impact on, 255–256
 Socialist Party in US politics and, 200–202
 terrorism and, 140–142
 political party system immigrant assimilation into, 213–218
 in Israel, Soviet Jewish mass immigration impact on, 240–244
 Polity IV index corruption and immigration data and, 107–109
 cross-country data on immigrant stock
 and, 73–76
 economic freedom and immigration
 and, 76–85
 Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration
 to Jordan impact and, 255–256
 synthetic control research on Israeli immigration and corruption, 233–235
 Polk, James, 216 population density, productivity growth
 and, 16–18
 population statistics foreign-born share of US population, 88 on immigration, 47
 Israeli immigrants as percent of total population, 224–225
 Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration to Jordan, 253–255 native share of high school dropout population, 26
 state-level spending in US and share of foreign-born, 197–199
 US immigrant population, 87
 Postel, Hannah, 25–26
 Pousada, Beatriz, 50–51 poverty economic case for immigration restrictions and, 3–4, 33 free immigration and reduction of, 16–18 in origin countries, 29
 terrorism and, 138–139
 Powderly, Terence, 207
 Powell, B., 111
 Pritchett, Lant
 epidemiological model of immigrant productivity, 36–37, 62–65 wage data analysis by, 12–15 private sector
 Chinese trust-based informal agreements (guanxi) and, 173
 Israeli mass immigration and,
 229–232
 Jordanian refugee shock and growth
 of, 249–250
 productivity brain drain from immigration and, 18–19 counter-argument to immigrants' positive effect on, 58–62

326 / Index

- productivity (cont.)
 economic freedom and, 71 epidemiological model of, 36–37, 62–65
 of highly skilled immigrants, 46–53
 highly skilled immigrants impact on, 46–53
 historical evidence of immigrant increase in, 56–58
 immigration's impact on, 36–37, 44–46 international differences in, 2–3 location-specific, 11–15
 low-productivity traits, immigrants' transfer of, 30–33
 of low-skilled immigrants, 53–55
 net-positive effect of immigrants on, 58–62
 trust-growth theory and, 163–166 wage data and, 12–15
- property rights
 in Israel, mass Soviet immigration and, 239–240
 state-level economic freedom in US
 and, 85–94
 trust-growth theory and,
 166–167
- Proposition 187 (“Save Our State,” California), 217–218
- public goods and services. See also welfare state epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and use of, 62–65 fragmentation effects of immigration
 and, 75–76
 immigrants' consumption of, 27–28, 73–75
 immigrants support for, 209–212
- public opinion surveys comparison immigrant and native-born populations in, 93–94 on terrorism, 124–127
- public policy (US), immigrant influence on, 219–221
- Public Religion Research Institute, 124
- Public Use Microdata Areas (PUMAs), epidemiological model of immigrant
 TFP and, 62–65
- push-pull factors, corruption and immigration and, 97–100
- Putnam, Robert, 167–168
- Putterman, L., 38–39, 179–183
- Qian, Nancy, 56–58
- quasi-natural experimentation, Polish forced migration study, 65–66
- racial diversity government undermined by, 203–212
 immigration and, 41
 total factor productivity and, 55–56
 trust-growth theory and impact of, 171–172
- Ralph, J., 75
- Razin, A., 73–75
- real wage gain
 free immigration and, 15–19
 immigrant labor and, 12–15
- redistributionist policies, immigration's impact on, 73–75
- Redlin, M., 99
- regulatory framework, state-level economic freedom in US and, 85–94
- relative entry wage, of self-selected immigrants, 37–38
- rent-seeking behavior, immigrant avoidance of, 39–41
- Republican Party, historical evolution of, 217–218
- Ricardo, David, 9–10
- Robinson, J., 3–4
- Roosevelt, Franklin Delano, 210
- root mean square percentage error (RMSPE) corruption and immigration in Mariel boatlift case study, 120–121
 Jordanian refugee shock case study
 and, 259–262

327 / Index

- synthetic control research on Israeli immigration and corruption, 233–235
- Rubin, R., 75
- rule of law
 - in Israel, mass Soviet immigration and, 239–240
 - state-level economic freedom in US and, 85–94
 - trust-growth theory and, 166–167
- Schneider, G., 168
- Schurz, Carl, 217–218, 220
- search and matching models
 - frictional unemployment and, 21–22
 - immigrant productivity and, 54–55
 - negative wage effects of immigrants on other immigrants, 24–26
- secularization
 - of Israeli Jewish immigrants, 226–227
 - US immigration and drive for, 220–221
- self-selection by immigrants, negative effects on growth and, 37–38
- 9/11 Attacks, 126, 129–137
- Sequeira, Sandra, 56–58
- Shamir, Yitzhak, 225–226
- Shapiro, V., 227
- shift-share instrument
 - cross-country immigration distribution and, 143–144
 - lagged shares from immigration data, 144–146
- Shih, Kevin, 48
- Shindler, C., 242
- Siegel, D., 242–243
- Simon, Julian, 11–12
- skating rink labor market model, 21–22
- skill cell theory, immigrants' impact on native wages and, 23–25
- slavery, immigrant impact on abolition of, 219–221
- Smith, Adam, 9–10, 71
- social conflict theory, immigrant assimilation and integration and, 40
- socialism in United States
 - failure of, 212
 - fears of, 192
 - German immigrant influence on, 202–203
 - immigrants as disproportionate share of, 200–202
- Socialist Labor Party (US), 202–203
- Socialist Party (US), 200–202
- social trust. See also trust-growth theory
 - immigration policy and, 177–179
 - in Israel, mass Soviet immigration and, 239–240
- socioeconomic development, terrorism reduction and, 138–139
- Solow Growth model, immigration and, 44–46
- Sombart, Werner, 213
- Soviet Union, Jewish emigration to Israel from, 223–229
- Sparber, Chad, 48
- Spolaore, E., 38–39
- Stansel, D., 90
- State History
 - culture and immigration and, 179–180
 - state-level deep roots development in US and, 180–183
- state-level economic freedom
 - Immigration Reform and Control Act effect on, 91–93
 - US immigration rates and, 85–94, 277–278
- state-level government (US)
 - deep roots theory of economic development and, 180–183
 - size and spending scope, immigration impact on, 197–199
 - welfare spending by, immigrant impact on, 211
- STEM careers
 - highly skilled immigrants' preference for, 44–45, 47–48, 51–52
- immigrants and exclusion of women from, 58–62

328 / Index

- Stock, J. H., 146
- stock of immigrants data
- corruption and, 104–109
 - cross-country comparisons of, 73–76
 - lagged shares of immigration in terrorism studies, 144–146
 - net immigrant flows and, 79–85
 - state-level economic freedom in US and, 85–94
 - terrorism research and, 142–143
 - US government spending as percentage of GDP and, 195–196
- Sturm, J., 72
- Supreme Court (US)
- history of US immigration policy and, 190–191
 - immigrant vs. native populations' trust in, 175–176
- synthetic control research
- on Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee migration to Jordan impact, 256–261, 278–279
- Mariel boatlift corruption and immigration case study, 115–121
- national level economic freedom and US immigration rates, 92–93
- Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel, 232–239
- Tabellini, Marco, 57, 199–200
- taxes
- immigrants' payment of, 27–28
 - Jordanian refugee shock and impact of Palestinians on, 266
 - state-level economic freedom in US and, 85–94
- technology development
- by highly skilled immigrants, 52–53
 - immigration's impact on, 44–46
- terrorism, immigration link to
- correlates of, 138–139
 - cost-benefit analysis of anti-terrorist policies, in US, 135–137, 158
 - data and research methodology on, 140–142
 - deaths linked to, 125–127
 - global threat of, 123–124, 127–129
 - immigrant-imported terrorism, 137–155, 276
 - lagged shares of immigration data and, 144–146
 - measuring impact of, 124–127
 - shift-share instrument for analysis of, 143–144
 - statistical probability of terrorist acts, 125–127, 158
 - in United States, 129–135
- Tessada, J., 45
- total factor productivity (TFP)
- epidemiological model of, 62–65
 - ethnic and racial diversity and, 55–56
 - highly skilled immigrants' impact on, 46–53
 - immigration levels and, 30–33, 36–37
- transmission of productivity, epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and, 62–65
- travel intensity, total factor productivity and, 55–56
- Trends in the International Migrant Stock* data set, 140–142
- trust-growth theory. See also social trust
- complementarities between culture and institutions and, 168
 - cultural change over time and, 167–168
 - culture and immigration and, 162–163
 - defined, 162–163
 - immigrant transmission of trust and, 168–172
 - productivity and, 163–166
 - racial and ethnic diversity and, 171–172
 - trust as substitute for formal institutions and, 172–177
- Tuszynski, M., 90

329 / Index

- Ufuk, Akcigit, 58
- unemployment
 - immigration and risk of, 73–75
 - Kuwaiti-Palestinian refugee shock in Jordan and, 266–267
 - search and matching models of frictional unemployment, 21–22
- United Mine Workers (UMW), 207–208
- United States
 - assimilation of immigrants in, 212–218
 - Constitutional constraints on immigrant influence in, 218–219
 - costs of terrorism in, 135–137
 - deep roots–based income predictions in, 179–184
 - diversity and declining support for big government in, 203–212
 - fractionalization in, 73–75, 203–212
 - government growth and immigration policy in, 194–203
 - history of immigration in, 189–192
 - immigrant impact on public policy in, 219–221
 - immigrant trust levels in, 169–171
 - immigration policy evolution in, 192–194
 - immigration population statistics in, 87
 - Latin American immigration into, 280–281
 - limits on immigration in, 192–194
 - self-selected immigrants in, 37–38
 - state-level economic freedom and immigration in, 85–94
 - terrorism threat in, 129–135
 - trust categories in, 172–177
 - welfare state in, 209–212
- Uppsala Conflict Data Program (UCDP/PRIO) dataset, 140–142
- Ventura, G., 15–16
- Verdon, L., 111
- Viscusi, W. K., 135–137
- voter preferences
 - comparison of immigrant and native-born populations, 93–94
 - of immigrants, 73–75, 209–212
 - in Israel, Soviet Jewish mass immigration impact on, 240–244
 - Socialist Party in US politics and, 200–202
- Wacziarg, R., 38–39
- wage effects
 - developed and developing countries wage difference, 33–36
 - epidemiological model of immigrant TFP and, 62–65
 - of free immigration, 27–28
 - global income gains from free immigration, 15–19
 - of highly skilled immigrants, 47–48
 - immigrants' impact on, 22–27
 - immigration restriction impact on, 25–26
 - of Mariel boatlift in Florida, 119–120
 - negative effects of immigrants on other immigrants, 24–26
 - productivity and international differences in, 12–15
- wage elasticity, immigration and, 22–26
- Wealth of Nations*, The (Smith), 9–10
- Weil, D. N., 38–39, 179–183
- welfare state. See also public services
 - diminished support for, immigration policy and, 41
 - immigration's impact on, 73–75, 209–212
 - in Israel, mass Soviet immigration and, 239–240
 - labor unions and, 205–207
 - net immigrant flow data and impact on, 79–85
 - Soviet Jewish immigration to Israel and, 229–232
 - trust-growth theory and, 166–167
 - in United States, 209–212
- Whalley, J., 15–16

330 / Index

Whig Party (US), 214–216	World Bank, Jordanian agreements with, 249–250
Wilson, Pete (Governor), 217–218	World Values Survey (WVS), 162–163, 165
Wilson, S., 93–94	trust levels of immigrants to US and, 169–171
women	Worldwide Governance Indicators (WGI), 100–104 immigrant exclusion in STEM fields of, 58–62	Yad be-Yad Party (Israel), 242–243
immigrant goods and services impact on, 45	Yao, L., 88, 91–93
workforce expansion, job creation and, 20–22	Yogo, M., 146
workforce reduction, immigration restrictions, wage effects of, 25–26	Zelinsky, Wilbur, 212–213
Workingmen’s Party, 202–203	