

Contents

List of Contributors	page viii
Series Preface	xiii
General Acknowledgements	xv
Introduction Eve Patten	I
PART I AFTER THE WAR: IDEOLOGIES IN TRANSITION	25
1 The War Observed Guy Woodward	27
2 Outside the Whale: Seán O’Faoláin, Totalitarianism and the European Public Intellectual Brad Kent	46
3 Irish Writers and Europe Aidan O’Malley	66
4 Becoming a Republic: Irish Writing in Transition Nicholas Allen	83
PART II GENRES IN TRANSITION	101
5 Intermodernism and the Middlebrow in Irish Writing John Brannigan	103
6 Transitional Life-Writing: Frank O’Connor and the Autobiographical Tradition Muireann Leech	119

vi	Contents
7	‘Somehow It Is Not the Same’: Irish Theatre and Transition Chris Morash	134
8	Samuel Beckett, Flann O’Brien and the Literature of Absurdity David Wheatley	150
	PART III SEX, POLITICS AND LITERARY PROTEST	167
9	Censorship, Law and Literature Eibhear Walshe	169
10	Sex, Dissent and Irish Fiction: Reading John McGahern Frank Showlin	185
11	History, Memory and Protest in Irish Theatre Emilie Pine	201
12	Violence, Politics and the Poetry of the Troubles Rosie Lavan	216
	PART IV IDENTITIES AND CONNECTIONS	233
13	State, Space and Experiment in Irish-Language Prose Writing Máirín Nic Eoin	235
14	Anglo-Ireland: the Big House Novel in Transition Heather Ingman	255
15	American–Irish Literary Relations Ellen McWilliams	272
16	‘Home Rule in Our Literature’: Irish–British Poetic Relations Tom Walker	288
	PART V RETROSPECTIVE FRAMEWORKS: CRITICISM IN TRANSITION	307
17	Literary Biography in Transition Paul Delaney	309

	Contents	vii
18	Publishing, Penguin and Irish Writing Paul Raphael Rooney	329
19	Curriculum to Canon: Irish Writing and Education Margaret Kelleher	344
20	Critics, Criticism and the Formation of an Irish Literary Canon Shaun Richards	359
	Index	377