

Contents

Acknowledgements	page vii
Note on Dates, Transliteration, and Other Conventions	ix
Introduction: Conceptions of Liberalism in Imperial Russia
Western Theories	6
Western Practices	20
Liberalism between Freedom and Justice	24
Making History	29
Conclusion	34
1 Inside Out: Freedom, Rights, and the Idea of Progress
in Nineteenth-Century Russia	38
The Emergence of Russian Liberalism	40
Individual Freedom and Social Justice in Russian Thought	53
Religious Liberalism and Positive Liberty (Vladimir Solov'ëv)	59
2 Progress, Contested: Positivist and Neo-Idealist Liberalism
Positivist and Anti-positivist Conceptions of Freedom in the European fin de siècle	65
Epistemologies of Liberal Freedom in the Russian Silver Age	70
3 Freedom, Differently: Liberalism in 1905 and Its Aftermath
The Liberation Movement	87
Concepts of Freedom Revisited: 1905	93
Freedom and Liberal Politics, 1906–1914	101
4 Liberalism Undone: The Loss of Cohesion on the Eve of 1917
Outlines of a Debate: 1905–1909	115
The Liberalism of Landmarks	118
The Debate around Landmarks	130

vi	Contents
5	Conversations with Western Ideas I: Conflicts between Values	135
	Individual Freedom and Social Justice: Bogdan Kistiakovskii's
	Lawful Socialism	137
	Tensions between Freedoms and Liberal History: Pavel Novgorodtsev	146
6	Conversations with Western Ideas II: Progress and Freedom	161
	'A Chapter in the History of Progress': The Thought of Maksim
	Kovalevskii	163
	Between History and Politics: The Liberalism of Pavel Miliukov	174
	Conclusion	182
	Conclusion	185
	Bibliography	190
	Unpublished Works	190
	Russian Primary Sources	190
	Other Published Sources	200
	Index	222