

GREAT CHRISTIAN JURISTS IN FRENCH HISTORY

French legal culture, from the Middle Ages to the present day, has had an impressive influence on legal norms and institutions that have emerged in Europe and the Americas, as well as in Asian and African countries. This volume examines the lives of twenty-seven key legal thinkers in French history, with a focus on how their Christian faith and ideals were a factor in framing the evolution of French jurisprudence. Professors Olivier Descamps and Rafael Domingo bring together this diverse group of distinguished legal scholars and historians to provide a unique comparative study of law and religion that will be of value to scholars, lawyers, and students. The collaboration among French and non-French scholars, and the diversity of international and methodological perspectives, gives this volume its own unique character and value to add to this fascinating series.

Olivier Descamps is a professor of law and legal history at the Panthéon-Assas University in Paris, France, and managing director of the Institute of Legal History of the French National Center for Scientific Research (CNRS) in Paris. A specialist in legal history, canon law, and comparative law, he has authored or edited five books, including Les sources du droit à l'aune de la pratique (2018) and Le statut du magistrat (2019). Professor Descamps is coeditor of the Revue historique de droit français et étranger, one of the leading journals in legal history worldwide.

Rafael Domingo is the Spruill Family Research Professor at Emory University in Atlanta, USA, and ICS Professor of Law at the University of Navarra, Spain. A specialist in legal history, legal theory, ancient Roman law, and comparative law, he has authored or edited more than twenty books, including The New Global Law (Cambridge University Press, 2010), God and the Secular Legal System (Cambridge University Press, 2016), Roman Law: An Introduction (2018), and Great Christian Jurists in Spanish History (Cambridge University Press, 2018).

The Law and Christianity series publishes cutting-edge work on Catholic, Protestant, and Orthodox Christian contributions to public, private, penal, and procedural law and legal theory. The series aims to promote deep Christian reflection by leading scholars on the fundamentals of law and politics, to build further ecumenical legal understanding across Christian denominations, and to link and amplify the diverse and sometimes isolated Christian legal voices and visions at work in the academy. Works collected by the series include groundbreaking monographs, historical and thematic anthologies, and translations by leading scholars around the globe.

Acknowledgments

The editors of this volume are deeply grateful to John Witte, Jr., the Robert W. Woodruff Professor of Law, McDonald Distinguished Professor, and director of the Center for the Study of Law and Religion at Emory University, for his leadership in the development of this project on Great French Christian Jurists. They are also grateful to Gary S. Hauk, senior editorial consultant of the Center for the Study of Law and Religion at Emory University, for his acute and professional attention to the preparation of the final manuscript. They owe a special word of thanks to John Berger, senior editor at Cambridge University Press, for his committed editorial assistance. Finally, yet importantly, the editors want to express their warm thanks to the McDonald Agape Foundation for its generous support in making this volume possible.
