Contents

List of Contributors  page ix

Introduction  1

PART I CONSCIOUSNESS

1 Cognitive Phenomenology: Accessibility vs. Acquaintance  9
   Joseph Levine

2 Two Kinds of Introspection  30
   Anna Giustina and Uriah Kriegel

3 There’s Something about David  49
   Martin Hahn and Kathleen Akins

4 Thin Introspection  76
   Amy Kind

5 Confidence Tracks Consciousness  91
   Jorge Morales and Hakwan Lau

PART II QUALITIES

6 Rosenthal on Mental Qualities  109
   Alex Byrne

7 Rosenthal’s Representationalism  123
   Jacob Berger and Richard Brown

8 Motor Qualities  142
   Myrto Mylopoulos

9 Qualitative Character and Conceivable Inversions  159
   Austen Clark
Contents

PART III HIGHER-ORDER THOUGHT

10 A Challenge: Can Self-Monitoring Be Achieved without Consciousness?
Daniel Dennett
181

11 Being Self-Involved without Thinking about It: Confusions, Virtues, and Challenges for Higher-Order Theories
Miguel Ángel Sebastián
188

12 Higher-Order Thought Theory Meets Phenomenal Intentionality Theory
Sam Coleman
207

13 Controlling Phenomenology by Being Unaware of Intentions
Zoltan Dienes, Peter Lush, and Bence Palfi
229

14 Mental Appearance and Mental Reality
David Rosenthal
243

References 272

Bibliography of Rosenthal’s Works 299

Index 305