

CONTENTS

List of Figures	page x
Acknowledgments	xi
Note on the Text	xiii

1 Troubling Encounters	1
1.1 Ways of Case-Making: A Provocation	1
1.2 Is/Ought Conundrums	2
1.3 Speaking Truth to Law	3
1.4 Judges Speaking Back	5
1.5 Thinking with the Trouble	6
1.6 Abstract Accounts and the Concreteness of Practice	9
1.7 Hopping, Skipping, Jumping: One Journey, Four Interventions	11
1.8 The Law Multiple	15
2 Abstractionism, Revisited	17
2.1 ‘Before the Law’: An Allegory (But Not of the Law Itself)	17
2.2 A Shared Commitment: What Is the Law?	21
2.3 The Appearance of Law: Genetic and Documentary Understandings of the Law	23
2.4 Jurisdictional Troubles and the Two Provinces	28
2.5 Inside/Outside Visions	30
2.6 What About the Concrete?	36
2.7 Shaking it Off: Lessons from Joseph K.	42
2.8 Abstraction and the Remainder of Things	45
2.9 Legal Practices: The Courtroom and the Archive	49
2.10 Knowing the Law: How Vision Happens	54
2.11 Making Room: Three Ways of Case-Making	58

- 3 Dealing with Difference: Doing Criminal Law and Social Order 64
- 3.1 Guilt and Denial? 64
 - 3.2 Journeying and Points of Passage 66
 - 3.3 The Specifics of the Leiden Study 69
 - 3.4 Seeing Decision-Making, Making Differences 72
 - 3.5 Returning to the Charge of Racism 80
 - 3.6 Onwards: From Factors to Narrative Typification Practices 82
- 4 Situating Remorse 85
- 4.1 Following up on the Leiden Study 85
 - 4.2 Contrasts and Questions 86
 - 4.3 Studying Craftwork and Remorse 90
 - 4.4 Showing and Telling Remorse: Judge Mason and Jenny Carpenter 94
 - 4.5 Situating Remorse I: Courtroom Catch-22s 98
 - 4.6 Situating Remorse II: On Narrative Kinds 101
 - 4.7 The Case: A Legal and Moral “Grasping Together” 109
 - 4.8 Onwards: Beyond Narrative 114
- 5 Visualizing Cases 116
- 5.1 From Story-Telling to File-Work 116
 - 5.2 Judicial Thinking, Seeing, and Visualization 120
 - 5.3 Visualizing the Case: A Paper-Specific Account 123
 - 5.4 Digitization: Struggling to Visualize 131
 - 5.5 Visualization and “Doings with Documents” 136
 - 5.6 Onwards: Matter and Time 139
- 6 Folding Times, Making Truths 141
- 6.1 From Here-and-Now to There-and-Then 141
 - 6.2 Law, Truth, Time 144
 - 6.3 How to Transport an Event: Traceable Materials 148
 - 6.4 The File on Trial: Times-in-Use 154
 - 6.5 Making Facts, Unmaking Cases, and Temporal Interferences 160
 - 6.6 Visionary and Forensic Approaches to Documents: or, What to Learn from Lawyers 164
 - 6.7 Onwards: Productive Fictions for the Description of the Law 165

CONTENTS

ix

7 Productive Fictions for the Study of the Law: From Hyper-Explanation to Hyper-Object	167
7.1 An End to Journeying	167
7.2 Looking Back	168
7.3 Staying with Multiplicity: Towards a Sociology of Hyper-Objects	174
7.4 Joseph K.'s Murder: A Note on Life and Death	178
Notes	183
Works Cited	187
Index	202