Contents

List of Contributors vii
Preface ix
Chronology xi

Introduction: “Impatient of Oppression” in Early African American Writing in Transition 1
Rhondda Robinson Thomas

PART I LIMITS AND LIBERTIES OF EARLY BLACK PRINT CULTURE

1 Early Black Evangelical Writing and the Limits of Print 17
   Joseph Rezek

2 The Circulation of Early Black Atlantic Literature 42
   Eric D. Lamore

3 What Makes a Text “Black”? From Authorship to Metadata 73
   Jordan Alexander Stein

PART II BLACK WRITING AND REVOLUTION

4 Anglo-Africans Writing Themselves into History during the Age of Revolution 99
   Daniel C. Littlefield

5 Joining the Revolution: African American Writing in the Era of Independence 123
   Thomas J. Davis

6 Black Literary Engagement with the Haitian Revolution 148
   Ronald Angelo Johnson
vi Contents

PART III EARLY AFRICAN AMERICAN LIFE IN LITERATURE

7 Reading and Building a Nation; or, Everyday Living (while Black) in Early America
   Tara A. Bynum

8 Respectability Politics and Early African American Literature
   Cassander L. Smith

9 Early Black Futures
   Brigitte Fielder

PART IV EVOLUTIONS OF EARLY BLACK LITERATURE

10 Black Authors and British National Identity, 1763–1791
   Ryan Hanley

11 The Competing Demands of Early African American Literature
   Katy L. Chiles

12 Black Letters Close the Eighteenth Century
   John Saillant

Index

© in this web service Cambridge University Press