

AGENCY, NEGLIGENCE AND RESPONSIBILITY

This collection of essays represents a ground-breaking collaboration between moral philosophers, action theorists, lawyers and legal theorists to set a fresh research agenda on agency and responsibility in negligence. The complex phenomenon of responsibility in negligence is analysed from multi- and interdisciplinary perspectives, shedding light on key ethical and legal issues related to agency and negligence to impact substantive law and policy-making in different jurisdictions. The volume introduces new debates and questions old assumptions, inviting the reader to rethink substantive law and practical ethical reflection.

The seeds for this volume were planted in the autumn of 2015, when we toyed with the idea of a workshop that would include legal philosophers and philosophers of action in a discussion of the responsibility for inadvertent actions. We proposed the idea to John Gardner, who immediately expressed his enthusiasm for the project and accepted to act as co-organizer. We feel sad that he did not live to see the publication of this volume. His scholarship and stamina have been exemplary and inspiring.

We are grateful to all the participants of the workshop on ‘Negligence, Omissions and Responsibility’, which was held in spring 2016 at the University of Birmingham Law School. The school provided invaluable support and funds for the workshop. Thank you also to the Seminars Series Fund of the Modern Law Review (London School of Economics, London) for their financial help. We would also like to express our gratitude to all the contributors for their punctuality, enthusiasm and inspiring collaboration, Ann Luk for her research assistance and Benita Matthew and Jason de Mink for their assistance with the index of the book.

Veronica Rodriguez-Blanco would like to thank George Pavlakos for his energy, friendship and collaborative spirit manifested at every stage of the development of the volume. George Pavlakos would like to thank Veronica Rodriguez-Blanco for opening a whole new field of research for him.
