

Contents

List of figures and tables	xii
List of reality check activities	xv
About the authors	xvii
Preface	xix
Chapter 1 Performance and reward basics	1
John Shields, Jim Rooney, Michelle Brown and Sarah Kaine
Preview	1
Performance and reward management: promise and peril	2
Performance management basics	3
What is 'performance'?	4
Aims of performance management	6
Basic requirements for effective performance management	10
Reward management basics	13
'Reward' and 'total reward'	13
Remuneration	15
Aims of reward management	17
'Reality check' themes	18
Summary	21
Discussion questions	21
Case study: 'Companies that got rid of performance ratings aren't doing so well, sadly'	21
Chapter 2 Strategic alignment and psychological engagement: A systems thinking framework for effective performance and reward management	22
John Shields, Jim Rooney, Michelle Brown and Sarah Kaine
Preview	23
Strategic considerations: dimensions and alignment	24
Dimensions of strategic alignment: external/vertical and internal/horizontal	25
Achieving and maintaining external and internal strategic alignment	26
Business strategy	30
The employee value proposition	32
Work design	33
Managing strategic alignment and misalignment	34
Psychological engagement: dimensions and determinants	36
Work behaviour	36
Intra-personal influences on behaviour	39
Personality	41
Motivation	42
Organisational justice	52

Organisational trust	57
An integrated model of psychological engagement	60
Summary	61
Discussion questions	63
Case study: Deloitte Insights, 2018 Global Human Capital Trends Report	63
Chapter 3 Managing for results	69
Jim Rooney
Preview	69
What are 'results'?	70
Measuring results: KRAs, KPIs and goals	72
Promise and perils of measuring results	76
Using results-based techniques: goal-setting	78
Promise and perils of goal-setting	81
Using results-based techniques: the balanced scorecard	83
The balanced scorecard ideal	83
Promise and perils of balanced scorecards	85
Summary	91
Discussion questions	92
Case study: Employee self-regulation of performance I – the influence of evolving technology on the management of employee behaviour	92
Chapter 4 Performance appraisal and management	94
Jim Rooney
Preview	94
An overview of work performance assessment	95
Behavioural assessment	96
Competency assessment	96
Sources of assessment information	97
Behavioural information	97
Competency information	104
Common assessment methods in action	113
Behavioural assessment methods	113
Competency assessment methods	130
Common flaws in performance assessment and the shaping of employee performance	133
Behavioural assessment	134
Competency assessment	138
Assessing performance assessment	140
Behavioural assessment and performance management	141
Competence assessment and performance management	144
Performance appraisal: strategic considerations	146
Summary	149
Discussion questions	150
Case study: Employee self-regulation of performance II – the influence of evolving technology on the management of employee behaviour at Goldman Sachs	150

Chapter 5 Reviewing, discussing and developing employee performance 152

Michelle Brown

Preview	152
Managing underperformance	153
Causes of underperformance	153
From measurement to conversation	154
Performance review meetings	155
Review meeting preparation	155
The reviewer	155
The assessee	156
The review meeting	157
Timing	157
Content of the meeting	158
Review meeting styles	160
‘Tell and sell’	160
‘Tell and listen’	161
‘Problem-solving’	162
Negative feedback	164
Managers and negative feedback	165
Employees and negative feedback	165
Managing underperformance	167
Developing employees: employee coaching	171
What is coaching?	171
GROW model of coaching	173
Outcomes of coaching	174
Developing employees: mentoring	175
What is mentoring?	175
What is a mentor?	176
Phases in mentoring	177
Evaluating mentoring	178
Performance review and development: strategic alignment considerations	180
Summary	181
Discussion questions	182
Case study: Managing underperformance	182

Chapter 6 Base pay 183

John Shields

Preview	183
What is ‘base pay’?	184
Pay for the position versus pay for personal capabilities	185
Position-based structures	188
Pay scales	188
Pay grades	189
Pricing positions	190
Market survey methods	191

Job evaluation methods	196
Developing a graded base pay structure	208
Pros and cons of position-based base pay	212
Person-based base pay structures	214
Pay bands	214
Valuing personal capabilities	215
Pricing skills	215
Pricing competencies	218
Developing a banded base pay system	219
Skill blocks and bands	219
Competency zones and bands	221
Pros and cons of person-based pay	223
Strategic alignment with base pay	226
Summary	227
Discussion questions	227
Case study: Rethinking base pay at Commercial Law Partners	228

Chapter 7 Employee benefits 232

John Shields

Preview	232
Benefit plans: general contours	233
Definition and types	233
Purpose	234
Drivers	235
Challenges	238
Superannuation plans and severance pay	239
Defined benefit plans	244
Defined contribution plans	244
Hybrid plans	245
Severance pay	246
Health care and other forms of personal insurance	246
Health care insurance	247
Workers compensation, disability and life insurance	247
Leave and carer benefits	248
Payment for time not worked	248
Paid parental leave	248
Childcare and elder care	249
Other voluntary benefits	250
Voluntary financial benefits	250
Voluntary non-financial benefits	252
Flexible work-time and work–life balance programs	252
Wellness and well-being programs	253
Employee assistance programs	254
Fixed plans versus flexible plans	255
Fixed benefits	255
Flexible benefits	256
Benefits plan design and strategic alignment	259

Summary	260
Discussion questions	261
Case study: Employee benefits – which perks work?	261

Chapter 8 Recognising and rewarding individual performance 264

Sarah Kaine

Preview	264
Merit increments	265
Straight increments	265
The merit grid approach	266
The merits and demerits of merit increments	271
Merit bonuses	276
The effectiveness of merit pay	278
Merit pay in the public sector	281
Results-based individual incentives	284
Standard piece rate	285
‘Scientific’ piece rates	286
Task-and-time bonus plan	287
Sales commissions	289
Goal-based individual bonuses	291
Non-cash recognition	296
Non-cash recognition: for and against	299
Strategic alignment and individual reward and recognition	304
Summary	306
Discussion questions	307
Case study: Developing a non-cash recognition system	307

Chapter 9 Collective short-term incentive plans 308

John Shields

Preview	308
Collective short-term incentives: rationale and options	309
Profit-sharing	310
Varieties of profit-sharing	311
Profit-sharing and individual performance pay	313
Pros, cons, impact	315
Gainsharing	319
Scanlon Gainshare Plan	320
Rucker Plan	321
Improshare Plan	322
Weighing up single-factor gainsharing	323
Multifactor gainsharing	325
Evidence on the gains from gainsharing	328
Gainsharing: design and implementation	329
Goal-sharing	332
Goal-sharing: for and against	334
Team incentives	335

Team structure: process, parallel and project teams	336
Advantages and disadvantages of team incentives	338
Designing and implementing team incentives	340
Strategic alignment and collective incentives	345
Summary	347
Discussion questions	347
Case study: Rethinking incentives in Australian retail banking – are collective incentives the answer?	348

Chapter 10 Employee share ownership 350

Michelle Brown

Preview	350
Overview of employee share ownership	351
Rationale for employee share ownership	352
Types of employee shares	355
Share grants/gifts	355
Share purchase plans	356
Share option plans	358
Evaluating employee share ownership	360
For organisations	360
For employees	363
Employee share ownership and supportive HR policies	368
Strategic alignment considerations with employee share plans/long-term incentives	369
Summary	370
Discussion questions	371
Case study: Axis Bank	372

Chapter 11 System review, change and development 373

John Shields and Jim Rooney

Preview	373
Systems thinking and system purpose: a reprise	374
A framework for system development and change	377
Strategic alignment and psychological engagement revisited	379
Articulating a performance and reward philosophy and strategy	381
Philosophy statement	381
Strategy statement	382
Reviewing current practice	383
Diagnostic data	384
Prescriptive data	388
Recommendations for improved performance management practice	391
Performance management: system and process	391
Performance criteria	392
Performance feedback	394
Recommendations for improved reward practice	395
Total reward balance	398
Pay variability	399
Pay dispersion	399
Pay level	400

Pay transparency	401
Pay mix	403
Base pay	404
Benefits	405
Performance pay/incentives	405
Implementing change	407
Rehearsal	408
Roll-out	410
Change communication	411
Summary	412
Discussion questions	412
Case study: Beyond the hard sell – rethinking performance and reward practices at Wealth Bank Corporation (WBC)	413
Chapter 12 New horizons in performance and reward management	418
John Shields, Jim Rooney, Michelle Brown and Sarah Kaine
Preview	418
Introduction	419
Industry 4.0	420
What is Industry 4.0?	420
Implications of Industry 4.0 for employees and human resource management	423
The ‘gig economy’ and new organisational forms	427
What is the gig economy?	429
Carrots and sticks – performance management in the gig economy	430
Benefits in the gig economy	431
Supply chains and franchising	432
Impact of generational change	434
Baby boomers	435
Gen X	437
Gen Y (Millennials)	438
Gen Z	439
Managing intergenerational diversity	440
Reality check wrap-up: final thoughts, future prospects and new research	441
Strategic alignment	441
Employee engagement	444
Organisational justice	449
Workforce diversity	450
Summary	453
Discussion questions	454
Case study: Millennials, Gen Z and the future of performance and reward practice	455
References	456
Index	521