

Contents

List of Figures	page vii
Acknowledgments	viii
Notes on Transliteration	ix
Introduction	1
Why Iranian Women’s Commercial Magazines?	8
Who Is the Modern Woman?	15
Chapters Outline	19
Part I Magazines in the Making	23
1 The Press and the Legacy of the Past	25
The Emergence of an Independent Press	28
New Language, New Public Space	32
The Harbingers of Women’s Journals	40
2 Circulation, Commercialization, and State Intervention	49
Circulation Rates and the Struggle for Survival	54
Tehran’s Twin Giants: Ettela’at , Kayhan , and the Press Lords	60
Framing State–Press Relations and Gender Policy	65
3 Reproduction, Patronage, and Readership	83
Expensive to Produce, Cheaper to Reproduce	85
Publish or Perish: Marketing and Innovation during Crisis	92
Patriarchal Paternalism: Readership and Authorship	99
Part II Agents of Correlation and Change	113
4 Family Guidance, Domestic Technology, and the Modern Housewife	115
Women’s Magazines as Family “Problem Solving” Experts	119
Family Protection and Its Discontents	127
Home Technology: Labor-Saving or Enslaving?	138
Bearers of National Progress	148

vi	Contents
5	Youth Culture and the New Bi-Hejab Girl 154
	Gender and the Generation Gap 158
	The Subjugating Freedom of Feminine Visibility 164
	Disciplined Corporeality: Sound Mind, Healthy Body 175
	From “Spring Girl” to “Meritorious Girl” 182
	Serving King and Country: The Revolutionary Corps-Girls 192
6	Exogamy, Brain Drain, and the Western Woman 200
	Endogamy and International Marriages 206
	Migration of Talent and Marrying-Out 215
	Alienation, Mobility, and Devaluation of the Foreign-Educated Iranian 223
	The Iranian Man and Female “Others” 231
7	Queen, Working Mother, and the Making of the Royal Family 240
	Mission for His Country and the Gender Factor of Legitimacy 246
	Crafting the Image of the Pahlavi Family 255
	Working Queen: Mediating Public Duty and Family 261
	Ashraf Pahlavi: The Queen’s Antagonist and Access to Political Power 270
	Shahbanu in Iran, Farah Diba Abroad 274
	Conclusion and Summary 283
	Bibliography 301
	Index 323