

Contents

Preface	1
1 Introduction: Policy Science, Facts and the Post-Truth Challenge	2
2 Post-Truth Defined	6
3 Post-Truth: Ignorance and “Anything Goes”	8
4 The Political Rise of the Post-Truth Culture	10
5 Emotion and Post-Truth: Living with Falsehoods	13
6 Social Media and Disinformation	16
7 Beyond the Critique: Rescuing Interpretive Social Science	21
8 The Interpretive Policy-Analytic Approach: Social Meanings and Alternative Realities	23
9 Social Meaning in Interpretive Policy Analysis	27
10 Interpretive Social Science and the Scientific Community: The “Hard” Sciences	31
11 Citizens Confront the Experts: Context and Emotion in Ordinary Reason	33
12 Political and Policy Knowledge as Ordinary Practical Knowledge	35
13 Climate Policy and Denialism: A Political Illustration	38

14	Climate Policy and Politics: The Social Translation of Evidence into Political Knowledge	42
15	Climate Research: Uncertain Knowledge and Falsification	44
16	COVID-19 Denialism: Interpreting Narrative Arguments	47
17	Narrative Arguments and the Policy-Analytic Challenge: Interpreting COVID-19 Statistics in Social Context	53
18	Rejecting COVID-19 Lockdown: Interpreting Political-Economic and Ideological Arguments	60
19	Deliberating with Post-Truth Deniers: Concluding Remarks	67
	References	76