

Index

- act
 as a power-exercise, 3, 14–19 complete act, 160–64, 171–76, 187–89 immanent act, 149–53, 157–59, 161–62, 174, 186–87 productive immanent act, 158–59 incomplete act, 160–69, 187–89 transeunt act, 149–57, 161–62, 174 doubly transeunt act, 157 action aetiology, 2–6, 22–24, 30–31, 139–46, 194 action at a temporal distance, 141, 144 action theory
 agent-causal theory, 196–97, 199–200 and moral philosophy (philosophia moralis), 3–4 component analysis, 194–96, 198 Davidson’s event-causal theory, 193–94, 198
 vs. ethics and metaethics, 2 action vs. passion action, 3, 17–22, 81, 126, 151–57 identity of action and passion, 18–19, 151–53, 155–57 non-identity of action and passion in the human act, 19–20, 21–22, 158–59 passion, 3, 17–22, 81, 126, 151–57 adherence vs. withdrawal. See volition, attitude/content structure of volition Albert the Great, 154
 Alvarez, Maria, 17, 131, 196
 animal agency, 16, 67, 77, 182 Anscombe, G. E. M., 48
 anthropomorphism, 16–17
 Aristotle, 2, 12, 28–30, 52, 84, 132, 154, 162, 164–65, 178, 203 assent assent and judicative composition, 205–7 assent vs. dissent, 38–41, 106–7, 204 free assent. See judgment, free judgment/judgment of choice necessitated assent, 57–62 reason-based assent, 63–64, 70–72 brain
 as the organ of the internal senses, 180, 191
 Bratman, Michael, 142
 Brock, Stephen, 131–32, 196
 Buridan’s Ass cases, 30, 72 causal closure of the physical, 201 causal overdetermination, 201 causal theory of action. See action theory, Davidson’s event-causal theory
 cause causation and dependence, 84 efficient cause, 84–86, 89–91, 97–99, 105, 112–13, 126, 128–29, 137–39, 142–46, 186, 192, 201 equivalence of formal and final cause in the human act, 135–36 equivalence of formal and final cause in volition, 87–89, 135 event causation, 193–96, 198 exemplar cause. See cause, extrinsic formal cause extrinsic formal cause, 88, 100–2, 113, 134–35, 138–39 final cause, 86–89, 102, 113, 135–36, 144–46 four causes, 84–86
 instrumental cause, 122–25 intrinsic formal cause, 84–85, 87–89, 100–3, 112–13, 133–39, 176–77 material cause, 84–85
 per se vs. per accidens cause, 156–57 univocal vs. non-univocal cause, 104–5 change (motus)
 as an actualization of a passive power, 85–86, 90, 164–65 as an event, 18
 choice
 Aristotle’s deliberation-based theory, 28–30 as a commitment, 141–44 as the key aetiological factor of the human act, 5–6, 22–24, 31–33, 139–46

- moral relevance of choice, 32–33 non-deliberation-based choice, 28–30, 72 circumstances of the human act, 32, 119–21 command, 5, 117–25, 128–30, 132–35, 137–44, 159 as a situation-specific judgment, 119–20 as an aetiological factor of the human act, 139–44
 as form of the human act, 132–35, 138–39 as specifying the instrument, 122–25, 128, 142 vs. judgment of choice, 119–21, 124–25 commanded act, 5–6, 20–21, 117–18, 126–36, 137–39, 143–44, 146, 158–59, 174–77 bodily commanded act, 146, 153–57, 159–60, 169, 174, 186–90, 200–1 mental commanded act, 146, 182–92
 vs. elicited act, 20, 200 commandments, 43, 59–62 consent, 5, 31
 conservation of energy, 201 control (dominium), 23–24, 190–92 counsel, 25, 91
- Davidson, Donald, 193–99
 deliberation, 28, 31, 68, 71–72, 162 determinism, 33
 deviant causal chains, 195–96, 198–99 direction of fit mind-to-world, 39–40, 46, 77–78, 97–98, 128 world-to-mind, 78–79, 97–98, 128–29, 137–38 Donagan, Alan, 118, 125, 129–30 doubt, 28–29, 40–41
 dualism, 201–2
 duty/obligation, 48, 54
- end
 end state as individuator of act, 168–70, 188–89 end tree, 51, 144–45 non-ultimate end, 51, 53–54, 64–66, 69–72, 136 proximate vs. remote end. See end, end tree ultimate end, 4, 31–32, 51–55, 60–66
 ethics, 2, 4, 31–33, 48 exercise of the will. See will, self-motion of the will
- first principles
 first principle vs. first precept, 49, 59 of practical reason. See precepts, primary precepts of theoretical reason, 57–58 force/content distinction, 40 free decision (liberum arbitrium), 23, 33, 66–73, 96–97 freedom
 freedom of choice as related to freedom of judgment. See intellectualism
- freedom of specification vs. freedom of exercise, 95–97 of judgment. See judgment, free judgment/ judgment of choice of specifying the instrument, 123–24 subject vs. cause of freedom, 96–97
- Galen, 154
 Gauthier, René-Antoine, 118, 125
 George, Marie, 150–51
 good
 as a conformity of being to striving, 78–79 as related to ought, 49–50 good for/useful, 50
 good in general, 80–81
- habit, 12–13, 140
 happiness. See end, ultimate end Harré, Romano and Edward Madden, 11
 Hornsby, Jennifer, 126–27, 131, 196–97, 199–200 human act
 as a neural event, 200
 bodily human act, 147–77 durational heterogeneity of, 148, 174, 186–89 human act and action theory, 2–3 hylomorphic interpretation. See hylomorphism, act hylomorphism impediments of the human act, 130–31, 190–92 inherential heterogeneity of, 148, 159–60, 186–87 mental human act, 147–48, 178–92 multi-phase interpretation, 129–31 phenomenology vs. metaphysics, 130 volitionalist interpretation, 131–32
 vs. act of a human being, 23
- hylomorphism
 about material objects, 6, 13, 84–85, 176–77 act hylomorphism, 6, 19–22, 132–39, 177, 197–202 choice hylomorphism, 6, 26–28, 101–3, 111–13
 Hyman, John, 17, 131, 196
- imagination, 179–80
 intellectualism, 27, 92–97, 107, 111 intention (intentio), 5, 31–32 as a cognitive content, 180–81 intending two things at once, 173–74 intention in action, 195–96, 198 intentional action, 1, 4 intentionality
 original vs. derivative intentionality, 102–3, 110–13, 133–35 interior vs. exterior act. See commanded act, vs. elicited act

- judgment affirmation vs. negation, 38–39, 106–7 as composition and division, 203–7 judicative composition and division, 205–7 propositional composition, 205 as intentional state, 102–3 attitude/content structure of judgment, 38–41, 103, 105–7, 110–11, 203–7 free judgment/judgment of choice, 6, 25–27, 46–48, 62–73, 91–99, 102–3, 111–13, 119–21, 145–46
 judgment of synderesis, 58–62 practical judgment, 37–38, 41–42, 80–81, 83–84, 106–7
 second-order judgment, 66–73 theoretical judgment, 38, 41
 vs. simple apprehension, 38, 81, 108–9
- law
 natural law, 43, 49, 52, 54, 59–62 positive law, 43–44
- likeness, 39–40, 77–78, 100–1
- MacDonald, Scott, 34, 67, 136
 Mayr, Erasmus, 196
 McInerny, Ralph, 129–30
- means expedient means, 50–51, 53, 55, 63–64, 69–73 means as part of the end, 54–55 means as specification, 136–37 necessary means, 50–51, 53–55, 60–62, 64–66
- melancholia, 191–92
 Mele, Alfred, 185–88
 memory, 147–48, 179, 181–82 metaethics, 2, 4
 moral philosophy (philosophia moralis), 3–4
- movement
 movement in the transitive and intransitive sense, 126–28, 131–32, 141, 155–57, 196–97, 199–200
- object of the will, 82–84, 86–89, 94–95, 98, 102–3, 105–10, 112–13, 133, 137–38
- operable things, 42–49, 83 doable vs. makeable things, 42, 83 particular operable things, 62, 72–73, 80–81
- partial acts. See human act, multi-phase interpretation
- power
 acquired. See habit active, 3, 17–18, 81–82, 85–86, 91–92, 126 cogitative, 179–81
 executive, 122–29, 138–39
- motive power (vis motiva), 154–55, 157–60, 169, 173–76, 199
 natural, 12–13
 passive, 3, 17–18, 81–82, 85–86, 90, 91–92, 101, 126, 164–66
 power to be moved, 164–66
 vital, 14, 23
- powerful particular, 11–12
- practical science
 moral vs. productive science, 44
- practical truth, 45–46, 77–78
- precepts
 about doable things, 42–45 about makeable things, 44–45 definition of a precept, 48–49, 70–71 precepts relating an expedient means to a non-ultimate end, 53, 64, 69–72 precepts relating an expedient means to the ultimate end, 55, 63–64 precepts relating necessary means to a non-ultimate end, 53–54, 64–66 precepts relating necessary means to the ultimate end. See primary precepts precepts vs. enunciations, 41–42 primary precepts, 49, 54–55, 58–62 universal precepts. See law
- primary substance, 12, 75, 88, 137
- projectile motion, 141, 190
- pursuit vs. flight. See volition, attitude/content structure of volition
- reason
 as a power for general thought, 14, 23, 79 primary reason, 194, 198 reasons for action, 1, 63–64, 69–73, 194 theoretical vs. practical, 25, 41–42, 45–46, 57–59, 61
- relations
 mind-dependent relations, 70
- reminiscing, 182–92
 as involving a quasi-syllogistic procedure, 182–85
 vs. remembering, 183–86, 187
- Searle, John, 39, 79, 194–99
- self-evidence for all, 58, 60–61
- senses, 14, 23, 75–76, 79 external senses, 179–80 internal senses, 179–82
- skilled agency, 29–30, 42, 51, 72
- soul, 14, 159–60, 177, 186
- specification of volition. See will, will's dependence on reason in formal-causal terms
- Steward, Helen, 131, 196

- striving natural striving, 75 rational striving. See volition, as rational striving sensory striving, 75–79, 104, 157 striving vs. striving power, 74–75 Suárez, Francisco, 119–21, 124–25 substance causation, 15–16, 197–99 substantial form, 13–14, 21, 85, 89, 176–77
- Thalberg, Irving, 194
 the problem of the absent agent, 198–99
 Thomas of Sutton, 158–59
 Thompson, Michael, 109
 token vs. type acts, 32
 triad of being, life, and thought, 52, 60
- use, 5, 20–22, 117–18 as a per accidens temporal act, 175–76, 189 as an immanent act, 157–59, 186–87, 200 as efficient cause of the commanded act, 126–29, 137–39, 146, 186, 192
 as form of the human act, 133–39, 146, 177, 186 as simultaneous with the commanded act, 128, 134, 174–76, 189–90 as the human act. See human act, volitionalist interpretation hylomorphic structure of use, 137–38 useful. See good, good for/useful
- Vendler, Zeno, 169
 virtual remaining (virtute manere), 139–46, 147–48
- vital spirits, 154–55
 Vlastos, Gregory, 84
 volition
 as a derivatively intentional state, 102–3, 110–13, 133–35, 137–39 as inclination, 78, 112, 124, 137–39 as rational striving, 26, 75–76, 79–81, 93, 104–5, 108–9, 112–13 attitude/content structure of volition, 105–10, 133 definition of volition, 6 non-propositional content of volition, 107–10, 133, 138–39 preferential volition. See choice self- vs. other-directed volition, 107–9 simple volition, 5, 31, 91, 129–30 volition ascriptions, 109–10 voluntarism, 92–93
- Westberg, Daniel, 129
 will definition of the will, 14 self-motion of the will, 26, 90–92, 95, 97, 142–43 will's dependence on reason in final-causal terms, 86–89, 98–99, 113 in formal-causal terms, 87–89, 98–99, 102–13, 133, 137–39, 145–46 will's deviation from reason strong deviation, 93–95 weak deviation, 93–96