

Contents

List of Contributors	page ix
Introduction Eugene D. Mazo and Michael R. Dimino	1
1 Presidential Selection: Historical, Institutional, and Democratic Perspectives James A. Gardner	10
2 The Historical Development of the U.S. Presidential Nomination Process Richard H. Pildes	36
3 Constitutional Law and the Presidential Nomination Process Richard Briffault	54
4 Winnowing and Endorsing: Separating the Two Distinct Functions of Party Primaries Edward B. Foley	80
5 Simplifying Presidential Primaries Derek T. Muller	105
6 The Case for Standardizing Primary Voter Eligibility Rules Michael R. Dimino	126
7 Primary Day: Why Presidential Nominees Should Be Chosen on a Single Day Eugene D. Mazo	145

viii	Contents
8	A Eulogy for Caucuses Sean J. Wright	174
9	Floor Fight: Protecting the National Party Conventions from Manipulation Michael T. Morley	203
10	A Better Financing System? The Death and Possible Rebirth of the Presidential Nomination Public Financing Program Richard Briffault	235
11	Campaign Finance Deregulation and the Hyperpolarization of Presidential Nominations in the Super PAC Era Michael S. Kang	260
12	Democratizing the Presidential Debates Ann M. Ravel and Charlotte Hill	279
13	The Influence of Technology on Presidential Primary Campaigns Anthony J. Gaughan	309
14	Women and the Presidency Cynthia Richie Terrell	330
15	The Nomination of Presidential Candidates by Minor Political Parties Richard Winger	357
16	Reforming the Presidential Nominating Process: A Curmudgeon's View Bradley A. Smith	386
	Index	404