Index

acts
activity-based risks of persecution, 223–226
behaviour as ‘important’ for identity, 115–125 ‘beyond mere expression’, 177–182 core/marginal acts distinction, 8, 10, 27, 37, 43, 75
disclosure, and, 45
discourse analysis, and, 34, 36, 43
discretion/disclosure dichotomy, and, 46
double bind as to, 37–44, 67, 102, 126 function of identity, 48, 54 groups, in relation to, 12 heterosexual identity and same-sex sexual
acts, 36–39
identity, and, 22, 26–28, 33–34, 57–58, 166, 169
queer theory, and, 37–44
terminological usage, 33–34
Aleinikoff, T. Alexander, 186
Arbour, Louise, 203
Arbour, Louise, 203
asylum arising of sexuality-based claims, 14, 23
contradictory notions in refugee law, 24
discourse analysis, and, 36
discretion/disclosure dichotomy, and, 46 political opinion-based claims, 5, 13, 46–47 refugee law and sexuality-based claims in relation, 23
religion-based claims, 5, 13, 47, 79–73, 75 sexuality-based claims aligned with other persecution grounds, 5, 13, 18 Australia. See also S395/2002 case act/identity dichotomy, and, 38, 41–42, 44
asylum judgments, 16, 26, 37
comparative research, 54
dialogue with other common law jurisdictions, 64 ‘fundamentality principle,’ and, 26 investigation of motive for discretion, 6–7 previous asylum case law, use of, 4
research on, 51
‘social perception’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 190
‘why test’ of discretion, 7 behaviour. See acts behaviour, restraint of. See concealment; discretion
bisexuality, asylum judgments, 33
Buxton, Richard, 9
Canada
act/identity dichotomy, and, 38
asylum judgments, 16, 37
comparative research, 54
dialogue with other common law jurisdictions, 64
heterosexual identity and same-sex sexual
acts, 40
‘protected characteristics’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 185
research on, 51
‘social perception’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 187 characteristics hidden. See concealment protected. See protected characteristics Common European Asylum System establishment of, 54, 60–62
research on, 20
UK, and, 64
comparative research, 54–56

© in this web service Cambridge University Press www.cambridge.org
concealment ‘closet’ concept, and, 15 controversy as to, 1–2 discretion as, 16, 30
reason for, 5
refugee law, and, 25
scope of refugee protection, and, 28 conduct. See acts content analysis, 49
Convention grounds. See Refugee Convention 1951 Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees 1951. See Refugee Convention 1951 Danvergne, Catherine, 204–205 disclosure
‘act/identity dichotomy’, and, 45–46
asylum claims, and, 46
compulsory, 47
discernment, and, 44–48, 57–58
forbidden, 47
groups, and, 46–47
discourse analysis
act/identity dichotomy, and, 34, 36, 43
concept of, 34
content analysis, and, 49
discernment, and, 34
homosexuality, and, 34
legal doctrine, of, 48–51 reality, social construction of, 35 truth, and, 34
discernment. See also concealment
‘act/identity dichotomy’, and, 22–23, 45–46, 166, 169
adaptability of, 163
assumption of, 6
asylum claims, and, 46
consent, as, 16, 30
contradictory notions in refugee law, 24
discernment as to, 2
Constitution of, 22
creation of discretion reasoning, 166, 169 criticism of discretion reasoning, 2–17
definition of, 50
disclosure, and, 44–48, 57–58
discourse analysis, and, 34
human rights, and, 24, 222–228
identity, and, 22
investigation of motive for, 6 multiplicity of forms of, 166 omnipresence of, 235–238 persistence of discretion reasoning, 19, 28, 234 prevalence of, 163
protected characteristics, 22 ‘reasonable expectation’ of, 4, 16, 75, 165 rejection of discretion reasoning, 61–78 requirement, 2–4 research on discretion reasoning. See research scope of refugee protection, and, 167 sexual orientation, and, 34 ‘why test’ of, 7
doctrinal legal research, 48–51 discernment, legal, definition of, 48 double bind as to act/identity dichotomy, 37–44 67, 102, 164
Edwards, Alice, 19
European Union. See also Qualification Directive
asylum judgments, 11, 19, 53–55, 58, 61–64
comparative research, 54
compétence as to asylum, 61–62 human rights, religion and, 211–214 political opinion as ground for persecution, 181
refugee law, 53–55, 58, 233–235
religion-based asylum claims, 211–214 research in, 31
UK withdrawal (Brexit), 64
Foster, Michelle, 14, 54, 188, 192, 194, 202, 206, 216, 220
Foucault, Michel, 34–37
France
act/identity double bind, 126, 164
acts/identity dichotomy, and, 79
availability of asylum judgments, 85
case study, 50, 53, 58
consitutional right to asylum, 79, 81, 87
content of judgments, 85
Constitution of, 80
discernment reasoning, 84, 103–102, 163, 166 doctrinal location of ‘discernment,’ 102, 165
double bind as to act/identity dichotomy, 126
EU asylum case law, and, 101
Germany compared, 95, 102, 115, 125–126
government bodies dealing with asylum, 80
human rights, asylum judgments and, 102, 126
‘particular social group,’ definition of, 86 ‘persecutor perception’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 87, 104 political opinion as ground for persecution, 178, 180 present study’s contribution to research, 84 public manifestation of sexual orientation, test of, 86–93
Qualification Directive, and, 82, 90, 101, 164
‘reasonable requirement’ for discretion, 165
refugee law, 80, 82
research on sexuality-based asylum judgments, 83
sexual orientation as ground for persecution, 86 sexual orientation claims, 93–100
sexual orientation, social groups based on, 83–94, 101–102
sexuality-based asylum claims, 79
Spain compared, 126–127, 144
UK asylum case law, and, 101
Frank, Anne, 226–228
Fullerton, Maryellen, 189
‘gay person’, definition of, 36–41 ‘gay’, terminological usage, 32 gender identity, sexual orientation distinguished, 33 Germany
act/identity double bind, 115, 164
acts/identity dichotomy, and, 103, 107, 115, 125
asylum judgments, 103, 107
availability of asylum judgments, 107
behaviour as ‘important’ for identity, 115–125
case study, 50, 52, 58
constitutional right to asylum, 103
content of judgments, 107
Convention, and, 103
discretion reasoning, 106–107, 111–112, 115, 125, 163, 166
doctrinal location of ‘discrimination,’ 126, 165
double bind as to act/identity dichotomy, 126
EU asylum case law, and, 125
‘fatefully determined’ sexuality as basis for protection, 107–115
France compared, 93, 102, 115, 125–126
government bodies dealing with asylum, 106
human rights, and, 108
identity as basis for asylum decisions, 103–107, 196 ‘persecutor perception’ approach to protection, 97 political opinion as ground for persecution, 176, 179–181
Qualification Directive, and, 105, 116, 125, 164
‘reasonable requirement’ for discretion, 105
referral to European Court of Justice, 11, 62, 68, 70
refugee law, 103
religion-based asylum claims, 70, 75
research on sexuality-based asylum judgments, 106
sexual orientation as ground for persecution, 103
sexual orientation, social groups based on, 105, 108, 117, 122, 125–126
Spain compared, 144
UK asylum case law, and, 111, 125
Goodwin-Gill, Guy, 187, 190, 194–195
Grahl-Madsen, Ale, 13, 171–172, 175, 177–178, 183, 188, 197, 217, 226
groups, 197
acts in relation to, 12 Convention grounds, as, 58
definition of, 68, 92
disclosure, and, 46–47
discourse analysis, and, 24 discretion reasoning as to, 197 gaps in protection, 188, 192–194 membership of, 2
membership of particular social group as Convention ground, 173, 184
‘particular social group’, definition of, 86, 185–189, 191, 196–197
persecution of, 2–3
persecutor perception of, 87, 97, 178, 183, 190–192, 194
‘protected characteristics’ approach to
membership of a particular social group, 184–187
severity of persecution, 187–188 sexual orientation, based on, 74 ‘singling out’ for persecution, 194–197 ‘social perception’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 184–185, 188–196 ‘something extra’ requirement for social groups
based on sexual orientation, 145
Haines, Rodger, 9, 14, 216, 220, 223 Halley, Janet, 35, 42
harm. See persecution
Harvey, Colin, 204–205
Hathaway, James, 1, 8–14, 26–27, 171–180, 185–186, 188, 192, 194, 200, 202, 206, 209–211, 215–223, 228, 249–251
heteronormativity, terminological usage, 32 ‘heterosexual’, terminological usage, 32 hidden characteristics. See concealment HJ (Iran) and HT (Cameroon) v. Secretary of State for the Home Department case (UK), 1–17, 21, 26, 53, 61, 64–68, 75, 77, 101, 162, 164, 179, 217, 222, 225–226, 249
homophobia. See persecution ‘homosexual’, terminological usage, 32 homosexuality
discourse analysis, and, 34
heterosexual identity and same-sex sexual acts, 35–39
queer theory, and, 34–37
social construction of, 35
human rights
activity-based risks of persecution, 223–226
claimant-based approach to persecution, 215–219
human rights (cont.)
Convention grounds, and, 208–214
Convention, and, 24
difference in scope with refugee law, 205–206 discretion, and, 24
framework for refugee protection, 198–200
harms arising from fact of having to hide ‘(endogenous harms)’, 225 legitimation of discretion, 222–228 persecutor-based approach to persecution, 215, 219–222
persecution, and, 206–208
refugee law in relation, 200–208, 228–230 religion, and, 211–214
‘serious violations’ of, 25 ‘severity argument’ as to violations of, 25, 27
sexual orientation, and, 209–211 tiers of rights, 201
identity
acts as function of, 34 acts, and, 22, 26–27, 33–34, 57–58, 166, 169 behaviour as ‘important’ for, 115–125
Convention grounds, and, 24
disclosure, and, 45
discourse analysis, and, 34, 36, 43
discretion, and, 22
discrimination/disclosure dichotomy, and, 46
double bind as to, 37–44, 67, 102, 164 gender identity and sexual orientation distinguished, 33
heterosexual identity and same-sex sexual acts, 36
persecution, and, 45
queer theory, and, 37–44
LaViolette, Nicole, 37
legal doctrine, definition of, 48 ‘lesbian,’ terminological usage, 32
Macklin, Audrey, 189
Millbank, Jenni, 10, 16, 37, 44, 46, 206, 251 nationality as Convention ground, 172 Netherlands
‘gay person’, definition of, 36–41
referral to European Court of Justice, 73
New Zealand
claimant-based approach to persecution, 215–217, 219
comparative research, 54
dialogue with other common law jurisdictions, 64
discretion reasoning, 222
research on, 51
‘severity argument’, and, 27 non-disclosure. See concealment oppression. See persecution particular social groups. See groups persecution act of, 28
activity-based risks of, 223–226 attempts to reduce risk of, 226
claimant-based approach to persecution, 215–219
concealment for fear of, 5 Convention definition of, 171
definition of, 25, 201
harms arising from fact of having to hide ‘(endogenous harms)’, 228
human rights, and, 206–208
identity, and, 45
persecutor-based approach to, 219–222 persecutor as ‘definer’ of persecuted, 243–247 persecutor perception, 87, 97, 178, 183, 190–192, 194 personal and individual persecution, requirement for proof of, 134–135 political opinion, and, 178–180 reasons for (‘Convention grounds’), 2–3, 28, 171, 242–243 ‘severity argument’, 25–27, 170, 185, 187–188, 238–242 sexuality-based asylum claims aligned with other grounds, 5
‘significant transcendence’ of past persecution, 146–152 ‘singling out’ for, 194–197 types of, 45
Pohjon, Jason, 1, 8–13, 26–27, 171, 177, 207, 209–211, 215–217, 223, 228, 249–251 political opinion acts ‘beyond mere expression’, 177–182 asylum claims based on. See asylum Convention ground, as, 174, 182–183
definition of, 175–177
liberal approach to definition of, 180 restrictive approach to definition of, 178–180 privacy. See public/private divide protected characteristics. See Convention grounds
contradictory notions as to protection, 24 Convention, under, 19, 22, 24, 28, 36–41
discrimination/disclosure dichotomy, and, 47 ‘surrogate’ protection, notion of, 25 public/private divide, queer theory and, 33 Spain (cont.)
criminalisation as persecution, 135–137 disbelief of claimant’s sexual orientation, 141–145 discretion reasoning, 137, 162, 165 docetrical location of discretion, 137, 162, 165
EU asylum case law, and, 162
France compared, 126, 144
Germany compared, 144
government bodies dealing with asylum, 120
human rights, asylum judgments and, 160, 162 non-admissibility of asylum claims, 139–145 past persecution, requirement for ‘significant transcendence’ of, 146–152, 161 ‘persecutor perception’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 194 personal and individual persecution, requirement for proof of, 134–135
political opinion as ground for persecution, 178, 180
Qualification Directive, and, 129, 138–140, 145–146, 152, 161, 164
‘reasonable requirement’ for discretion, 165
refugee law, 129
research on sexuality-based asylum judgments, 130 restrictive approach to refugee definition, 161 review of asylum jurisprudence, 139 sexual orientation as Convention ground, 132 sexual orientation, social groups based on,
130, 145
‘something extra’ requirement for social groups
based on sexual orientation, 145–146
‘state persecution’ requirement, 152–161
UK asylum case law, and, 162
Spijkerboer, Thomas, 221
’tight,’ terminological usage, 32 Tobin, John, 10, 250
transgender persons, gender identity and sexual orientation distinguished, 33 truth, discourse analysis and, 34
UN High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR)
Guidelines on International Protection, 32, 62, 152, 155, 192, 233–234
‘particular social group,’ definition of, 185, 191
Spanish asylum decisions, and, 134, 151
United Kingdom. See also HJ (Iran) and HT (Cameroon) v. Secretary of State for the Home Department case
act/identity dichotomy, and, 44
asylum judgments, 3, 14, 16, 26, 37, 58
Brexit, 64
claimant-based approach to persecution, 217 combative research, 54
contradictory approaches to discretion, 26 dialogue with other common law jurisdictions, 64
EU refugee law, and, 64
‘fundamentality principle,’ and, 26 guidance on sexual orientation and gender identity, 233
human rights, 198
Persecutor-based approach to persecution, 219
previous asylum case law, use of, 5, 7
research on, 51
‘why test’ of discretion, 7
United Nations. See also Refugee Convention 1951
United States
act/identity dichotomy, and, 38
asylum judgments, 37
criminalisation of sodomy, 36 discetion/disclosure dichotomy, and, 46 ‘protected characteristics’ approach to membership of a particular social group, 185
Verdirame, Guglielmo, 10
Walker, Kristen, 41