CONTENTS

Acknowledgements page xi
List of Abbreviations xii

Introduction 1

1 The Rise of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 1

2 The Implications of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 3

3 Approach of This Book 6

4 Relevant Legal Frameworks and Research Questions 8

5 Structural Overview 12

1 Features, Typologies and Effects of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 17

1.1 Introduction 17

1.2 Features of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 17

1.2.1 Dimensions of Sustainability 20

1.2.2 Variety of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Requirements and a Market for Rules 23

1.2.3 Providing Information Through Labelling and Consumer Choice 28

1.3 Differences Between Voluntary Sustainability Standards and Technical Standards 29

1.3.1 Beneficiaries, Rationales and Form of Requirements 30

1.3.2 Management System Standards 33
Table of Contents

1.4 A Taxonomy of Institutional Arrangements of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Bodies and Their Output 34
  1.4.1 Multi-stakeholder Voluntary Sustainability Standards 37
  1.4.2 Sectoral Voluntary Sustainability Standards 40
  1.4.3 Company Voluntary Sustainability Standards 43
  1.4.4 Institutional Setting and Legitimacy 45

1.5 Impacts of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 47
  1.5.1 Effectiveness in Pursuing Their Stated Objectives 48
  1.5.2 Effects on Trade and Consequent Distributional Implications 52

1.6 Conclusion 56

2 Public Authority and Voluntary Sustainability Standards 58
  2.1 Introduction 58
  2.2 Complementarity Between Public and Transnational Private Regimes 59
    2.2.1 Horizontal Complementarity of Norms and Regulatory Functions 61
    2.2.2 Vertical Complementarity of Norms and Regulatory Functions 66

  2.3 Interactions Between Public Authority and Voluntary Sustainability Standards 69
    2.3.1 Collaborative Rule-making as Public Use of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 70
    2.3.2 Coordination of Regulatory Effects as Facilitation of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 72
    2.3.3 Hybridisation of Public and Private Regimes as Reciprocal Influence 75

  2.4 Limits to Complementarity 78
    2.4.1 Tensions with International and European Economic Law and Informal Delegation 79
    2.4.2 Shortcomings of a Functionalist Approach 85

  2.5 A Function for Public Authority Towards Voluntary Sustainability Standards 88
CONTENTS vii

2.5.1 Normatively Desirable Forms of Public Action 89
2.5.2 Coordinates for Public Action and Relevant Legal Provisions 93

2.6 Conclusion 99

3 Voluntary Sustainability Standards Under EU Competition Law 101

3.1 Introduction 101

3.2 Multi-stakeholder and Sectoral Voluntary Sustainability Standards as Standardisation Agreements Under Art. 101 TFEU 103
3.2.1 Setting Sustainability Standards as an Economic Activity 104
3.2.2 Possible Exclusion of Voluntary Sustainability Standards from Art. 101(1) and Proportionality Assessments 106
3.2.3 Voluntary Sustainability Standards Under the Commission Guidelines for Horizontal Agreements 111
3.2.4 Restrictions to Competition Potentially Generated by Multi-stakeholder and Sectoral Voluntary Sustainability Standards on the Market for Sustainable Products 117

3.3 Sustainability Goals Under Art. 101(3) TFEU 122
3.3.1 Modernisation of EU Competition Law and Accountable Efficiencies 123
3.3.2 Pro-competitive Effects of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Under Art. 101(3) 127
3.3.3 Expanding the Assessment Under Art. 101(3) and Balancing Pro- and Anti-competitive Effects of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 130

3.4 Possible Competition Concerns Under Art. 102 TFEU 136
3.4.1 Exclusionary Abuses Under Art. 102 TFEU 137
3.4.2 Exploitative Abuses Under Art. 102 TFEU 140

3.5 Voluntary Sustainability Standards and State Action Doctrine 142

3.6 Assessing Potential Effects of Competition Enforcement and Guidance 144

3.7 Conclusion 147
4 Voluntary Sustainability Standards and EU Market Regulation

4.1 Introduction 150

4.2 Voluntary Sustainability Standards and Freedom of Movement 152
  4.2.1 The Notion of Market Access 152
  4.2.2 Horizontal Application of Treaty Freedoms and Art. 34 TFEU 154
  4.2.3 Understanding Possible Boundaries of Art. 34 TFEU 160
  4.2.4 Possible Treatment of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Under Art. 34 TFEU 164

4.3 Private Regulation and Technical Standards in the Internal Market 168
  4.3.1 Standardisation and EU Integration 169
  4.3.2 Standards, Legal Review and Other Means for Coordinating Private Regulation 172

4.4 Employment of Voluntary Sustainability Standards by EU Authorities 176
  4.4.1 EU Use of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Through Formal Recognition and Collaborative Rule-making 177
  4.4.2 EU Coordination as Facilitation of Voluntary Sustainability Standards 180
  4.4.3 Hybridisation of Private Regimes 183

4.5 Assessing Potential Effects of Internal Market Rules and Public–Private Interactions 188

4.6 Conclusion 191

5 Attribution and Expected Conduct of WTO Members Towards Voluntary Sustainability Standards 193

5.1 Introduction 193

5.2 Attribution of Private Conduct Under Public International Law 196

5.3 Voluntary Sustainability Standards and Forms of Their Public Employment Under the GATT Rules for Attribution 199
5.3.1 WTO Law and Private Action 200
5.3.2 Private and Public Components of a Measure and Their Effects 205
5.3.3 Attribution of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Under the GATT 207

5.4 Typologies of Voluntary Sustainability Standards Covered by the Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement 211
  5.4.1 Mandatory/Voluntary Dichotomy Under the Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement 212
  5.4.2 Voluntary Sustainability Standards Covered by the Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement 216
  5.4.3 Voluntary Sustainability Standards as International Standards 219

5.5 Technical Barriers to Trade Obligations for WTO Members with Reference to EU Practice 223
  5.5.1 The Two-fold Obligation for WTO Members in Art. 4.1 Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement 225
  5.5.2 Due Diligence in International Law 226
  5.5.3 Operationalising Due Diligence and Reasonably Available Measures 230
  5.5.4 Possible Extent of the Obligation Not to Encourage Deviations from the Technical Barriers to Trade Code 234

5.6 Conclusion 237

6 Transposing Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement Meta-rules to Voluntary Sustainability Standards 240

6.1 Introduction 240

6.2 Substantive Technical Barriers to Trade Rules 242
  6.2.1 Applicability of the Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement to Voluntary Sustainability Standards and Processes and Production Methods 243
  6.2.2 Extraterritoriality, Coercion and the Processes and Production Methods Scope of the Technical Barriers to Trade Agreement 247
  6.2.3 The Provisions of the Technical Barriers to Trade Code of Good Practice 251
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>6.3 Non-discrimination</td>
<td>256</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.1 Legitimate Objectives Pursued by Voluntary Sustainability Standards and Technical Standards</td>
<td>257</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.2 Legitimate Regulatory Distinctions and Treatment No Less Favourable</td>
<td>258</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.3 Even-handedness and Voluntary Sustainability Standards’ Horizontal Complementarity</td>
<td>263</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.3.4 Even-handedness and Voluntary Sustainability Standards’ Vertical Complementarity</td>
<td>269</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.4 Unnecessary Trade-restrictiveness</td>
<td>270</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.5 Obligation to Use International Standards</td>
<td>274</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.6 Assessing Potential Effects of Technical Barriers to Trade Meta-principles in Combination with the Obligations Imposed on WTO Members</td>
<td>276</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>6.7 Conclusion</td>
<td>278</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Conclusion</td>
<td>281</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Bibliography 299
Index 354