

Global 1979

The Iranian Revolution of 1979 not only had an impact on regional and international affairs, but was made possible by the world and time in which it unfolded. This multidisciplinary volume presents this revolution within its transnational and global contexts. Moving deftly from the personal to the global and from the provincial to the national, it draws attention to the multiplicity of spaces of the revolution such as streets, schools, prisons, personal lives, and histories such as the Cold War and Global 1960s and 1970s. With a broad range of approaches, Global 1979 conceives of the Iranian Revolution not as exceptional or anachronistic, but as an uprising constituted by multiple, interwoven geographies and histories, which disrupt static and bounded notions of the local, national, regional, and global.

The Global Middle East series seeks to broaden and deconstruct the geographical boundaries of the “Middle East” as a concept to include North Africa, Central and South Asia, and diaspora communities in Western Europe and North America. The series features fresh scholarship that employs theoretically rigorous and innovative methodological frameworks resonating across relevant disciplines in the humanities and the social sciences. In particular, the general editors welcome approaches that focus on mobility, the erosion of nation-state structures, travelling ideas and theories, transcendental technopolitics, the decentralization of grand narratives, and the dislocation of ideologies inspired by popular movements. The series will also consider translations of works by authors in these regions whose ideas are salient to global scholarly trends but have yet to be introduced to the Anglophone academy.

This volume is the product of two workshops we organized in 2019 for the fortieth anniversary of the Iranian Revolution. The first was held at New York University in May 2019, and the second at Columbia University in December 2019. These two-day events were generously supported by a number of institutions at both universities that we would like to recognize. At NYU we thank the Gallatin School for Individualized Study, the Iranian Studies Initiative, Center for the Humanities, Kevorkian Center for Near Eastern Studies, Global Research Initiatives of the Office of the Provost, and the Department of Middle Eastern and Islamic Studies. The second workshop and conference was made possible by contributions from Columbia University's Middle East Institute, Institute for Religion, Culture, and Public Life, and the Ehsan Yarshater Center for Iranian Studies. We also appreciate funding from the Persian Heritage Foundation. We are grateful for the support and assistance of Atefeh Akbari Shahmirzadi, Hamid Dabashi, Carolyn Dinshaw, Lynette Hacopian, Fidel Harfouche, Allison Jungkurth, Marion Katz, Brinkley Messick, Manijeh Moradian, Marianna Pecoraro, James Ryan, Greta Scharnweber, Tandi Singh, and Helga Tawil-Souri.

Discussions at these workshops not only informed the individual chapters in this collection, but were invaluable in calibrating the intellectual compass of our project and the opportunities and limitations in approaching the 1979 revolution from a global perspective. We were fortunate to have the active participation and feedback of colleagues and students who attended one or both of the workshops. We acknowledge with much gratitude Ervand Abrahamian, Roham Alvandi, Arash Azizi, Hamid Dabashi, Mehdi Faraji, Yalda Hamidi, Firoozeh Kashani-Sabet, Setrag Manoukian, Bitá Mousavi, Brian Plungis, Leila Pourtavaf, Saira Rafiee, Nasrin Rahimieh, Golbarg Rekabtalaei, Saharnaz Samaeinejad, Atefeh Akbari Shahmirzadi, Shahla Talebi, and Omid Tofghian.
