CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-108-84079-8 — Communicative Efficiency
Natalia Levshina
Index
More Information

Index

accessibility, 18–19
  and common ground, 20, 39
  and competing referents, 39 and markedness, 47
  and previous discourse, 38 and syntactic functions, 38 and thematic roles, 38
  in poetry vs. prose, 22 in Relevance Theory, 19 of coreferential and disjoint-reference objects, 46 of referents, 19
  of syntactic constituents, 19 of syntactic structures, 28 quantitative measures, 20
Accessibility Hierarchy, 53
Accessibility Theory, 142 agreement (indexing), 145 alignment of conceptual representations, 34 ambiguity, 16–17, 139
ambiguity avoidance, 206 analogy, 136
analytic causatives. See causatives analytic support, 98–99 anticausative (inchoative) alternation, 129 anticausatives, 129
argument omission, 39–40 and agreement (indexing), 43 and habitual actions, 42 and politeness, 42
  Deprofiled Object Construction, 42
  Implicit Theme Construction, 42 object omission, 40–43
  omission of objects of win, 41 subject omission, 44, 141 subject omission and indexing, 141 argument prominence, scale of, 45 articulation costs, 12, 102 artificial language learning, 111, 118, 187, 226 and communication, 226–227 Attraction, 231
audience design, 32–33, 62, 64 cognitive load, 33
automatization of articulation, 125 avoidance of identity. See horror aequi

binomial expressions, 70, 73
'buying time', 63

case marking, 145, see also differential case marking causation
  Causee, role of, 157
  curative, 157, 186–187
  direct and indirect, 156–158, 165, 180 implicative and non-implicative, 178 intentional and accidental, 158 permissive, 157
  with involved Causer, 174
causative alternation, 129 causative continuum, 155–156
causatives, 129, 165
  'default', 163, 178
  analytic vs. lexical, 173 analytic/periphrastic, 128, 155, 157 and I- and M-implicatures, 160 and iconicity, 159, 167, 191 Causee marking, 191
  diachronic sources, 182–183
  formal compactness, 161 lexical, 155, 157
  morphological, 155, 157
  morphological vs. lexical, 173 productivity, 176
  semantic generalization, 185 with auxiliaries doen and laten in Dutch, 185–186 with auxiliary make, 183 chunking, 125
cognitive complexity. See principle of (reduction of) cognitive complexity cognitive effects, 8–9, 103, 114

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-108-84079-8 — Communicative Efficiency
Natalia Levshina
Index
More Information

competing motivations, 136 systemic pressure, 48
complementizers, 51
  that, 52
compositionality, 128–129
conditional inference trees, 172 conditional probability, 211
  Feature given Role, 209–210, 213, 218, see also differential case marking Role given Feature, 210, 216, 220, 222, see also differential case marking connectors
  causal and concessive, 51 omission of, 51
  particle to, 52
constant information rate, 20–21, 75, 85 Construction Grammar and efficiency, 244 conventional implicatures, 51 Cooperative Principle, 29 coreferentiality, 45
  and self-directed vs. other-directed verbs, 45
  and verb semantics, 45
coronavirus. See COVID-19 pandemic COVID-19 pandemic, 4
cross-register doublets, 97

dative alternation, 49–50, 71 and accessibility of arguments, 71 defamiliarization, 92 dependency locality theory, 67, 77 differential case marking, 193 and distance from the verb, 206 and iconicity of markedness, 206, 210, 221 and TAM categories, 203
  and topicality, 225
  and word order, 205, 226, 228
  as expectation management, 205 differential object marking, 48, 193, 195, 202, 207 differential place (locative) marking, 48 differential recipient marking, 49 differential subject marking, 193, 196, 202, 207 distinguishing/disambiguating function, 203, 205, 207–209, 222 global and local, 203, 223 identifying/indexing function, 207 probabilistic/optional, 204 referential features as cues, 204 source-based explanation, 224 universal scale effects, problem of, 196, 202 differential enhancement, 111–112, 223 differential inhibition, 115 differential object indexing, 44 differential reduction, 109–110, 184, 223 disjoint reference. See coreferentiality double centre-embedded clauses, 67, 101

Easy First bias, 28, 72 entropy of order, 147
equal complexity, assumption of, 150 evolution, biological, 3 extraposed prepositional phrases, 86

Fast Causal Inference (FCI), 149
figure-first preference, 71 force of diversification, 15 force of unification, 15 formal enhancement, 108, 111, 114 formal reduction, 107–110, 119, 125–126, see also phonetic reduction frequency, 47, 49, 122–123, 125–127, 130 Funes the Memorious, 128 future, 114

garden path sentences, 29, 72 gender differences in language processing, 247 gender-equal language, 11–12
Generalized Additive Models (GAMs), 242
Gestalts, multimodal, 144
gestures, 23, 144
'good-enough' efficiency, 31, 65
'good-enough' processing, 72
Google Books Ngrams, 237 grammaticalization, 109, 119, see also formal reduction and word-order correlations, 130 of going to/gonna, 120
  of zero, 116
  paths, 124
  semantic bleaching, 120–121
  unidirectionality, 120
Greenberg's Universal 25, 89
Greenberg's Universal 41, 146

heavy-NP shift, 76
hierarchy of explicitness, 37 horror aequi, 100, 146
hyperarticulation, 62, 65
Hypothesis of Construction–Lexeme Accessibility and Formal Length, 230

I-implicatures, 25–27, 97 inequality in communication, 248 information locality, 68, 75–76, 80, 82–83 informativity, 230, see also Law of Abbreviation integration of new referents, 102

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-108-84079-8 — Communicative Efficiency
Natalia Levshina
Index
More Information

interference due to similarity, 96, 100–101
'invisible hand', 133–134

kinship terms, 137, 140

Law of Abbreviation, 6, 57, 122 and informativity, 58, 60 law of growing constituents, 7, 77 learnability, 246
Leipzig Corpora Collection, 147 letting in Anglo-Saxon culture, 174 lexical causatives. See causatives linguistic distance, scale of, 175
'loose-fit' and 'tight-fit' languages, 146

male bias in language, 11 markedness, 46
  and frequency, 47
  global and local, 47
  reversal, 47
Maximize On-line Processing, 72 memory costs. See processing costs
M-implicatures, 26–27, 97 minimization of dependency distances, 67, 76–77 and language change, 131 Minimize Domains, 77–78
modalities, synergy of, 144
morphological causatives. See causatives Mutual Information
  of roles and cases, 148 of roles and lexemes, 148

Neuralink, 249
noisy channel, 9
number, 117
  plural, 48, 117–118, 136
  singular, 48
  singular vs. plural, 46–47, 107
  singulative, 48, 117, 136

'old before new', 74 order of adjectives in NP, 80 order of derivational and inflectional morphemes, 82 overspecification, 31

Pareto frontier, 137
phonetic reduction, 119, see also formal reduction and accessibility, 61
  as loss of phonetic detail, 61 due to automatization, 63 due to contextual predictability, 63 phonological reduction, scale of, 45 Plan Reuse principle, 28, 72, 131 politeness, 12
polysemy, 123
possessive constructions, 48, 109, 116 alienable and inalienable possession, 49 possessive determiners, 110 Preferred Argument Structure, 102 present progressive, 114–115 principle of (reduction of) cognitive complexity, 53, 69, 184, 236 Principle of Communicative Efficiency, 30 principle of dependency locality, 67 Principle of Economical Permutation, 124 Principle of Economical Specialization, 124 principle of extravagance, 114 Principle of Immediate Mention, 28
Principle of Least Collaborative Effort, 18 Principle of Least Effort, 7, 122 processing complexity, 98–99, 101 processing costs, 10, 28, 102 comprehension costs, 13 indicators, 13–14
  memory costs, 5, 13–14, 23, 67, 70–71, 84–85, 87 pragmatic processing, 14 production costs, 13
  surprisal, 85
pro-drop. See argument omission

Q-implicatures, 26

Rational Artisan, 121–122, 124 reducing contexts, 125
redundancy, 150
referential scales, 195. See differential case marking reflexive pronouns, 111–113 relative clauses
  subject vs. object, 54
relativizers, 51
Relevance Theory
  accessibility, 19
  cognitive effects, 8
  conceptual vs. procedural information, 50 Reliance, 231
renewal, 114, 120
resumptive pronouns, 53 and Accessibility Hierarchy, 54 and accessibility of referents, 55 routinization of articulation, 125 same-subject and different-subject constructions, 55

  and verb semantics, 56
  with want, 56

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org

CAMBRIDGE
Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-108-84079-8 — Communicative Efficiency
Natalia Levshina
Index
More Information

selectional preference strength, 43 semantic bleaching, 125, see also grammaticalization and habituation, 126
  as an additive effect, 126
semantic extensions, 124 semantic principle of linear order, 73 semantics as a cue to grammatical roles, 146
'short before long', 78 signed languages, 23
similarity-based interference. See interference due to similarity singulative. See number Smooth Signal Redundancy Hypothesis, 21 social costs of communication, 11 subjectification and intersubjectification, 121 suffixing preference, 80–82 suppletion, 128
surprisal, 68, 96

teleology and language evolution, 132 time as communication costs, 10, 28, 70 trade-offs, 137–138, 142 as negative correlations, 142 between word order and case marking, 143–144 directionality, 142, 144, 149 transparency, 99–100, 136
Trump, Donald, 4

Uniform Information Density Hypothesis, 21, 52, 75
Universal Dependencies, 147

verb-medial order, 145, 148 word order correlations, 87 and branching direction, 87 and harmonic orders, 87 and learnability, 89

Yoda's word order, 90

Zipf's Law of Abbreviation. See Law of Abbreviation

© in this web service Cambridge University Press & Assessment www.cambridge.org