

Index

- Abas, Nasir, 253
- activism
- Pro-Integration Model and, 265–266
 - radicalism and, 8
 - side-switching and role of, 215–218
- Adorno, Theodor, 228–229
- age ranges, side-switching, and role of, 221–226
- Agnew, Robert, 16–18
- Aid Community for National Political Prisoners and Their Relatives (Hilfsgemeinschaft für nationale politische Gefangene und deren Angehörige – HNG), 54–55
- Aldawsari, Khalid, 167–185
- “al-Khansaa Brigade” (ISIS), 239
- Allport, G. W., 29
- al-Nusra Front, 36–37
- al-Qaeda (AQ)
- defections from, 253
 - group splitting and fragmentation in, 36–37
 - ISIS and, 37
 - separation contracts in, 47–48
- al-Qaeda in Iraq (AQI), 36
- Alternative for Germany (Alternative für Deutschland – AfD), 185–186, 195
- Altier, Mary Beth, xxii, 32–42
- alt-right movement
- Discord forum and, 76–97
 - left-wing backgrounds of members, 77, 80–93
 - online infrastructure for, 74
- Amer al-Russi, Abu (alias), 144–146
- American anti-errorism initiatives, 247
- American conservative right, ex-communists and, 226–229
- American far-right extremists
- mobilization of, 232–233
 - neoconservatives and, 226–229
- American left
- absence of right defections to, 226
 - defections to right from, 232–233
 - women’s involvement in, 239–240
- Amman, Mamoor Faraz, 163–164
- Anglin, Andrew, 201–204, 221–222, 224
- Ansar al-Mujahideen English Forum (AMEF), 166–173
- anti-Americanism
- anti-Semitism linked to, 210–212
 - extremist ideological overlap on, 43
 - of Fritsch, 71–72
 - German activists and, 112
 - German Slafai-Jihadi milieu and, 149–151
 - of Niemeyer, 66–71
- anti-capitalism, as multidirectional ideology, 213–215
- Anti-Fascist Action (AFA), 234–235
- antifascist activism
- alt-right disdain for, 77–80
 - far-left extremism and, 12–13
 - Searchlight’s* coverage of, 127–135
- anti-feminism, jihadist extremism and, 175–176
- Anti-Immigration Society (AIMS, UK), 121–122
- anti-imperialism
- Falk and, 148–149, 152–153
 - far-left extremists and, 104–106
 - German right-wing terrorism and, 101–121
 - Hewicker (Christine) and, 104–106, 109–111
 - Hewicker (Klaus-Dieter) involvement in, 101–102, 109–111
 - ideological differences in, 106–108
 - as multidirectional ideology, 213–215
 - nationalist motivations of, 120
- “Anti-Imperialist Cells” (Antiimperialistische Zellen - AIZ, Germany), 148–149
- anti-Muslim activists, jihadist extremism and, 173–183
- Antipodean Resistance (AR), 75

330 Index

- anti-poll tax activism, far-left involvement in, 132–133
- anti-Semitism
 - alt-right references to, 77–79
 - British far right extremism and, 121–122, 124–126
 - of Collins, 137
 - extremist education profiles and personality types and, 44–45
 - French extreme right and, 282–283
 - of Fritsch, 71–72
 - German anti-imperialists and, 105–106, 112
 - Islamic extremism and, 167–168, 185–186
 - Islamophobia linked to, 147–148
 - Mahler's Holocaust denial and, 57–66
 - as multidirectional ideology, 210–212
 - online and social media harassment of Jews and, 201–204
 - side-switching and, 40–41
- anti-Zionism
 - anti-Semitism and, 120
 - German anti-imperialists and, 105–106, 112
- Arab militants, Hewickers' contact with, 104–105
- Arthurs, Devon
 - defection motivations of, 255–256
 - demonization following killings by, 176–181
 - dual milieu membership and, 259–260
 - exit strategy of, 262–263
 - jihadi conversion of, 173–183, 188–189, 207–208
 - mental status assessment of, 173–174, 260
 - online communities and, 175–176
 - personal relationships of, 218–219, 260
 - polarization of extreme right by, 181–182
 - youthfulness of, 223
- Association of Independent Socialists (Vereinigung Unabhängiger Sozialisten – VUS), 57–58
- The Atlantic* magazine, 202
- Atomwaffen Division (AWD), 75, 174–175
 - age levels of members in, 224–225
 - rejection of Arthurs following murders by, 176–181
 - side-switching and ideology of, 182–183
- attachment, social identity and, 31–32
- attitudes and behavior, ideology and, 268–270
- Attitudes-Behaviors-Corrective (ABC) model, deradicalization, and disengagement, 268–270
- Auernheimer, Andrew, 181–182
- authoritarian personality theory, 228–229
- Baader, Andreas, 58–60
- Baader-Meinhof Gang, 58–60
- Baghdadi, Abu Bakr al-, 36–37
- Bakker, E., 237
- Banna, Hasan al-, 38–39
- Barasneh, Yousef Omar, 186–187
- Barbé, Henri, xv–xvi
- Barrelle, Kate, 263–266
- “The Base” (American neo-Nazi group), 186–187, 225
- Bastian, B., 33–34
- Becker, Verena, 108
- Beer Hall Putsch, xiii–xiv
- Begolly, Emerson, 166–173, 217–218, 277
- behavioral radicalization, terminology, 7–9
- beliefs, social identity and, 31–32
- Bella, Ali (formerly Erich Alten), 185–186
- Benoist, Alain de, 232
- Berger, J. M.
 - on deradicalization, 249, 277
 - extremism concept of, 6, 11–12, 34–35, 283–284
 - on identity confusion, 275
 - on radicalization, 8
- bin Laden, Osama, 36
 - Atomwaffen Division celebration of, 182–183
 - Myatt's praise for, 160–161
- biographical case studies
 - ideological shifts discussed in, 87–89
 - mechanisms of side-switching in, 51–52
 - motives and pathways discussed in, 97–98
 - religious conversion narratives and, 188–189
 - side-switching accounts, xxiii, 4–5
 - table of motives and changes in, 205–207
- Björgo, T., 47–48
- Black Front (Nazi micro party), 118–119
- “Black Hand” military society, xiii, xv
- Blackman, Laura, 40–42
- Black September movement, 42–43
- Blackshirts (Italy), xiii–xiv
- Blogger ITA (punk rock band), 234–235
- Boen, F., 29–30
- Bönnhardt, Uwe, 1–5
- “Book Clubs,” American neo-Nazi formation of, 201–202
- Braddock, Kurt, 250–251, 276–277
- Brievik, Anders Behring, 55–56
- British Democratic Party (BDP), 125–126
- British Movement (BM), 121–122, 125–126, 153–156, 234–235
- British National Front (BNF), 122–124, 127–128, 136–139
- “British Nationalist” newspaper, 137

Index

331

- British National Party (BNP), 127–128 Collins and, 136–142 conflicts within, 128–132
 Hepple's infiltration of, 134–135
 Islamic conversion and defection from, 189–190
 Buttey, Maxence, 184–185
- Čabrinović, Nedeljko, xiii, xv
- Caliphate reestablishment (Islamic sacred goal), 190, 212–213
- Caplan, G., 247–248
- career foreign fighters, skills and resource accumulation by, 41–42
- “chad,” alt-right term for masculinity, 77
- Charlie Hebdo attacks, 282–283
- choice blindness, 22–25
 defections to extremism and, 241–243
- Choice Blindness paradigm, xxiii
- Christian Democrat Party (Christlich Demokratische Union Deutschlands – CDU) (Germany), 68
- Circle of Nationalist Women (Ring Nationaler Frauen - RNF) (Germany), 67, 239
- civil wars, side switching during, 48–50
- “Clive Bissel” (IronMarch forum alias), 86–92
- cognitive bias, side-switching and, 18–21
- cognitive dissonance change acceptance and, 24–25, 130–132 choice blindness and, 22–25
 defections and, 241–243
 disengagement and role of, 123, 130–132
 ideological morphology and, 273–275
 side-switching and, 20–21
 social investment model and, 32–42
- cognitive radicalization, terminology, 7–9
- collaboration, between hostile groups, 42
- collective identities
 Devoted Actor Theory (DAT), 33–34
 ex-communists' defection to far right and, 228–229 extremist side-switching and, 30–31 group belonging and, 22 individual mobility and, 29–30 side-switching and confusion of, 275
- Collins, Matthew, 218–219
 British far-right conflict and, 127–128
 early life and career, 136–137
 as informant, 141–142, 230–231, 263, 278–280
 turning point in defection by, 138, 260–262
- Column 88 (British right-wing terrorist group), 157–158
- Combat 18 (British right-wing terrorist group), 127, 157–158
- “Combat Federation of German Socialists” (Kampfbund Deutscher Sozialisten – KDS), 112–113
- Combat Vanguard Organization of the Muslim Brotherhood, 38–39
- Commando Omega, 53–56
- commitment, social identity and, 31–32
- communism
 alt-right members former involvement in, 77, 81–84 American defectors from, 226–229
 anti-Semitism and, 210–212
 far-right ideological analysis of, 84–92
 in Finland, 196–197
 Scheringer's leadership in, 229–230
- Communist Party (France), xv–xvi
- Communist Party of Germany (Kommunistische Partei Deutschlands – KPD), 56, 229–230
- Communist Party of Germany/Marxists and Leninists (Kommunistische Partei Deutschlands/Marxisten-Leninisten – KPD/ML), 53–54
- Compact* (far-right German magazine), 195
- confabulatory reasoning, 24
- confirmation bias, side-switching and, 18–21
- conflict in British far right, 127–128, 132–133 as defection motivation, 259–260 extremism and, 11–12
 mitigation of, 46
 religious conversion and, 187–189
 “why” of ideological transmission in, 207–210
- constructivism, side switching and, 25
- contact hypothesis (Allport), intergroup hostility and, 29
- context, side-switching and role of, 19–25
- control theory of delinquency, 31–32
- cooperative collaboration, social identity theory and, 29
- Copeland, David, 161–162
- coping strategies for defection, Pro-Integration Model and, 264–265
- Coulibaly, Amedy, 282–283
- countering violent extremism (CVE). See preventing and countering violent extremism (P/CVE) debate
- counter-narrative campaigns, deradicalization and, 275–278
- counter-radicalization programs, 248 identity confusion and, 275

332 Index

- counterterrorism
 - current research in, 245–246
 - preventing and countering violent extremism (P/CVE) principles and, 247–252
 - public health model of, 247–248
 - risk assessment in side-switching, 278–280
 - side-switching and, 41
 - Covington, Harold, 160
 - crime–terror nexus, jihadist recruitment and, 231
 - criminological research
 - religious conversion of criminals in, 184–185
 - storyline approach in, 16–18
 - crisis-solution construct, 11–12
 - critical reflection, defection and role of, 259–260
 - cross-ideological side-switching theory, xxiii, 209–210
 - Crossman, Richard, 226–229
 - Crüger, Herbert, xviii–xix, 113
 - cults, cognitive dissonance in, 20–21
 - cumulative radicalization, 50–52
 - Cyberball experiment, 34

 - The Daily Stormer (website), 201–204
 - Dalgaard-Nielsen, A., 8
 - Darby, S., 241
 - Datsik, Viacheslav, 144–146
 - Daymon, C., 41–42
 - decontestation, ideology and, 10
 - defectors and defection
 - age levels and, 220
 - barriers to research on, 50–52
 - Collins’ storyline about, 140–142
 - Collins’ turning point in, 138
 - commitment levels to new ideology and, 84–86
 - emotional and intellectual drivers of, 100–101
 - exit strategies in, 262–263
 - Falk’s jihadist conversion and, 148–153
 - gender and, 236–241
 - gradual vs. sudden exits and, 258–259
 - group reactions to, 47–48
 - Hepple’s turning point concerning, 131–132
 - Hepp’s narrative of, 117–120
 - identity confusion and, 275
 - individual abilities and, 41–42
 - individual vs. group exits and, 258
 - integration of tactics and, 41–42
 - Mahler’s narrative of, 62–66
 - motivations of, 252–257
 - multiple and single exits and, 258
 - online forums and framing of, 96–97
 - prevalence and impact of, 226–236
 - Pro-Integration Model and, 263–266
 - retention of residual ideology and, 272–275
 - risk assessment and, 278–280
 - role change research and, 257–267
 - role in new milieu of, 229, 233–234
 - separation of milieus in, 133–134
 - side-switching vs., 25, 256–257
 - social identity theory and prediction of, 27–29
 - social status and likelihood of, 35–36
- delinquency, control theory of, 31–32
- democracy
 - deradicalization and role of, 250–251
 - extremism and, 5–6
- deontic behavior, Devoted Actor Theory and, 33–34
- deradicalization
 - broad and narrow schools of, 251–252
 - ideology’s role in, 267–275
 - outsider contact and, 29
 - process models for, 257–267
 - research on, 39–40, 248–252
 - side-switching and, 266–267
 - social investment model and, 32–42
- Devi, Savitri (Maximine Portaz), 154–155
- Devoted Actor Theory (DAT)
 - barriers to side-switching research and, 51–52
 - side-switching and, 33–34
- De Vries N., 27–28
- Diesner, Kay, 152–153
- digital far-right environment, anti-Semitic harassment and, 202
- direct confrontation, defection and, 262–263
- Discord forum, 76–97
 - alt-right disdain for antifa on, 77–80
 - ideological transmission on, 220
 - Musser’s participation in, 76–77
 - recruiting strategies discussed on, 82–83
 - recruitment on, 218–219
 - youth targeting strategies in, 222–223
- disengagement
 - Hill’s narrative of, 122–124
 - ideological disappointment and, 215–216, 267–275
 - personal relationships and, 218–219
 - process models for, 257–267
 - Pro-Integration Model and, 263–266
 - research on, 39–40, 248–252
 - social investment model and, 32–42
- disillusionment, defection and role of, 259–260
- Doriot, Jacques, xiv–xvi
- Drake, D., 260

- drug cartels, synchronization of tactics by, 41–42
- dual milieu membership, defection and, 259–260
- Dutschke, Rudi, 58
- Eatwell, Roger, 233
- Ebaugh, Helen, 139–140, 257–267
- education profiles of extremists, ideological comparisons and, 44–45
- Egypt, former Nazis in, 185–186
- Eichberg, Henning, 283–284
- Ellemers, N., 27–28, 30–31
- Elsässer, Jürgen, 195, 212, 224, 236–237, 258–262
- Engerman, David, 227
- Ensslin, Gudrun, 58–60
- ethical connotations of extremism, 14
- ethnopluralism, 283–284
- ethno-separatist movements
- group alignment and, 48–50
 - women in, 238–240
- European Commission, radicalization defined by, 7–9
- Expo* (Swedish anti-fascist magazine), 113
- extremism
- counter-narrative strategies for defusing, 276–277
 - definitions of, 5–6
 - ideology and, 10
 - male dominance of, 237
 - moral and ethical connotations, 14
 - motivations for defection from, 252–257
 - social identity theory and, 27–29
 - terminology of, 6
- Extremism Risk Guidance (ERG+22), 279–280
- extremist radicalization
- defined, 5–6
 - in modern era, xix–xx
 - prevention of, xxiii
- Eysenck, Hans, 43–45
- Fabel, Peter, 106–107
- early life and career, 53–56
 - letter published by, 54–55
- Facta, Luigi, xiii–xiv
- Falk, Bernhard
- anti-imperialism of, 214
 - anti-Semitism of, 209–211
 - ideological transitions for, 215–218, 270
 - Islamic conversion in narrative of, 150–153, 188–189
 - personal relationships of, 218–219, 260
 - post-defection status of, 229–230
- family relations
- counter-narrative strategies for deradicalization and, 276–277
 - defections from extremism and, 254–255
- “Farewell to Hitlerism” (Hepp-Kexel pamphlet), 115–118, 120–121
- Farid, Tarek Hussein (Aribert Ferdinand Heim), 185–186
- far-left extremism
- adversarial milieu of, 231–232
 - anti-imperialism and, 214–215
 - anti-Semitism and, 210–212
 - Collins’ involvement in, 136–142
 - components of, 12–13
 - damage to far right by, 230–231
 - Falk’s defection from, 148–153
 - former communists’ rejection of, 226–229
 - German neo-Nazi courting of, 112–113
 - German terrorists and, 114–120
 - Hepple’s defection to, 127–135
 - Hill’s defection to, 121–127
 - identity conflict and migration to, 260–261
 - Islamic extremist defection to, 195
 - jihadism, defection to, 148–153
 - Myatt and, 153–163
 - nationalism and, 210–212
 - neo-Nazi movement and, 76
 - organizational skills of, 120
 - prevalence and impact of defectors to, 226–236
 - revenge of defectors against former far right, 71–74, 99–101, 208–209
 - role residuals and engagement with, 139–140
 - shift to far right from, 53–56, 66–74
 - status of defectors to, 142–143, 229, 234–235
 - subcultural drift in defections from, 209–210
 - women’s involvement in, 239–240
- far-right extremism
- anti-Semitism and, 210–212
 - Arthurs’ actions and polarization of, 181–182
 - components of, 12
 - conversion to Islam among, 184–185
 - Discord forum and, 76–97
 - far-left damage to, 230–231
 - Hepple’s defection from, 127–135
 - Hepp’s defection from, 117–120
 - Hewicker (Christine) and, 102–105
 - Hewicker (Klaus-Dieter) and, 101–102
 - Hill’s defection from, 121–127
 - integrative power of, 233
 - international terrorist links to, 104–105

334 Index

- far-right extremism (cont.)
 - Islamic extremist defections to, 186–187, 194–199
 - jihadist movement defections from, 165–166
 - left-wing defectors to, 53–56, 66–74, 77, 80–93, 229
 - Mahler's embrace of, 60–61
 - Nazi and Fascist dominance of, 227–228
 - online infrastructure for, 74
 - prevalence and impact of defectors to, 226–236
 - status of far-left defectors to, 232–234
 - women's involvement in, 239
- Fascism
 - anti-capitalism and, 214
 - dominance of far right by, 227–228
 - Hepple's discussion of, 132–133
 - National Socialism compared with, 78–80
 - syncretic legitimization of, 233
- Fascism: A History* (Eatwell), 233
- Fascist Forge (FF), 75–76, 225, 232
- Fatah (Palestinian group), 58–60
- Festinger, Leon, 20–21
- Feuerkrieg Division (FKD, Estonia), 224–225
- Fields, James Alex Jr., 55–56
- Finland, neo-Nazi movement in, 196–197
- Finnish Islamic Party, 196–197
- Finnish Workers' Party, 196–197
- Fiore, Roberto, 132–133
- Fisher, Louis, 228–229
- Five-Stage Model (FSM)
 - choice blindness and, xxiii
 - group loyalties and, 30
 - social identity theory and, 27–28
 - status linked to defection in, 35–36
- 4chan, 202
- "Framåt Sverige" (Forward Sweden), 113
- Franz Ferdinand (Archduke), assassination of, xiii
- fratricidal flipping, side-switching and, xxiii
- Freedon, Michael, 9–10, 52, 210–215
- Freedom Party of Austria (Freiheitliche Partei Österreichs, FPÖ, Austria), 184–185
- French Populist Party (Parti Populaire Français, PPF), xiv–xvi
- Frías Álvarez, Diego José, 42
- fringe fluidity theory, side switching and, 40–41
- Fritsch, Julian
 - age during defection by, 223
 - exit strategy of, 262–263
 - far-left extremism and, 71–74
 - ideological disappointment expressed by, 216
 - motivations for defection, 97–98, 262
 - peer ethos and, 263–266
 - post-side-switching life of, 278–280
- Front National (FN, France), 184–185, 282–283
- functionalism, ideology and, 8–14
- functional magnetic resonance imaging (fMRI), vulnerability to extremism and, 33–34
- Funkenflug* (neo-Nazi magazine) (Germany), 99–100
- fused identities, Devoted Actor Theory and, 33–34
- Gable, Garry, 131, 133–135, 141–142
- Gambetta, D., 44–45
- Gartenstein-Ross, David, 40–42
- gender, side-switching and, 236–241
- Generation Identity. See Identitarian Movement (Austria)
- German Academic Scholarship Foundation, 57
- German Communist Party (Deutsche Kommunistische Partei – DKP)
 - Crüger and, xviii–xix
 - Fritsch and, 71–74
 - Köhler and, 244–245
 - Scheringer and, 229–230
- German Democratic Public, demise of, 2
- "German Taliban Mujahideen" (Deutsche Taliban Mujahideen – DTM), 164–165
- Germany
 - anti-imperialist movement in, 101–121
 - East-West division of, far-right extremism and, 102–103
 - extremist defections to jihadism in, 146–148
 - left-wing anti-imperialism in, 101–121
 - Nazi-Communist confrontations in, 56
 - neo-Nazi terrorism in, 1–5
 - reunification of, 2
 - right-wing terrorism in, 101–121
 - women terrorists in, 239
- global terrorism, jihadist movement, ideological splits within, 37
- The God That Failed* (Crossman), 226–229
- "Goebel, Christian" (alias), 208–209, 271–272
- Gómez, Á, 33–34
- Göppfarth, J., 195
- Götzsche-Astrup, O., 7–9
- Green movement, Hepple's involvement in, 133–135
- Gringart, E., 260
- group, defined, 6–15
- group dynamics
 - barriers to research on side-switching and, 50–52
 - collective identities and, 22

- confirmation bias and, 18–21 conflict mitigation and, 46 defection from extremism and role of, 252–257 extreme-right virtual communities and, 74–97 hostile group collaboration and, 42 individual ability and, 30
 permeability of group boundaries, 27–29 reactions to defections in, 47–48 self-concept management and, 261–262 side-switching and, xxiii splitting and infighting and, 36–48 Guerilla Diffusa, 117
- Hafez, Mohammed, 37
 Haidt, Jonathan, 34–35
 Hakimiyyat Allah (reign of God through state power), 212–213
 Hamas (Palestine), 212–213
 Hamilton, Archibald (Sir), 184–185, 190–193
 Hamm, Mark, 221–222
 Harris, K., 260
 Hasselbach, Ingo, 253
 Hegel, Georg Friedrich Wilhelm, 64–88, 217
 Heimbach, Matthew, 76–77, 220, 232–233
 Hennig, Muhesir Sebastian, 195–196
 Hepp, Odfried
 anti-imperialism and, 104–106
 early childhood and career, 114–115 ostracism for side-switching by, 119–121
 side-switching storyline of, 117–120
 Stasi collaboration by, 119–121 terrorist activities of, 114–120
 Hepp-Kexel terrorist group, 104–106, 114–120 Hepple, Tim anti-poll tax activism of, 132–133 critical view of far left by, 131 early life and career of, 127–128 ideological disappointment of, 215–216
 as informant, 263
 motivations for far-right involvement, 128–129 personal relations of, 218–219 side-switching narrative of, 127–135, 208–209 turning point in defection of, 131–132, 261–262
 Herbert, Anthony Reed, 125–126
 Herstigte National Party (HNP, South Africa), 122–124
 Hertog, S., 44–45
 Hess, Rudolf, 137
 Hewicker, Christine, 55, 101–121 anti-imperialist activities of, 104–106, 214
 anti-Semitism of, 209–211
 divorce from Klaus Dieter, 113–115 early life and political activism of, 102–105 far-left transition of, 120, 142–143 gender as factor in narrative of, 236–241 isolation as defection motive for, 260 marriage to Klaus Dieter, 101
 nationalism and, 212
 side-switching storyline of, 109–111, 120, 208–209
 taz – Die Tageszeitung declaration by, 111–115
 Hewicker, Klaus Dieter, 55, 101–121 divorce from Christine, 113–115
 early life and career of, 101
 far-right extremism of, 101–102
 isolation as defection motive for, 260
 side-switching storyline of, 109–111, 120, 208–209
 taz – Die Tageszeitung declaration by, 111–115
 Heyer, Heather, 232–233
 Hezbollah (Lebanon), 212–213
 Hill, Ray
 British far-right conflict and, 127–128
 Hepple and, 133–134
 motivations for side-switching described by, 124–126, 260–262
 personal relationships of, 218–219
 side-switching narrative of, 121–127
 South African apartheid and disengagement of, 122–124 spying activities of, 125–126, 261–263
 Himelman, Jeremy, 173
 Hirschi, T., 31–32
 Hitler, Adolf, xiii–xiv
 far-right ideological analysis of, 87–89
 German anti-imperialism and, 104–106
 Nazi-occultism and, 154–155
 “Hitler-Ludendorff” coup, xiii–xiv
 Hizb ut-Tahrir (HuT) (Islamic extremist group), 189–190
 Höcke, Björn, 194–197
 Hoffman, Karl Heinz, 114–115
 Hoffmann, Sieglinde, 108
 Holbrook, Donald, 268
 Holocaust denial
 Mahler and, 57–66
 Niemeyer and, 69–70
 Homann, Heinrich, xvii–xviii honorable warrior motif, side-switching narratives and, 153–156 Horgan, John counternarrative strategies for defection, 276–277

336 Index

- Horgan, John (cont.)
 on deradicalization and disengagement, 32–42, 250–251 on ideology and defection, 268–270 on individual mobility, 39 side-switching research and, xxii on status enhancement and defection, 16
- Huber, Ahmed, 186–187
- Hussein, Omar (Abu Sa'eed al-Britani), 235–236
- Hwang, Julie, 123, 132–133
- hybrid ideologies, extremism and, 12
- Identitarian Movement (Austria), 194–195, 232
- identity confusion counter-narrative strategies for deradicalization and, 277
 side-switching and, 275–278
- ideological morphology defection from extremism and, 252–257 defection to far left and, 142–143
 deradicalization and, 267–272
 disengagement and, 122–124 in former left-wing conversions, 87–89 in German anti-imperialism, 106–108 hybrid ideologies in German far left and far right, 112–113 lying as catalyst for, 129–130
 Pro-Integration Model and, 265–266
 role residuals and, 139–140
 side-switching and, 10, 52, 198–199, 272–275
- ideological transmission alt-right recruiting and role of, 82–83 collective identity and, 30–31
 commonality in, 42 conflicts and frustration as “why” of, 207–210 context and, 19–25
 in conversations and texts, 219–221 conversions to jihadism and, 147–148 defection and commitment to, 41–42, 84–86
 defined, 8–14
 deradicalization and role of, 250–251
 Discord forum analysis of, 84–86 educational profiles of extremists and, 44–45 fickleness in extremists of, 174–175 group splitting and fragmentation and, 37 “how” of, 215–218
 IronMarch forum discussions of, 86–92 moral values and, 34–35
 overlaps and key motifs in, 43 personality types of extremists and, 44–45 plurality in online forums of, 96–97 rational-emotive debate on, 10–11 residual concepts retained during defection, 272–275 side-switching and importance of, 198–199, 272–275 triangle of, 10–11
 “what” of, 210–215
 “when” of, 221–226
 “who” of, 218–219
- Incel (Involuntary Celibate) milieu, 77
- individual ability defection feasibility and, 35–36, 41–42
 social identity theory and, 30
- individualism, radicalization and, 8
- individual mobility migration to different groups, 38–39
 side-switching and, 25–26
 social identity theory and, 27–29
- Infowars online radio, 202
- Ingram, Haroro, 277–278
- in-group-out-group dynamics cognitive dissonance and, 18–21 defection process and, 255–256 role changes and, 257–267 social creativity strategy, 26
 social identity theory and, 25–26, 28–29
- Institute for State Policy (Institut für Staatspolitik – IfS), 194–197
- intellectual side-switching, research on, xxiii–xxiv
- intergroup hierarchy, stability of, 27–29
- intergroup migration barriers to research on side-switching and, 50–52
 contact with outsiders and, 29 multidirectional side-switching and, 95–96 online forum testimonials of, 25–31, 93–95 syncretic legitimation and, 233 in terrorism research, 36–48
- internationalism, nationalism as alternative to, 89–91, 210–212
- Internet, extremist milieu and, 74–97
- intervention-oriented counterterrorism, 248
- Invictus* magazine, 160
- involvement, social identity and, 31–32
- Irish Republican Army (IRA) defection reactions in, 47–48 group splits and fragmentation in, 37–38 role of defectors in, 41–42
- IronMarch (IM) forum Arthurs’ conflicts with, 175–176, 260 diversity of encounters on, 254–255 establishment of, 75 far-left defectors on, 232 ideological conversations on, 86–92 ideological morphology of left-wing defectors on, 87–89

- ideological transmission on, 220
- Islamic conversion discussed on, 190–193, 198
- jihadi radicalization on, 176–181
- multidirectional side-switching narratives on, 95–96
- positive reception for defectors on, 96–97
- recruitment on, 218–219
- rejection of Arthurs following murders by, 176–181
- side-switching testimonials on, 92–97
- youth targeting strategies in, 222–223
- Islam
 - conversion to, in side-switching narratives, xxiii, 184–185, 187–190
 - extreme-right criticism of, 195
 - Falk's conversion to, 149–153
 - German and Nazi conversions to, 185–186
 - IronMarch forum discussions on conversion to, 190–193
 - Myatt's conversion to, 158–160
 - religious collective identity of, 188–190, 193–194
- Islam, Muhammad (formerly John Ord), 189–190, 218–219
- Islamic extremism. See also jihadist movement
 - Begolli case, 166–173
 - components of, 13
 - defections to, 144–146, 163–166, 209, 229–231
 - defection to far right from, 194–199
 - education profiles and personality types in, 44–45
 - nationalism and, 212–213
 - national socialism and, 160–161, 185–186
 - neo-Nazism and, 146–148, 153–163, 173–183, 186–193
 - prevalence and impact of defectors to, 226–236
 - in prison settings, 164
 - religious conversion and collective identity in, 184–185, 193–194, 209, 231–232, 235–236
 - status of defectors in, 231, 235–236
 - women's involvement in, 239
- Islamic State in Iraq and Syria (ISIS, Daesh, or IS)
 - al-Qaeda and, 37
 - Arthurs' defense of, 175–176
 - Atomwaffen Division celebration of, 182–183
 - British defectors to, 144–146
 - cultural clashes in, 235–236
 - defections from, 253
 - group splitting and fragmentation in, 36–37
 - recruiting strategies of, 231
 - statehood concept in, 212–213
 - wealth of, 46
 - women recruited into, 239
- Islamic State of Iraq and al-Sham, 36–37
- Islamophobia, jihadist focus on, 147–148
- Israel, anti-Semitism directed toward, 210–212
- Italian Fascist Party, xiii–xiv
- Italian Socialist Party (Partito Socialista Italiano, PSI), xv–xvi
- Jabhat al-Nusra Ali Ahl as-Sham, 36–37
- Jackson, James Harris, 201–202
- Jackson, L. A., 28–29
- James, William, 187–189
- “Jeanne D” (Niemyer blog), 67, 236–237
- Jemaah Islamiyah (JI), 253
- Jetten, J., 33–34
- jihadist movement
 - Begolli's defection to, 166–173
 - conversion to Islam vs., 184–185
 - cultural clashes within, 235–236
 - defections to, 144–146, 163–166, 231, 235–236
 - defections to far right from, 194–197
 - Falk's defection to, 148–153
 - gender issues in, 239
 - ideological splits in, 37
 - Lemanski's defection to, 146–148
 - Myatt's conversion to, 153–163
 - nationalism and, 212–213
 - online forums and, 176–181
 - religious beliefs and, 183–199
 - “John Q. Public” (alias), side-switching testimonial by, 92–97
 - Johnson, Corey, 165–166, 279
 - Jones, Alex, 202
 - Jones, Stephen, 163–166
 - Jordan, Colin, 121–122, 153–156
- Kader, Abdel (formerly Karl Luder), 185–186
- Karlsson, Christopher (alias), 113
- Kashir, Ben (formerly Willi Berner), 185–186
- Kepel, Gilles, 183–184
- Kexel, Walther, 104–106
 - defection to far left by, 118
 - ostracism for side-switching by, 119–121
 - terrorist activities of, 114–120
- KGB, Tammi's involvement in, 196–197
- Khader, Ali ben (formerly Hans Baumann), 185–186
- Khalil, James, 268–270
- Koestler, Arthur, 227
- Köhler, Bertram, 244–245
- Köhler, Gundolf, 115

338 Index

- Kubitschek, Götz, 194–197
 Kühnen, Michael, 112–115, 119
 Ku Klux Klan, 239
- Lalond, R. M., 29–30
 LaRose, Colleen, 167–185
 Lauck, Gary Rex, 53–54, 112–113 learning, side-switching and role of, 215–218 left nationalism, 113 left-wing activists alt-right online discussions of, 77–80 alt-right recruiting strategies targeting, 82–83 conversion biographies on alt-right forums of, 87–89
 German right-wing terrorism and, 101–121
 Lemanski, Sascha, 146–148, 217–218, 223, 255–256, 259–260
 Le Pen, Jean-Marie, 282–283
 Lewin, Kurt, 14–15
 Lewthwaite, Samantha, 239
 Lia, Brynjar, 38–39
 Liebknecht, Karl, 56 life stages
 defections from extremism and, 254–255
 side-switching and impact of, 221–226 limbo, side-switching and risk of, 133–135 Lipset, Seymour Martin, 19–20 live action role playing (larping), online alt-right recruiting using, 82–83
 Luxemburg, Rosa, 56
- macro-social emphasis, 27–29
 Madfis, E., 209–210, 266
 Mahler, Horst
 Baader defended by, 58–60
 early life and career of, 57–58
 exit strategy of, 262–263
 far-left associations of, 232 far-right extremism and, 60–61
 ideological transitions for, 217, 267–272 motivations for defection of, 97–98, 258–259
 Niemeyer and, 69–70
 political activism of, 58 prison experience of, 59–60 radicalization of, 58–59
 Red Army members clashes with, 58–60, 64–98, 207–208
 side-switching narrative of, 62–66 sovereign citizen ideology and, 61–62 as terrorism expert, 60–61 mainstream society, far-left distrust of, 142–143
 Mair, Thomas, 201–202
- MaKss Damage. See Fritsch, Julian
 Malet, D., 41–42
 Mao Zedong, far-right ideological analysis of, 87–89
 “March on Rome,” xiii–xiv Marxism
 anti-Semitism and, 210–212
 Mahler and, 217
 nationalism and, 210–212
 Marxist-Leninist Guard (Finland), 196–197
 Maschke, Günther, 60–61, 207–208, 212, 219 masculinity
 Arthurs jihadism linked to, 175–176
 “chad” as alt-right slang for, 77
 Mason, James, 174–175 material incentives, side-switching and, 48–50 Matrix (film), 76
 Matteotti, Giacomo, 56
 May 19th Communist Organization (M19) (US), 238–240
 M’bala M’bala, Dieudonné, 282–283
 McCauley, C., 8
 McVeigh, Timothy, 170–172 meaning-making framework of extremism, counter-narrative strategies for defusing, 276–277 media coverage of extremist milieus, Discord forum and, 76
 Meinhof, Ulrike, 58–60
Mein Kampf (Hitler), 174–175, 220 mental health of extremists jihadist extremism and, 173–183 personality traits and, 43–45
 religious conversion and, 187–189 side-switching and, xx–xxi threats to as defection motivation, 259–260 milieus of side-switching adversarial milieu of far left, 231–232 defined, 6–15
 dual milieu membership and, 259–260 ideological highways between milieus and, 210–215, 271–272
 ideology’s role in, 267–272 religious conversion narrative and subordination of, 188–189 roles of defectors in, 229 status difference and, 233–234
 youth targeting strategies in, 222–223
 Mironova, V., 46
 Moghaddam, F. M., 28–30
 Mohler, Armin, 219, 232 Moral Foundations Theory (MFT), 34–35 morality
 extremism and, 14
 sacred values and, 34–35

- moral legitimacy, deradicalization and, 250–251 moral values, emotions and, 22 morphology, ideology and, 9–10
 Morrison, Eddy, 129–132, 218–219
 Morrison, John F., 37–38
 Moskalenko, S., 8
 Mosley, Oswald, 184–185, 190–193
 multidirectional side-switching anti-capitalism and, 213–215
 anti-Semitism and, 210–212
 ideological transmission and, 210–215 intergroup migration and, 95–96
 nationalism and, 212–213
 Mundlos, Uwe, 1–5
 Munich Olympic Games terror attack (1972), 42–43
 Muslim Brotherhood (MB), individual migration to, 38–39
 Musser, Kamden, 76–77, 220
 Mussolini, Benito clashes with Italian Socialist Party, xv–xvi, 207–208, 260, 265–266
 exit strategy of, 262–263
 far-right ideological analysis of, 87–89
 Fascism and, xiii–xiv power as motivation for, 255–256 side-switching by, xxiii–xxiv Myatt, David Wulstan conversion to Islam, 158–160, 183 defection process for, 254–255, 278–280
 dual milieu membership and, 259–260 extremist activities of, 153–163 holistic philosophy of, 157 ideological transition of, 217–218 infiltration of Islam and, 160–161
 neo-Nazism and, 153–156
 paramilitary activities of, 156–157
 personal relationships of, 218–219
 post-defection status of, 229–230 prison experiences of, 156 rejection of Islam by, 162–163
 “My Conversion to Islam” (Myatt), 158–160
 Nahar, Ali al- (formerly Leopold Gleim), 185–186 narratives of side-switching activist pathway in, 215–218 age levels of creators of, 223 biographical accounts, xxiii lying as part of, 129–130 religious conversion in, 188–190 research on, xxi–xxii
 National Action (NA), 75
 National Bolshevism, 71
 National Democratic Freedom Movement (NDFM, UK), 156
 National Democratic Party (Nationaldemokratische Partei Deutschlands – NPD, Germany)
 Black Front and, 118–119
 Hewicker (Christine) and, 102–105
 Hewicker (Klaus Dieter) and, 101–102
 Köhler and, 244–245
 Mahler and, 61–62
 Niemeyer and, 66–71
 National Fascist Party (Partito Nazionale Fascista, PNF) (Italy), xiii–xiv nationalism. See also white nationalism in Britain, 127, 138
 in Germany, 71–74, 120
 Hepp-Kexel rejection of, 115–117 internationalism vs., 89–91, 210–212
 IronMatch forum discussions of, 92–93
 Islam and, 158–160
 as multidirectional concept, 210–212
 neo-Nazism and, 110–111, 185–186
Nationalism Today (British National Front newspaper), 127
 National Revolutionary Workers Front (Nationalrevolutionäre Arbeiterfront – NRAF) (Germany), 53–54 National Socialism (Nazism), xiii–xiv
 anti-capitalism and, 214
 anti-Semitism and, 211
 dominance of far right by, 227–228
 far-right/far-left confrontations and, 56
 Fascism compared with, 78–80
 German anti-imperialist activism and, 104–106 ideological discussions of, 87–89
 Islamic conversion of former Nazis, 185–186
 Mahler and, 62–66
 “National-Socialism and Islam – The Case for Cooperation” (Myatt), 160–161
 National Socialist Movement (NSM, U.S.), 167–168
 National Socialist Movement (United Kingdom), 121–122, 156
 National Socialist Underground (Nationalsozialistischer Untergrund – NSU), 1–5 Nazi-occultism, 154–155
 Nazzaro, Rinaldo, 225
 Neganov, Oleg, 144–146 neo-Nazi movement anti-imperialist separation from, 107 anti-Semitism in, 201–204, 212

340 Index

- neo-Nazi movement (cont.)
 in Britain, 121–122, 125–126, 128–129, 153–156
 courting of German far left by, 112–113 defections in, 47–48
 Fabel and, 53–55
 far-left defectors from, 99–101, 208–209
 in Finland, 196–197
 Fritsch and, 71–74
 Hepp's defection from, 117–120
 Hewicker (Christine) and, 102–105, 109–111
 Hewicker (Klaus-Dieter) and, 101–102, 109–111
 Islamic extremism and, 146–148, 153–163, 173–183, 186–193
 jihadism and, 153–163, 173–183
 Mahler and, 61–62
 Mundlos and, 3–5
 nationalism and, 212
 Niemeyer and, 66–71
 in Norway, 144–146 online virtual communities for, 75 reaction to defectors in, 262–263 resistance in Germany to, 244–245 Russian involvement in, 144–146
 subcultural drift in defections from, 209–210
 in U.S., 167–168
 neurobiology, sacred values of extremists and, 33–34
 “New Right” (Europe), 232, 283–284
 Niekisch, Ernst, 71, 118
 Niemeyer, Iris, 66–71, 97–98, 236–241 nonconformist rebel strategy, gender in side-switching and, 234–237 nonlinearity in disengagement, Pro-Integration Model and, 263–266 nonviolence, radicalization and, 7–9 norm coercion, personal relationships and, 215–216
 NSDAP Aufbau und Auslandsorganisation (NSDAP/AO), 53–54, 62–66
 Numinous Way, Myatt's philosophy of, 162–163
 Oberlecher, Reinhold, 60–61, 212, 217, 232, 236–237 power as motivation for, 255–256
 status enhancement as motivation for, 260–261
 Ohnesorg, Benno, 58–59
 Oneschuk, Andrew, 173 online forums. See also specific forums, e.g. Discord anti-Semitic harassment and, 201–204
 doctrinaire knowledge on, 225 engagement pathways on, 271–272 extremist groups and, 74–97 framing process of defection and, 96–97 German Slafai-Jihadi mile on, 149–150 ideological transmission on, 219–221
 jihadism and, 146–148, 175–176
 rejection of Arthurs following murders by, 176–181 testimonials of side-switching on, 92–97
 youth targeting strategies in, 222–223
 Oppenheimer, D., 226–229
 Organization Consul (Germany), 283–284
 Organization of Jihad's Base in Mesopotamia, 36 Organization of Monotheism and Jihad, 36 ostracism, in extremists' storylines, 70–71 Otte, Paul, 103–104 outsiders
 Collins defection and role of, 140–142 contact with, deradicalization and, 29 defection and encounters with, 254–255
 Özyürek, E., 195
 Palestinian extremists
 Hepp and Kexel's involvement with, 117–120
 neo-Nazi collaboration with, 107–108, 110–111
 Palestinian Liberation Front (PLF), Hepp and, 119–121
 Palestinian Liberation Organization (PLO)
 German terrorist collaboration with, 115
 group splits and fragmentation in, 37–38
 neo-Nazi collaboration with, 42–43
 Party for Freedom (Partij voor de Vrijheid, PVV, Netherlands), 184–185 Peci, Irfan, 194–195
 peer-group interaction
 Arthurs jihadism and, 175–176
 Collins' defection and role of, 138–139
 extremist mileus and importance of, 130–132
 Falk's Islamic conversion and, 151–152
 ideological transmission and role of, 218–219
 norm coercion and, 215–216
 role residuals and, 139–140
 PEGIDA (right wing of AfD, Germany), 194–197
 permeability of group boundaries
 defection feasibility and, 35–36
 defections from extremism and, 254–255
 individual mobility and, 28–30 in-group identification and, 27–28
 social investment model and, 32–42

Index

341

- Peronism, ideological discussions of, 87–89
 Perrault, S., 30
 personal interactions and relationships
 Arthurs' jihadism and loss of, 175–176
 Collins' defection and role of, 138–139 conflicts as motivation for defection, 259–260 extremist milieu and importance of, 130–132
 Falk's Islamic conversion and, 151–152
 Hepple's far-right extremism and role of, 129–130
 Hill's experiences with, 122–124
 ideological transmission and role of, 218–219
 jihadist conversions and role of, 173–183 Myatt's reflections on lack of, 156–157
 norm coercion and, 215–216
 Pro-Integration Model and, 263–266
 religious conversion and, 187–189
 side-switching and, 108, 141–142, 198–199, 241–243
 personality types ideology of extremists and, 44–45 mental health variables of extremists and, 43–45
 Peter, Jan, 117–120
 Pisiou, D., 8
 "Political Man" concept, 19–20 political theory choice blindness and, 22–25
 moral values and, 34–35
 side-switching and, 19–25
 "A Practical Guide to the Strategy and Tactics of Revolution" (Myatt), 161–162 PREVENT counterterrorism strategy (UK), 247 preventing and countering violent extremism (P/CVE) debate current research issues in, 245–246 definitions and principles of, 247–252 disengagement and deradicalization and, 39–40
 side-switching and, 41
 preventing violent extremism (PVE) programs, 247–248 Princip, Gavrilko, xiii prison setting defections from extremism and encounters in, 254–255 Islamic conversion in, 164 process models for extremists' defection, 257–267 phases in, 259–260
 Profiles of Individual Radicalization in the United States (PIRUS), xix–xxi profiling of terrorists and extremists, failure of, 16 Pro-Integration Model (PIM), defections and, 263–266 psychology of extremism
 ideological morphology and, 273–275
 Islamic extremists and, 168 jihadist movement and, 173–183 personality traits and mental health status, 43–45, 173–174
 religious conversion and, 183, 187–189, 198 public health model of counterterrorism, 247–248 push-pull framework Attitudes-Behaviors-Corrective (ABC) model, 268–270
 defection from extremism and, 252–257
 Pro-Integration Model and, 263–266
The Questionnaire (von Salomon), 283–284
 Quran, ideological transmission and reading of, 220
 Qutb, Sayyid, 38–39, 212–213
 Racial Preservation Society (RPS, UK), 121–122 racism
 Collins' experiences with, 136–137
 far-right extremism and, 129–130
 Islamic extremism and, 169–170 radicalism, defined, 7–9 radicalization Christine Hewicker's narrative of, 102–105 defined, 7–9
 ideology and, 10
 prevention and intervention of, 248 side-switching and, xvi–xxix Zschäpe case, 1–5
 Range, Harald, 1–5
 Rangne, John Christopher, 113
 Rathenau, Walther, 56, 283–284 rational choice theory, side-switching and, 48–50
 "Raycis," conversion biography of, 86–87
 reactance theory ideological morphology and, 273–275
 side-switching and, 20–21, 241–243 reality testing, role change and, 258 recidivism of side-switchers ideology and, 268–270
 role change and, 258 reciprocal radicalization, 50–52 recruiting tactics of milieus crime-terror nexus and, 231

342 Index

- recruiting tactics of milieus (cont.)
 - ideological transmission and role of, 218–219
 - life stages and symbolic times and, 221–226
 - online discussion of, 78–80, 82–83
 - youth targeting strategies, 222–223
- Red Action group (UK), 234–235
- Red Army Faction (Rote Armee Fraktion – RAF)
 - Christine Hewicker and, 108
 - Falk and, 148–153
 - Hepp and, 118–119
 - Hewickers' admiration for, 103–104
 - Mahler and, 58–60, 64–98, 207–208
 - Niemeyer and, 67–68
- Red Help (Rote Hilfe – RH, Germany), 60
- redpill strategies, alt-right forum discussions of, 76–79, 96–97
- Reeve, Elspeth, 175–176
- reinforcement loops
 - disengagement and role of, 123
 - internal conflicts and disengagement and, 132–133
- religion and religious conversion
 - activism and learning and, 217–218
 - dual milieu membership and, 259–260
 - extremism and, 144–146
 - in IronMarch forum discussions, 190–193
 - jihadism and, 173–183, 193–194
 - psychological research on, 183, 187–189, 209
 - side-switching and, xxiii, 184–185, 187–190
- Rennecke, Frank, 65–66
- reparation, side-switching as means of, 124–126
- re-radicalization, risk of, 251–252
- research methodology, side-switching and, xix–xxi, 15–19
- Revolutionary Cells (Revolutionäre Zellen – RZ), 118–119
- Rieger, Abu Bakr, 195
- risk assessment in side-switching, 278–280
- Roberts, Matthew (Matty Blag), 234–235
- Robin, Cory, 226, 229
- Rockwell, George Lincoln, 92–93
- Röhm, Ernest, 104–106
- Rohrmoser, Günter, 60–61
- role change, Ebaugh's research on
 - deradicalization and disengagement and, 257–267
 - side-switching and impact of, 139–140
- role residuals
 - deradicalization and disengagement and, 257–258
 - side-switching and impact of, 139–140
- Roof, Dylan, 179, 201–202
- Roy, Oliver, 183–184
- Rusbult, C. E., 32–42
- Russell, Brendan, 173–176, 179, 207–208
- Russian Liberation Army, Vlasov's creation of, xviii
- sacred values
 - Devoted Actor Theory and, 33–34
 - group splits and fragmentation and, 37–38
 - neurobiological research of extremists and, 33–34
- Salafist Islamic movement
 - anti-Western goals of, 181–182
 - Arthurs' embrace of, 174–175
 - nationalism and, 212–213
 - online discussions of, 179–181
 - women jihadists and, 239
- Salem, Ben (formerly Bernhardt Bender), 185–186
- "Samus Aryan" (alias), 93–95
- Sander, Hans-Dietrich, 232
- Scheringer, Richard, 142–143
 - anti-Nazi activism of, 261–262
 - as communist leader, 80–93, 229–230
 - defection process of, 254–256, 265–266
 - exit strategy of, 262–263
 - ideological disappointment of, 215–216, 220
 - nationalism and, 212
 - personal relationships of, 108, 130–131
 - prison conversations of, 218–219
 - side-switching narrative of, xxiii–xxiv
- Schönhuber, Franz, 62
- Searchlight* (British anti-fascist magazine), 218–219, 260–261, 278–280
 - Collins' work for, 136–142
 - Hepple's work for, 131, 133–135
 - Hill's work for, 125–127
- Seitenbrecher, M., 212
- self-concept management, defection and role of, 259–262
- self-redeeming narratives, creation of, 271–272
- Seliger, Martin, 10–11
- Sellner, Martin, 194–195
- semantic knowledge, vulnerability to
 - extremism and, 34
- shame and guilt
 - absence of, in far-right virtual communities, 97–98
 - choice blindness and, 22–25
 - Collins' defection and role of, 138–140, 142–143
 - of defectors to far left, 208–209
 - Hill's defection and role of, 126–127
- Shepherd, Paul, 132–133

- shitposting, in online side-switching narratives, 76
- side-switching
- activism vs. learning and, 215–218
 - age levels in, 223
 - barriers to research on, 50–52
 - candor about past milieus in narratives of, 76
 - choice blindness and, 22–25
 - Christine Hewicker's storyline for, 107–108
 - civil war studies of, 48–50
 - collective identity as factor in, 30–31
 - current research on, 40–41
 - defection vs., 256–257
 - deradicalization and disengagement and, 248–252, 266–267
 - devoted actor theory, 31–36
 - direct confrontation in, 262–263
 - emotional and intellectual drivers of, 100–101
 - evolution of, 19–25
 - existing research on, xxiii
 - in extreme-right online environments, 74–97
 - extremist defections to jihadism, 144–146
 - far-right/far-left confrontations and, 53–56
 - future research issues in, 284–287, 291–292
 - gender and, 236–241
 - historical examples of, xiv–xv
 - identity confusion and, 275–278
 - ideology and, 8–14, 267–275
 - intermittent movements in, 95–96
 - life stages vs. symbolic times and, 221–226
 - Mahler's narrative of, 62–66
 - in modern era, xix–xx
 - motivations for, xvi, 124–126
 - multidirectional side-switching, online
 - discussion of, 95–96
 - Myatt's narrative of, 160–161
 - narratives of, xxi–xxii
 - Niemeyer's narrative of, 66–71
 - prevalence and impact of, 226–236
 - psychological factors in, xvi–xxix
 - religious conversion and, xxiii, 188–189
 - research methodology on, xix–xxi, 15–19
 - risk assessment in, 278–280
 - role residuals in, 139–140
 - sacred values and, 31–36
 - separation of milieus in, 133–134
 - shared experiences in virtual communities of, 77–80
 - storyline approach to, 16–18
 - summary of research on, 287–291
 - in terrorism and extremism, 36–48
 - testimonials in online forums about, 92–97
 - theoretical framework for, 207–210
 - virtual communities and, 74–97
 - “Siege” (Mason), 174–175
 - Sigl, J., 208–209
 - Silke, Andrew, 221–222
 - Silone, Ignazio (Tranquilli Secondino), 228
 - Silverman, R. A., 29–30
 - Simi, P., 221–222
 - “Slavros, Alexander” (alias), 75, 86–87, 232
 - Snook, D. W., 188
 - snowball sampling, 19
 - soccer hooliganism, far-right extremists and, 127
 - social change strategy, 26–27
 - in Fritsch's narrative, 72–74
 - social creativity strategy
 - side-switching and, 26
 - social investment model and, 32–42
 - status enhancement in groups and, 261–262
 - Social Democrat Party (Sozialdemokratische Partei Deutschlands – SPD) (Germany), 57–58
 - Social Identity Theory (SIT)
 - barriers to side-switching research and, 50–52
 - Devoted Actor Theory and, 33–34
 - in Fritsch's storyline, 72–74
 - group loyalties and, 30
 - ideology and, 268
 - overview of, xxiii
 - process models of defection and, 260
 - push-pull framework for defection and, 254–255
 - religious conversion and, 187–189
 - side-switching narratives and, 25–31, 93–95, 241–243
 - status linked to defection in, 35–36
 - social investment model
 - defections from extremism and, 254–255
 - side-switching and, 130–132
 - terrorism disengagement and, 32–42
 - Socialist German Student Alliance (Sozialistischer Deutscher Studentenbund – SDS) (Germany), 57–58
 - Socialist Lawyers Collective (Sozialistisches Anwaltskollektiv – SAK) (Germany), 58–59
 - social movement research
 - ideology in, 9
 - milieus and narratives in, 22
 - societal mechanisms of side-switching, 19–25
 - socioeconomic classes, far-left extremism and, 12–13
 - South African apartheid, Hill's experience with, 122–124
 - South African National Front (SANF), 122–124

344 Index

- Southern Poverty Law Center, 167–168, 201–202
- sovereign citizen ideology, Mahler and, 61–62
- Spencer, Richard, 78–80, 201
- Stalin, Joseph, far-right ideological analysis of, 87–89
- Stasi (East German police), Hepp's collaboration with, 119–121
- statehood, Islamic goal of, 212–213
- status enhancement
 Collins defection and role of, 140–142
 in Collins' side-switching narrative, 137 comparisons of extremist milieus and, 233–234 defectors commitment levels and, 84–86
 Hill's narrative of disengagement and role of, 122–124 process models of defection and, 260–262 social identity and stability of, 27–31
 social investment model and, 32–42
- Steinau, Michael, 152–153
- Stennes, Walther, 104–106
- Sternhell, Zeev, 214
- storylines in side-switching narratives
 biographical case studies, 97–98
 in Christine Hewicker's side-switching, 107–108 counter-narrative strategies for deradicalization and, 277–278
 Falk's conversion to Islam and, 150–153
 Fritsch's defection and, 72–74 in Hepp's side-switching narrative, 128–129, 132–133
 Hepp's side-switching narrative, 117–120
 Lemanski's anti-Semitism in, 147–148
 Mahler's side-switching narrative and, 62–66
 Myatt's Islamic conversion and, 158–162
 Niemeyer's narrative and, 66–71 religious conversion narrative in, 188–189 terrorism/extremism research and, 15–19
 "why" of ideological transmission in, 207–210
- Strandberg, T., 24
- Strasser, Gregor, 80–93, 104–106, 118–119
- Strasser, Otto, xviii–xix, 80–93, 104–106, 118–119
- Study of Terrorism and Responses to Terrorism (START), National Consortium for, xix–xx
- subcultural drifting theory, 209–210
- subcultural elements of collective identity, 46
- superiority, far-right extremism and, 12
- Suri, Abu Mus'ab al-, 38–39
- Swann Jr, W. B., 33–34
- Swissri, Ahmad Abdallah Ramadan al-, 186–187
- symbolic times and events, side-switching and impact of, 221–226
- Syrian Brotherhood, 39
- Tajfel, Henri, 25–27
- Taliban, Atomwaffen Division celebration of, 182–183
- Tammi, Risto Olavi, 196–197, 229–230
- Tausch, N., 28–29
- Taylor, D. M., 28–29
- Taymiyya, Ahmad ibn Abd al-Halim, 212–213
- taz – Die Tageszeitung* (German left-wing newspaper), 111–117, 235
- terrorism
 counter-narrative strategies for defusing, 276–277
 group splitting and fragmentation in, 36–48
 Mahler as expert on, 60–61
 male dominance of, 237
 risk assessment and, 279–280
 social investment model and, 31–36
 terminology of, 6
- Third Position (British fascist group), 132–133
- Thoroughgood, Christian, xxii, 32–42
- The Ticks (Die Zecken), 2–3
- Tito, Josip Broz, 89–90
- Todd, Colin 'Saddam Hussein,' 132–133
- Total Fascism website, 202–203
- totalitarianism research, extremist ideological overlap in, 43
- Traditionalist Workers Party (TWP), 76, 232–233
- traumatizing events disengagement and impact of, 122–124
 Falk's Islamic conversion and, 152–153
 religious conversion and, 187–189
 side-switching and impact of, 124–126
- Treaty of Versailles, 71–74
- triggers for defection, 259–260
- trust-building, counter-narrative strategies for deradicalization and, 276–277
- Tupamaros West-Berlin group, 58–60
- Turner, John C., 25–27
- Tyndall, John, 127–132
- Ugandan National Resistance Movement (NRM), 49
- Ulster Defence Forces (UDA), 47–48
- Ummah (Islamic political metanarrative), 212–213
- United Kingdom (UK)
 counterterrorism research in, 247
 London nail bomb attacks, 161–162 neo-Nazi movement in, 121–122, 125–126, 128–129, 153–156

- United Nations Office of the Special Advisor on Africa (UNOSAA), 49 “Unite the Right” rally (Charlottesville, VA), 55–56, 75–76, 78–80, 232–233 universe of discourse, religious conversion narratives and, 188–189 Usztics, Thomas, 164–165 value system. See also sacred values social creativity strategy, 26
 Vanbeselaere, N., 29–30
 Van Doorn, Arnoud, 184–185
 Vanguard America (neo-Nazi organization), 77
 Van Klaveren, Joram Jaron, 184–185, 219–220
 Van Knippenberg, A., 27–28
 Van Zijldewijn, J. d. R., 41–42 victimization in extremists’ storylines, 69–71 gender issues in side-switching and, 236–241 in jihadist narratives, 147–148
 Victor Emmanuel III (King of Italy), xiii–xiv Viking Youth Corps (NSM, U.S.), 167–168 violent extremism Begolly’s advocacy for, 170–172
 ideology and, 267–272
 Myatt’s embrace of, 153–163 radicalization and, 7–9
 side-switching and, 36–48, 138
 Violent Extremism Risk Assessment (VERA), 279–280 virtual communities
 anti-Semitic harassment and, 201–204
 extreme-right development of, 74–97 shared experiences of side-switching on, 77–80
 Visotsky, S., 209–210, 266
 Vlasov, Andrey Andreyevich, xviii Von Leers, Omar Amin (Johann), 185–186 von Salomon, Ernst, 283–284
 Wagner, Arthur, 185–186
 Weather Underground, 238–240
 Wehrsportgruppe Hoffman (WSG), 115
 Weimar Republic, xiii–xiv
 White Aryan Resistance, 113
 Whitehouse, A., 33–34
 White Lives Matter movement, neo-Nazi demonstrators at, 76 white nationalism, 232–233
 ideological discussions of, 87–89
 white sharia, extreme right-wing concept of, 175–176
 Wilke, H., 27–28
 Winterberg, Yuri, 117–120
 Woltmann, Ludwig, 211 women in far-left groups, 239–240 in far-right groups, 239 in Islamic extremist groups, 239 in jihadist movement, 239 side-switching by, 236–241
 Wondratsch, Alfred, 184–185 word–concept relationship, ideology and, 10
 Wright, S. C., 28–29
 Yiannopoulos, Milo, 55–56
 Young, Nicholas, 259–260
 Zarqawi, Abu Musab al-, 36, 166
 Zawahiri, Ayman al-, 36–37
 Zeuthen, Martine, 268–270
 Zschäpe, Beate, 1–5, 236–241