

Contents

List of Figures	page vii
List of Contributors	viii
Acknowledgements	ix
List of Abbreviations	x
Introduction	I
Michael Erler, Jan Erik Heßler and Federico M. Petrucci
1 Xenocrates' Invention of Platonism	12
David Sedley
2 An Iconography of Xenocrates' Platonism	38
David Sedley
3 Arcesilaus' Appeal to Heraclitus as a Philosophical Authority for His Sceptical Stance	64
Anna Maria Ioppolo
4 Authority beyond Doctrines in the First Century BC: Antiochus' Model for Plato's Authority	89
Federico M. Petrucci
5 Authority and Doctrine in the Pseudo-Pythagorean Writings	115
Bruno Centrone
6 Constructing Authority: A Re-examination of Some Controversial Issues in the Theology of Numenius	130
Alexandra Michalewski
7 Plutarch's E at Delphi : The Hypothesis of Platonic Authority	149
George Boys-Stones

vi	Contents
8	Aristotle's Physics as an Authoritative Work in Early Neoplatonism: Plotinus and Porphyry Riccardo Chiaradonna	163
9	Conflicting Authorities? Hermias and Simplicius on the Self-Moving Soul Saskia Aerts	178
10	Kathēgemōn : The Importance of the Personal Teacher in Proclus and Later Neoplatonism Christian Tornau	201
11	'In Plato we can see the bad characters being changed by the good and instructed and purified.' Attitudes to Platonic Dialogue in Later Neoplatonism Anne Sheppard	227
	References	245
	Index Locorum	264
	General Index	279