The children went into the class, and they sat down. "Why did we have to come back in time for a science class?" complained Patrick. "I don't like science." Mr. Davis, the science teacher, walked in and started to explain, "Today, we're going to do some experiments with liquids and powders, and I want you to follow my instructions very carefully." Alex and Phoebe looked at each other. "This is strange," said Alex. "Yes," Phoebe agreed, "and look at the date. It's April 1st. That's the same day that we started our time-traveling!"

Mr. Davis told the children to put on their aprons and safety goggles. "What are we going to do?" said Alex. "I'm worried that it's all going to happen again. We're going > to have an accident, and the yellow light is going to appear." "Not if we do things differently," answered Phoebe. "Last time, Patrick knocked the water over, so we got the experiment all wrong. We can't let that happen again." "How are we going to stop it?" asked Patrick. "Easy! You're not going to do any of the experiments!" answered Phoebe. "That's not fair!" Patrick protested. "It's boring doing nothing!"

They mixed the blue powder, the orange powder, and the right amount of green powder. Then they carefully measured the green liquid, and they put the mixture down on the desk.

Just then, Mr. Davis came up to them.
"Everything OK?" he asked. "Yes," said
Phoebe, "we're fine." "Excellent," said
Mr. Davis, and then he looked at Patrick. "Stop fiddling with your safety goggles and put them on, please."

Patrick started to put his goggles on, but they went flying up into the air and hit the big jar of blue powder at the front of the shelf above the desk. The jar fell over, and all the powder started to fall down into the mixture on the desk below. "Uh-oh ...," said Patrick.

Suddenly there was a big explosion. "Oh, no! What have you done?" shouted Phoebe. "I'm sorry," answered Patrick. "It was an accident." Right then, the yellow light appeared and started to glow. The children looked at each other. "Should we ...?" Phoebe started to say. Alex looked into the light and then back at his friends. "What will happen if ...?" They all knew what they had to do. Together they walked into the light. They were gone in a flash!

There were lots of pirates in the Caribbean Sea from around 1500 until the 1700s. The pirates robbed lots of ships, but they didn't always steal gold coins and jewels. Very often they stole food, water, weapons, and clothing. They even stole things like soap, ropes, and anchors. Sometimes they used to keep the ship that they captured and then sell it. On other occasions, they kept the ship because it was better than theirs.

All About Music:

In the late 1960s, a new sound started coming from the Caribbean island of Jamaica. It was called reggae and had a very different rhythm from other music of the times. Singers such as Bob Marley and Peter Tosh brought the music to an international audience, and these days reggae is popular all over the world.
