

Contents

---

List of Figures	page	xiv
List of Tables		xvi
Preface		xvii
1	Introductory Chapter	1
1.1	Roadblocks to Compositionality	1
1.2	Finding Our Way in Babylon: Terminological Problems	6
1.3	A Brief Inspection of the Chapters	10
2	How to Deal with the Long Tradition of Going Ternary?	12
2.0	Introduction	12
2.1	The Reichenbachian Matrix in Different Forms	13
2.1.0	Introduction	13
2.1.1	$3 \times 3$ for Latin	14
2.1.2	Three Times $2 \times 3$ for Dutch	18
2.1.3	Reducing $3 \times 3$ to 7 for English	19
2.1.4	$3 \times 3$ for Classical Greek	21
2.1.5	Two Times ( $(3 \times 3) - 2$ ) for French	23
2.2	Ternary with Intervals	30
2.2.0	Introduction	30
2.2.1	The Present Perfect Puzzle	31
2.2.2	Topic Time as a Key for the Solution to the Present Perfect Puzzle	32
2.2.3	A Pragmatic Solution	34
2.3	Points and Intervals	36
2.3.0	Introduction	36
2.3.1	Point of Evaluation	37
2.3.2	A Point as a Landmark	42
2.3.3	The Fleeting Point $n$	44
		ix

x Contents

2.4	Conclusion	45
3	Binary Tense Structure	48
3.0	Introduction	48
3.1	A Brief Survey of Te Winkel's Binary System	49
3.2	Binary Operators	52
	3.2.0 Introduction	52
	3.2.1 Dyadic Branching and Binary Tense	52
	3.2.2 Preparing for the Semantics of Binary Operators	55
3.3	The Present Tense Domain	58
	3.3.0 Introduction	58
	3.3.1 Distinguishing between Present and the Fleeting point $n$	59
	3.3.2 Simple Present	61
	3.3.3 Present Perfect	64
	3.3.4 Taking a Snapshot at $n$	70
	3.3.5 Simple Future and Future Perfect in the Present	72
3.4	The Past Tense Domain	73
	3.4.0 Introduction	73
	3.4.1 Anteriority Seen as a Relation between Two Temporal Structures	74
	3.4.2 Simple Past	76
	3.4.3 Past Perfect	78
	3.4.4 Simple Future and Future Perfect in the Past	81
3.5	A Compositional Account of Tense Structure	82
	3.5.0 Introduction	82
	3.5.1 Ontological Preliminaries: Events or Indices	83
	3.5.2 The Semantics of the Operators PRES and PAST	84
	3.5.3 Negation	90
3.6	Conclusion	91
4	Naive Physics and Aspectual Composition	93
4.0	Introduction	93
4.1	What Did Aristotle Tell to Ryle, Vendler and Kenny?	95
	4.1.0 Introduction	95
	4.1.1 Formal Semantics and Aristotle	96
	4.1.2 Tense Oppositions in Aristotle's Metaphysics	98
	4.1.3 Translation Problems	102
	4.1.4 At the Bottom of the Aristotelian Notion of Motion	104
4.2	On the Idiosyncrasy of Criteria for Aspectual Classification	106

		106
4.2.0	Introduction	106
4.2.1	Ryle's Criterion for Allowing Achievements: Finis	107
4.2.2	A Binary Alternative to Ryle's Exchangeability Criterion: The Report Mode	110
4.2.3	Vendler's Criteria for a Quadripartition	113
4.2.4	Kenny's Criteria for a Tripartition	117
4.2.5	Monadicity as the Disturbing Factor	121
4.3	Features of Aspectual Composition	122
4.3.0	Introduction	122
4.3.1	Aspectual Features and Beyond	122
4.3.2	Doing Away with Features	126
4.4	Conclusion	128
5	Levels of Interaction between Aspect and Tense	131
5.0	Introduction	131
5.1	At the Bottom of a Predication	131
5.1.0	Introduction	131
5.1.1	Grounding a Verb Opposition	132
5.1.2	Type and Token	135
5.1.3	Function Format	137
5.2	Discretization and Bounding	140
5.2.0	Introduction	140
5.2.1	Intransitive Verbs Expressing Discretization	140
5.2.2	Discretization and Bounding by the Internal Argument of Transitive verbs	146
5.2.3	Wavering between d o su and su	150
5.2.4	The Role of the External Argument	154
5.3	A Formal Account from Lexical Bottom to $S_0$	156
5.3.0	Introduction	156
5.3.1	Syntax and Semantics of Noun Phrases	158
5.3.2	Discretization in Sentences with Transitive Verbs	159
5.3.3	Discretization in Sentences with Unaccusatives and Unergatives	164
5.4	Conclusion	166
6	Binary Tense Structure and Adverbial Modification	169
6.0	Introduction	169
6.1	On the Role of Det and NP in a Temporal Adverbial	170
6.2	Syntax and Semantics of Non-deictic Modification	173

xii Contents

6.2.0	Introduction	173
6.2.1	The Predominance of Tense over Temporal Modifiers	173
6.2.2	Temporal Modification as a Form of Bounding	175
6.2.3	Connecting a Temporal Modifier to Indices at Different Levels	179
6.2.4	Non-deictic Relational Adverbials	181
6.2.5	Modification below $S_0$	181
6.3	Frequency and Habituality	183
6.4	Syntax and Semantics of Deictic Modification	185
6.4.0	Introduction	185
6.4.1	Deictic Setting Adverbials	186
6.4.2	Deictic Relational Adverbials	188
6.4.3	A Structural Solution to the Present Perfect Puzzle	189
6.4.4	Comparing Solutions	195
6.5	Syntax and Semantics of Durational Adverbials	196
6.5.0	Introduction	196
6.5.1	Measuring below $S_0$	197
6.5.2	Computing the Length of Indices	199
6.5.3	Computing Length at Higher Levels	202
6.5.4	Further Escapes from the in/for -Test	205
6.6	Conclusion	209
7	How to Deal Binarily with ...?	211
7.0	Introduction	211
7.1	The Semantics of the Progressive Form	212
7.1.0	Introduction	212
7.1.1	Attempts to Resolve the Alleged Imperfective Paradox	212
7.1.2	A Binary and Compositional Analysis of the Progressive Form	215
7.2	Binary Indices, Compositionality and Slavic Aspect	221
7.2.0	Introduction	221
7.2.1	PF vs [+T] and IPF vs [-T]	222
7.2.2	Dividing PF and IPF between Three Levels	226
7.2.3	Temporal Definiteness and Indefiniteness	232
7.2.4	Lexical and Grammatical Aspect	235
7.3	The Position of the Aorist in a Binary System	235
7.3.0	Introduction	235
7.3.1	The French Passé Simple	237
7.3.2	The Imperfective and Perfective Aorist in Bulgarian	242

	Contents	xiii
7.3.3	Comparing Choices in Rich Tense Systems	246
7.3.4	The Aorist and the Third Binary Opposition	247
7.4	Conclusion	251
8	Tense, Mood and Aspect	253
8.0	Introduction	253
8.1	On the Nature of the Opposition between SYN and POST	257
8.1.0	Introduction	257
8.1.1	Existential Quantifiers and Modal Configurations	257
8.1.2	Indicative vs Subjunctive Mood?	263
8.2	Modality and Future: Linguistics or Philosophy?	266
8.2.0	Introduction	266
8.2.1	The Seabattle Tomorrow	266
8.2.2	Ockham or Peirce, Prior or Te Winkel?	269
8.2.3	Modal Base and Accessibility	273
8.2.4	Adapting the Connectives Introduced by SYN and POST	276
8.3	The Proof of the Modal Pudding . . .	279
8.4	Reaching the Top: Temporalization by PRES and PAST	287
8.5	Rounding Off	288
	Appendix	290
	Bibliography	301
	Author Index	321
	Subject Index	325