

Index

- accuracy, metric
 and aesthetic norms, 40
 and early mathematical geography, 51
 and early mensuration, 54–60, 64–65, 67, 72–81
 and interpretive legibility, 41
 and religious maps, 46n21
 and the experience of space, 89–93
 confirming, 35n121
 of early Chinese maps, 17
 of the Peutinger map, 12–13
 of Warring States maps, 85n13
- allies, 142n46
- Alpers, Svetlana, 11, 40, 60
- altars of soil, 94
 and management of local spiritual powers, 106, 122
 and political administration, 104–105
- Analects*
 and de, 118
 on appealing to spirits outside one's realm, 110, 111
- ancient Greek import of city boundaries, 133
 ritual significance of boundaries, 175–176 trips abroad, 169
 using maps, 75, 87
- Anderson, Benedict, 97, 180
- “animalistic” human cultures and cultural kinship, 143–144, 146n65
 and the monstrous wilds, 143–144, 175
 classified as animals, 176–178
- Antonine Itinerary, 11
- “barbarian culture”
 and resistance to the central state, 121, 123
 as cultural other, 134n26, 135, 140n42
- barriers and reputation, 101–102
 and sanctified space, 103–104
 as preventing movement, 83, 85
- barriers, European, 22
- Baudrillard, Jean, 53n54
- borderlands (frontiers) and soft sovereign power, 152–153, 154
 and the wilds, 174
 as culturally pliant, 181
 as defined administratively, 6 diplomatic crossing of, 163 entering/exiting, 149
 modern, 21
 premodern, 95–98
 Roman, 9–10
 trespassing, 145, 151
- boundaries
 ancient Greek ritual significance of, 175–176 ancient, definition of, 6, 9
 city, ancient Greek import of, 133
- Caesar, Julius
 and two-dimensional thinking, 10
- captives (lu 虜)
 and sovereign inclusion, 144–145
- Chao Cuo 晁錯, 130, 142–143
- chorography, 39, 58, 61–62, 67, 68, 87
- Chuci*, 32–33
- “climbing heights” poetry subgenre, 32
- Confucius, 46, 100, 111, 118–119
- de* 德 See “political charisma”
- Deng Ai 鄧艾 (d. 264 CE), 57
- Di Cosmo, Nicola
 and amoral politics, 99
 on the function of the early Chinese northern walls, 19–20
- diplomats and spirit mediums, 157–158
 and transgressive rhetorical action, 157, 158–159
 medieval European, 160n15

198 Index

- diplomats (cont.)
 prescribed duties and behavior of, 159–161
 range of duties of shi, 165–166
- distance
 measured in time, 50, 52–53
- distortion (of information, of maps), 76, 182 and insecure sources, 52, 82, 92, 157, 159
 and Kuang Heng episode, 77–81
 and Pei Xiu's critique, 54
 and perspective, 81
 and physical limitations of maps, 76n126
 and reading, 76, 77
 and shadowy memory, 42–43
 and the Mawangdui maps, 74
 and the Peutinger map, 12–13
 and physical limitations of early maps, 75
 and viewership, 92
- ditu*
 and knowledge about strategic obstructions, 15, 82–84, 90–91
 as earliest sub-class of conventional terrestrial representations, 49 conceptual operations around, 75
 Dorofeeva-Lichtmann, Vera, 49, 86, 111
duduan 獨斷, 104
 Dutch art (17th century)
 and maps, 66, 68
- Egypt, 5, 96–97
- Emperor Wen of Han (r. 180–157 BCE), 98
 and diplomatic interface with Xiongnu shanyu, 170–172
 on the Great Wall, 132
- enemy/rival (di 敵)
 defining importance for statehood, 141 defining the Xiongnu, 143n49
 import, as opposed to “fraternal” associations, 143
- entering (ru 入) boundaries, 148
 “invasive” entering (qinru 侵入), 150
 unsanctioned, 153
- Erligang, 5
- error (wu 誤), 80
- external (“outer”) realms
 and administrative/ritual treatment, 136–137
 as opposed to “inner,” 133–135, 139–140
- Fangmatan, 55–57, 64–65, 67
 Fangmatan diagrams/maps, 2
feng 封
 and marking of territory, 25
 and ritualized memorialization, 37, 110n59, 111
 and settlements, 27–28, 100–101
 and trees, 25, 44
Fengsu tongyi, 109, 175
 Foucault, Michel, 7, 24n77
 fraternal/familial relationships (qin 親) and boundaries, 137–139
 and ritual fealty, 143–144
- gaze
 and “stealing sight” (ku), 35–37
 surveying/surveillance, 33–35, 59–60, 68
- Geertz, Clifford, 98, 180
- Giddens, Anthony
 on military power, 96
 on premodern sovereign borders, 21–22
- Gongyang zhuan*, 114, 136
- Guanzi*, 104
 and spatial disposition of states, 130, 142–143
 on the function of walls, 133
- guests
 ritual status of, 166–167
 the “guest” realm, 167
- Han Anguo 韓安國 (?–127 BCE), 99
Hanfeizi, 118
Hanshi waizhuan, 146, 149, 159
Hanshu (History of the Former Han) and confusions of boundary definitions, 139
 and consultation of maps, 75
 and earliest marking of boundaries, 27
 and paring off territory for non-Chinese tribes, 152
 and regional resistance to imperial power, 123
 on licentious sacrifices and belief in shamans and ghosts, 109 on mapped landscape features, 83
 hard border/sovereignty, 19n56, 21, 23, 154 Harley, J. B. and D. Woodward on maps, 39
Hou Hanshu (History of the Later Han), 75, 122
 Hsing, I-tien, 56–57, 106, 154
 Hsu, Mei-ling, 54, 55, 68, 74
Huainanzi
 and imperial resistance to natural powers, 109
 on broken walls, 29n94
 on devalorization of spatio-cultural supremacy, 153

- on maps and hidden plans, 88–89
- on terrain and movement, 85
- Huang Ba 黃霸, 168
- Incan borders, 96
- Inuit mapping, 73–74
- invasion (qin 侵)
 - and “paring off” (xue 削), 151
 - and spatial disposition, 131, 147
 - invasive entering (qinru 侵入), 150
 - invasive thieving (qindao 侵盜), 150
 - versus “attacking” (fa 伐), 149
- Jacob, Christian
 - on error and social consensus, 75
 - on legibility of maps, 76n126
 - on map construction, 42
 - on maps being unnecessary, 87
 - on misreading of maps, 41
 - on Strabo’s emphasis on literary description, 50
 - on the lack of use of maps in ancient Greek sources, 75
- Jia Dan 賈耽 (729–805 CE), 59n73, 84
- Jia Yi 賈誼 (c. 200–168 BCE), 19, 115
- jie* 界, 23, 26n80, 28, 37, 79, 84, 148
- jing* 境. See “marches”
- Jing Ke 荊軻, 52, 87, 88, 159
- Jingxing 井陘
 - battle of, 90
- Kuang Heng 匡衡, 77–80
- landscape painting
 - aesthetic similarities with maps, 60–66, 68
 - and changing perspective, 51
 - defined, against maps, 43, 58, 60
 - “Levies of Yu”
 - and patterned spatial arrangements, 86
 - and Yu as warrior-god, 44n16
 - and zonal space, 134
 - map of area of, 54
- Lidai dili zhizhang tu* 歷代地理指掌圖, 76, 84
- Liji*
 - and “licentious” sacrifices, 109
 - and appearance of “strange things,” 174
 - and ritual treatment of guests, 168
 - and zonal conception of space, 100
- Liu An 劉安 (179–122 BCE), 83, 90–92, 117n90, 132, 143
- local knowledge, 92
- local spirits, 119n101
 - management of, 106, 107–110
 - permission to sacrifice to, 108, 110–111
- map, premodern
 - and stock representation, 64
 - as experience of multiple viewers, 62
 - dangers of possessing, 88n28
 - definitional ambiguity, 39
 - defunct, 76
 - efficiency of, 77
 - functional relationships in, 8
 - legibility of, 75–81
 - metrically irregular, measuring of, 73–75
 - provisional definition of, 8
 - relationship to viewer, 7
 - unreliability of information in, 50, 52n48, 55n58, 56n60
- marches (jing 境), 28, 149, 151, 164
- Mawangdui map
 - accuracy of, 55
 - as token of territory ruled, 15
 - inaccuracy of, 56n60
 - representational conventions in, 64, 67, 68
 - representing population locations, 57
- medieval Europe, 12, 39, 52n48, 53, 160n15
- meetings, at borders, 148
- memory (local), 24, 42, 68
- Mencius*, 118, 177
- monsters, 50n42
 - and parental function of the state, 121
- Mount Wutai 五臺山 map, 58, 68
- mountains
 - and the visual panorama, 30–31
 - as ritual boundaries, 30, 102, 106, 111, 122
- native cults
 - and boundary markers, 38
 - at mountains and rivers, 30
 - boundaries, transgressing of, 148
 - central authority neutralizing, 94, 107–114, 123
 - in Roman era, 14
 - recognizing imperial authority, 15
- nature
 - wild power of, 175–176
- Needham, Joseph
 - on Deng Ai’s surveys, 57
 - on Pei Xiu and mathematical cartography, 51, 54–55
 - on premodern maps, 49
 - on walls, 35
- neighbors
 - when culturally commensurate, 136–137
- nine tripods (cauldrons)
 - connecting de to territorial sovereignty, 119–120
- nonstate territory
 - as dangerous to the state, 161–162

200 Index

- Ottoman empire, 19n54, 179
- padding out
 of space (see also “tours”), 44–46, 86
- paring off territory, 102
 and contradicting ritual obligations, 141
 and defined administration, 151–152
 and inclusion in ritual sphere, 153
 Su Qin’s comment on, 137
- Pei Xiu 裴秀 (224–271 CE), 51, 52n51, 54, 83
- perspective, variable
 as analogue to traveler’s viewpoint, 46, 67–68
 in chorographic mapping, 62–63
 in early Chinese landscape painting and mapmaking, 51, 60 influence on conception of lived space, 11, 37
- Peutinger map, 12–13
- Pickles, John, 11, 55
- Plato, 42, 91n38
- political charisma (“virtue”) and territorial sovereignty, 94–95, 115–120
- Ptolemy
 and definition of chorography, 58
 and mathematical geography, 51, 87
- Renaissance Europe
 and privileging of vision, 60, 66
 map as “description,” 39, 53n53
- ritual
 markings of space in early China, 14
 peers, 125, 152
- rivers
 as ritual boundary, 103, 122, 148, 153
 as signifier of known, 30
- Rome
 and liminal frontiers, 9
 and local deities, 14
 and official gathering of mapping intelligence, 10
 and porous borders, 97n8
 frontier walls, 22
 on cultural integration, 140n42
 “Rongchengshi” 容成氏 manuscript, 28, 44n16
- Rundstrom, Robert, 73–74
- Sanshi pan* 散氏盤, 25–26
- Scott, James C., 1, 5, 121
- Shangjunshu* (Book of Lord Shang), 101, 118, 151
- Shangshu*
 and wang sacrifice, 114
 and zones, 134
- Shanhaijing*
 and detailing strange and unnatural beings, 121, 175
 and spiritualized itineraries, 111
- Shenzi*, 118
- shi* 使 (“diplomat”)
 associated with shi, 159n12
 range of duties, 165
- Shiji* (Records of the Grand Historian) and inspection of maps, 48n34, 75
 and legendary bronze cauldrons, 120
 and occluding nationalistic divides, 117
 and relocating altars of soil, 107
 and renaming places, 102n26
 and Xiongnu dividing land, 23
 Northern Dipper associated with inspection tours (xunshou), 45n18
 on she 社 altars, 94n1
 on Xiongnu managing Chinese diplomats, 169
 Xiongnu in “wild” realm, 168
- Shuihudi texts, 27, 154
- Shun 舜
 and powers of sacred mountains, 106
 and wang 望 sacrifice, 114
 being sent to the wilds, 162 inspection tours, 112
 not using shamanic invocations, 109
- Siam (Thailand), 8, 14, 40, 141
- Skumnos of Chios, 50–51
- Smith, Adam T., 6, 24
- sovereignty, early Chinese and multiple overlapping power structures, 154
 ritual, 8
 soft, 95
- spatial disposition (xing 形)
 and neighborly relations, 128–130
 and ritual sensibilities, 99
 definition of, 126–128
- spies
 and spatial dispositions, 145
- spirit invocators/mediums
 as diplomats, 157–158
- spiritual possession
 by unintegrated spirits, 175
- state
 definition of, 5
 “stealing sight” (kui 窺), 35–37
- Strabo (63 BCE – ca. 21 CE), 9, 50, 87, 92
- Su Qin 蘇秦, 105, 136, 140
- Suishu*, 57

- Sun Bin bingfa*, 105
Sunzi bingfa, 85, 86, 127n8
- Tang code, 31n101, 55n58
 territory, sovereign
 definition of, 6
 Thailand See “Siam”
 tours, of inspection (xunshou 巡守), 31n99, 106, 109, 111–112
 by Yu and Shun, 112. See also “pacing out”
 travel reports (as information), 52, 87, 182
 trees
 and borders, 26, 27, 44, 101
tu 圖 (“diagrams,” “maps”), 39–40, 43–53
 and tu-wen relationship, 58
 in military texts, 88
 linguistic analysis of term, 46–48
 official in charge of, 100
 optically interacting with, 75
 two-dimensional cartographic thinking, 10–11
- walls
 as cultural symbol, 131–133
 as knowledge platforms, 29, 32, 34
 Hadrian’s, 22
 in maps, 84
 prevailing view of their function, 18
- Wang Hui 王恢 (?–80 BCE), 99
wang 望 sacrifice, 113–114
 Whittaker, C. R., 10–11, 13, 22, 175
- Winichakul, Thongchai, 8, 40, 141
wu 誤 See “error”
- Xiao Wangzhi 蕭望之, 168
xing 形 See “spatial disposition”
- Xiongnu
 diplomatic protocols, 169
 Xiongnu shanyu
 and 51 BCE debate, 168
 and diplomatic interface with Emperor
 Wen, 170–172
- Xunzi*
 on diplomats’ behavior, 159
 on limitation on comprehension and senses, 36
 on territorial realms, 167
 on trespassing (qin 侵), 150
- Yee, Cordell, 59, 74, 90
Yijing, 108
- Yu Dingguo 于定國, 168
- Yu 禹
 and early Babylonian and Greek warrior gods, 44n16
 and ritual (re)organization of space,
 111–113, 122
 Pace of, 45n18, 46n20
 separating lands, 44
- Yuejueshu*, 113, 122
- Yuezhi 月氏, 100, 170–171
- Zhang Yi 張儀, 89, 138–139
- Zhangjiashan texts
 and diplomatic regulations, 19n56, 163
- Zhanguoce*, 49, 101
 and altars of soil, 105, 107
 and obligations owed to neighbors, 136
 and raids, 150
 and spatial disposition of states, 89, 129, 134, 136–139
- Zhongshan 中山 map, 72–73
- Zhouli*
 and local spirits, 113
 and ritual treatment of envoys, 168
 and zonal conception of space, 100
- Zijia Yibo 子家懿伯, 140–141
- Zong Bing 宗炳 (375–443 CE)
 and first extant treatise on landscape painting, 64
- Zuozhuan*
 and altars of soil, 104
 and casting “monstrous” beings in nine bronze tripods, 120, 172–174
 and crossing borders, 149, 163
 and de, sanctioned sovereign control, 95, 116, 119–120, 174
 and wang sacrifice, 114
 on animals, 177