Contents

List of Contributors  ix
Acknowledgments xi

Introduction: Still Fighting the Power  1
Frank Rudy Cooper and Gregory S. Parks

PART I  POLICING

1 From “Fuck tha Police” to Defund the Police: A Polemic, with Elements of Pragmatism and Accommodation, Hopefully Not Fatal, As Black People Hope About Encounters with the Police  21
Paul Butler

2 Hip-Hop and Traffic Stops  38
Henry L. Chambers, Jr.

3 “Black Cop”: It’s a Blue Thing (or Is It?)  55
Kami Chavis

4 “Illegal Search”: Race, Personhood, and Policing  75
Roger A. Fairfax, Jr.

5 “Cops Shot the Kid”: Police Brutality, Mass Incarceration, and the Reasonableness Doctrine in Criminal Law  101
Kristin Henning

PART II  IMPRISONMENT

6 “Trauma”  127
andre´douglas pond cummings
Contents

PART III GENDERS

7 Public Enemy’s “Black Steel in the Hour of Chaos”
Gregory S. Parks

8 Roxanne Shante’s “Independent Woman”: Making Space for Women in Hip-Hop
Lolita Buckner Inniss

9 From the 1930s to the 2020s: What Ice Cube’s Song “Endangered Species” Meant for Four Generations of Black Males
Robert Pervine, Kevin Brown, Charles Westerhaus, and Kynton Grays

10 The Master’s Tools Will Not Dismantle the Master’s House: Hip-Hop, Young M.A., and Gender Norms
Zoe Smith-Holladay and Catherine Smith

PART IV PROTESTS

11 “Black Rage” and the Architecture of Racial Oppression
Deborah N. Archer

12 Abolition as Reparations: “This Is America” and the Anatomy of a Modern Protest Anthem
Brie McLemore and Margaret Eby

13 “The Message”: Resisting Cultures of Poverty in Urban America
Etienne C. Toussaint

14 Just to “Get By”: Poverty, Racism, and Smoking through the Lens of Talib Kweli and Nina Simone’s Music
Ruqaiijah Yearby

Index

© in this web service Cambridge University Press
www.cambridge.org