INDEX OF FIRST WORDS OF PASSAGES

N.B. The numbers refer to the passages, not to the pages.

- A dense cloud of pestilential smoke, 44
- A great bell had begun to ring, 92
- A rope tautened, 107
- A Saturday afternoon in November, 4
- After this it was noised abroad, 77
- Alas! to us who know not La Dumesnil, 169
- Almost precisely midway between Monmouth, 56
- Already the southern slopes of London, 2
- An irresistible impulse, 175
- 'And whatever's this I can see?' 200
- 'Are ye stepping west?' 157
- As he descended the confronting heights, 95
- As my stay at Buriton, 131
- As often as I survey my bookshelves, 174
- As the day drew on and nobody, 87
- As we lived near the road, 130
- Assuredly, by far the most tremendous stage entry, 104
- At last I saw a nice old man, 144
- At the great gate his horse stopped, 79
- At the side of the room, 82

- Besides a millionaire's fortune, 141
- Besides the diplomats, 171
- Between me and the sunset, like a dome, p. 262
- Brave enough for every useful and political purpose, 124
- But the comparative study of belief, 180
- By a stroke of fortune for the conservative cause, 118

- Changed times, indeed, when, 188
- Church Island lies in a bay, 36
- Colbert himself, 112

- Do not suppose, however, 69
- Down in the palace John Knox, 115

- Every traveller who has gone, 47
- 'Explosive clocks', said Herr Winckelkopf, 150

- Fine old Christmas, 59
- For, indeed, a change was coming upon the world, 109
- Four stalwart neighbours, 63

Gibbon's style is detestable, 172

Gilles is standing, 66

He had abroun hayre, 65

He had always liked the mosque, 58

He is a King every inch of him, 67

He left home at sixteen, 138

He threw a casement open, 91

He tried to think, but the river, p. 272

He was sounding her, semi-consciously, 158

Head and centre of our system, p. 270

Heaven opened then, p. 256

Herr Winckelkopf shrugged his shoulders, 151

How happy were it for their frail, p. 276

How true it is that in order to know a place, 57

Hundreds of thousands, possibly millions, 176

I am poor brother Lippo, by your leave, p. 280

I believe, if anyone, early in his life, 167

I call to mind a winter landscape, 28

I have frequently been puzzled, 173

I have often been astonished, 182

I have seen the walls of Balclutha, 181

I hope the two ladies from the country, 191

I know that entertainments of this nature, 179

I learned to speak from my family, 136

I looked at the carabinieri, 98

I love to read tales about rats, 100

I must not close my letter, 1

I must not let that name go by, 142

I remember reading a story, 96

I trust that the first news, 78

'I want to give myself up', 152

If, in our moments of utter idleness, 185

In a few minutes tea was brought, p. 284

In lowly dale, fast by a river's side, p. 266

In one place, for example, 140

In returning from a cruise, 16

In such manner did life pass by, 52

In the city of Oxford, 117

In the Gaelic tongue, Glencoe, 51

In the gardens the birds, 13

In the middle of the wood, 39

In the olden days of travelling, 48

Into no other city does the sight of the country, p. 288

It is almost a definition of a gentleman, 196

It is in death that Villon finds, 162

It is perhaps a weakness of British Cabinets, 122

It is to far happier, far higher exaltation, 184

It seemed as if nothing moved, 22

It seems to me not to have been without a peculiar significance, 186

INDEX OF FIRST WORDS

It was one hour after midnight, 9

It was upon the evening of a sultry summer's day, 85

It would be idle to pretend that Byron, 133

'I've given these Boutwoods notice', 154

Just by the red-roofed town, 30

Leaving the inn, the chattering crowd, 8

Let us consider, too, 160

Lewis Alison, a dark craggy man, 76

Like all true sportsmen, 98

Meantime the three children, 153

Memory is a musician, 54

Milton was, like Dante, 129

'Mind yer nut', said Trotter, 61

Miss Stiles, who came in, 135

Mr Slope is tall, 72

Mrs Touchett was certainly, 134

Nations should be willing, 123

Nicholas was prepared for something odd, p. 264

No contrast can be more painful, 42

'No, dear father!' Maggie burst out, 148

Nothing is wilder than the long stretch, 15

Of all situations for a constant residence, 190

Oh! but he was a tight-fisted hand, 71

Old gentlemen in clubs, 26

On deck, to Oliver's eyes, 19

On the 1st of September, 84

On the other side of the valley, 38

On the whole, she was English, 126

On this particular Sunday, 24

Once every people in the world, p. 80

Once on the island, Amyas, 20

Once upon a time—of all the good days, 43

One inevitable result of war, 198

One shower I remember, 11

One while he appeared much concerned, 165

Outside the church door, 64

Parkins found that the picture, 106

Shakespeare wrote at a time when, 163

She died on the 22nd of May 1776, 80

She had the mouth that smiles, 70

So with the house empty, 194

Some years ago I arrived at the Gare St Lazare, 105

Soon after sunrise, 146

Suddenly Mrs Otis, 149

INDEX OF FIRST WORDS

The vast edifice, 111

The windows of my study, 53

Then ensued a scene of woe, 116

There comes a gentlemanly figure, 75

There is no humour in my countrymen, 166

There is no such journey in the world, 29

There was blue sky above the Castle, 23

There were beds to be had, 85

There were many good talkers, 178

These elders, our betters, 187

These Marquesas, 21

They passed by Lancaster, 62

Through the heavy door, 55

Thus, the most startling fault of the age, 132

To men of letters who could, 168

Tom had not heard anything from home, 147

Twelve hours later, 45

Vere had been a thorn in her mother's side, 156

Victor and vanquished alike, 199

Villon was probably not followed, 125

Virgil's poetry is intended, 164

We could not sufficiently congratulate each other, 86

We did not think it possible to see the lake, 87

What then is the charm, 170

When I woke the next morning, 83

When the mosque, long and domeless, 155

When wayfaring in France, 197

Wherever an English stage-coachman, 73

Wherever two Englishmen are speaking French, 177

While the men and the lads, 40

Who does not know Turner's picture? 49

'Why, what a nice little lady you are!' p. 284

With every step upward, 6

Worthy Miss Pinkerton, 97

You find him nearly all over Australia, 74

You tell me that money cannot buy, 189

Your Cromwell, what good could it do him? 128
