

Boundaries of Belonging

The 1947 Partition had a major impact on issues of citizenship and rights in India and Pakistan in the decades that followed. Boundaries of Belonging shows how citizenship evolved at a time of political transition and what this meant for ordinary people, by directing attention away from South Asia's Partition 'hot spots' – Bengal and the Punjab – to Partition 'hinterlands' of Uttar Pradesh and Sindh. The analysis, based on rich archival research and fieldwork, brings out commonalities, differences and the mutual co-construction of the 'citizen' in both places. It also reveals the way in which developments across the border, such as communal violence, could directly have an impact on minority rights in the neighbouring country. Questioning stereotypes of an 'authoritarian' Pakistan versus a 'democratic' India, Sarah Ansari and William Gould make a major contribution to recent scholarship that suggests the differences between India and Pakistan are overstated.

SARAH ANSARI is Professor of History at Royal Holloway, University of London.

WILLIAM GOULD is Professor of Indian History at the University of Leeds.

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-316-64717-2 — Boundaries of Belonging
Sarah Ansari , William Gould
Frontmatter
More Information

Boundaries of Belonging

Localities, Citizenship and Rights in India and Pakistan

Sarah Ansari

Royal Holloway, University of London

William Gould

University of Leeds

CAMBRIDGE
UNIVERSITY PRESS

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
 978-1-316-64717-2 — Boundaries of Belonging
 Sarah Ansari, William Gould
 Frontmatter
More Information

CAMBRIDGE UNIVERSITY PRESS

University Printing House, Cambridge CB2 8BS, United Kingdom
 One Liberty Plaza, 20th Floor, New York, NY 10006, USA
 477 Williamstown Road, Port Melbourne, VIC 3207, Australia
 314-321, 3rd Floor, Plot 3, Splendor Forum, Jasola District Centre, New Delhi - 110025, India
 103 Penang Road, #05-06/07, Visioncrest Commercial, Singapore 238467

Cambridge University Press is part of the University of Cambridge.

It furthers the University's mission by disseminating knowledge in the pursuit of education, learning and research at the highest international levels of excellence.

www.cambridge.org

Information on this title: www.cambridge.org/9781316647172

DOI: 10.1017/9781108164511

© Sarah Ansari and William Gould 2020

This publication is in copyright. Subject to statutory exception and to the provisions of relevant collective licensing agreements, no reproduction of any part may take place without the written permission of Cambridge University Press.

First published 2020

First paperback edition 2022

A catalogue record for this publication is available from the British Library

Library of Congress Cataloging in Publication data

Names: Ansari, Sarah F. D., author. | Gould, William, 1973- author.

Title: Boundaries of belonging : localities, citizenship and rights in India and Pakistan / Sarah Ansari, William Gould.

Description: Cambridge, United Kingdom ; New York, NY : Cambridge University Press, 2020. | Includes bibliographical references and index. | Summary: "The 1947 Partition had a major impact on issues of citizenship and rights in India and Pakistan in the decades that followed"– Provided by publisher.

Identifiers: LCCN 2019010785 | ISBN 9781107196056 (hardcopy : alk. paper) | ISBN 9781316647172 (pbk. : alk. paper)

Subjects: LCSH: Citizenship–India. | Citizenship–Pakistan. | Civil rights–India. | Civil rights–Pakistan. | India–History–Partition, 1947. | India–Boundaries–Pakistan. | Pakistan–Boundaries–India. | India–History–1947– | Pakistan–History–20th century.

Classification: LCC DS480.842 .A57 2019 | DDC 323.60954/09045–dc23
 LC record available at <https://lcn.loc.gov/2019010785>

ISBN 978-1-107-19605-6 Hardback

ISBN 978-1-316-64717-2 Paperback

Cambridge University Press has no responsibility for the persistence or accuracy of URLs for external or third-party internet websites referred to in this publication, and does not guarantee that any content on such websites is, or will remain, accurate or appropriate.

They had left their cities but they carried their cities with them, as a trust, on their shoulders. That's how it usually is. Even when cities are left behind, they don't stay behind. They seize on you even more. Intizar Hussain, Basti (1979), chapter 5

We are surrounded by places. We walk over and through them. We live in places, relate to others in them, die in them. Nothing we do is unplaced. How could it be otherwise? Edward S. Casey, The Fate of Place: A Philosophical History (1997), p. ix

Contents

List of Figures	page ix
Acknowledgements	x
List of Abbreviations	xii
Maps	xiv
Introduction	1
1 ‘Performing the State’ in Post-1947 India and Pakistan	23
Personifying the Postcolonial State	26
Projecting the New State	42
Conclusion	64
2 People on the Move: Refugees and Minorities in Uttar Pradesh and Sindh	67
Refugee Rehabilitation and the Predicament of Minorities	71
Representing Refugees/Demonizing Minorities	86
Marking Evacuees: Property and Its Control between India and Pakistan	92
Conclusion	101
3 Citizens and the City: From People on the Move to the Movement of Goods	103
Politics of Price Controls and Rationing	106
Corruption and Anti-corruption	122
Conclusion	133
4 New Constitutions, New Citizens	135
‘New Constitutions’	138
‘New Citizens’	156
Conclusion	178
5 Women and Differentiated Citizenship in Postcolonial South Asia	181
Colonial Developments	182
Post-1947 India	191
Post-1947 Pakistan	202
Conclusion	220
	vii

Cambridge University Press & Assessment
978-1-316-64717-2 — Boundaries of Belonging
Sarah Ansari , William Gould
Frontmatter
More Information

viii	Contents
6	‘Hidden Citizens’ in 1940s and 1950s India and Pakistan	223
	Religious Minorities in Sindh and UP	224
	Dalit, Tribal and Hari Rights	239
	Conclusion	257
	Epilogue and Conclusion	259
	Glossary	289
	Bibliography	293
	Index	308

Figures

1.1 Indian leaders carry the ashes of Mohandas K. Gandhi, Allahabad, 19 February 1948	page 29
1.2 People watching Mohandas K. Gandhi's funeral, Delhi, 31 January 1948	31
1.3 A view of M. A. Jinnah's funeral, Karachi, 12 September 1948	36
1.4 Muslim League National Guards with the Pakistani flag, Karachi, December 1947	45
1.5 A five-rupee currency note presented to M. A. Jinnah by the Ministry of Finance, 1 April 1948. Issued by the Reserve Bank of India, the note, stamped with Government of Pakistan (Hukumat-i Pakistan), operated as legal tender in the new state	46
1.6 Govind Ballabh Pant, first premier/chief minister of UP	48
3.1 Non-Muslim refugees leaving Karachi by sea, December 1947	104
3.2 Cartoon capturing the austerity policies of the Pakistan authorities in the early 1950s. Placard slogan reads 'AUSTERITY PARADE', while the sash on the marcher taking the salute reads: 'THE PAKISTANI CONSUMERS', Dawn (Karachi), 14 August 1952	111
3.3 Rationing notice (Dawn , Karachi), 1949	112
4.1 Indian leaders in the Constituent Assembly, Council House Library, New Delhi, 1947	139
4.2 Parliamentary elections, Delhi, January 1952	158
4.3 A queue of voters, India, January 1952	158
4.4 Local elections, Pakistan, December 1959	166
5.1 Meeting of the All-India Women's Conference, December 1947	194
5.2 Fatima Jinnah (C-back row, silver-haired, clad in white), sister of M. A. Jinnah, surrounded by women making clothes for refugees, Governor House, Karachi, December 1947	203

Acknowledgements

Writing a co-authored monograph that is not a chapter-by-chapter separation of India and Pakistan, but rather one which seeks to tie each state/place to the other throughout requires a particular kind of understanding between the authors. We feel that this book could not have been possible without a sense of mutual cooperation, assisted by the (sometimes excessively) easy-going nature of each writer. More importantly, it was also made possible by our long-term collaborations with a range of supporters and colleagues, and to them we extend our grateful collaborative thanks.

At an institutional level, the School of History, University of Leeds, and the History Department at Royal Holloway, University of London, have provided phases of research leave which have allowed us to finish off much of the research and writing required for this book. But, more broadly, the conceptual challenges of simultaneously writing about both places were only sustained in the long term by a large-scale research project grant provided by the Arts and Humanities Research Council (AHRC) between 2007 and 2010. Boundaries of Belonging is the ultimate long-term outcome of that project, entitled ‘From Subjects to Citizens: Society and the Everyday State in India and Pakistan’, which has spawned a whole range of other collaborations, networks and projects that have occupied us since then.

Much of the research material in this book was the product of long-term archival research stretching back over a decade and covering a number of different cities. We would like to thank the Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi; the National Archives, New Delhi; the Uttar Pradesh State Archives, Lucknow; the Maharashtra State Archives, Mumbai; the Sindh Archives, Karachi; the Pakistan Institute of International Affairs, Karachi; the Institute of Sindiology, Jamshoro; the National Archives of Pakistan, Islamabad; the US National Archives at College Park, Maryland; the Asia Pacific Room of the British Library, London, which houses the India Office collections; the Centre of South Asian Studies, Cambridge; the Brotherton Library, University of Leeds; and the Emily Wilding Davison Library at Royal Holloway. We are also grateful for a small grant from the late Miss Isobel Thornley’s Bequest to the University of London, which covered the cost of certain images included in our book.

Over the course of our joint enterprise, we have also depended upon the advice, support and friendship of a wide range of colleagues, mostly fellow historians but not only those limited to that discipline. For their assistance and advice on materials relating to our two chosen ‘case studies’ and also for listening to early drafts of chapters as presentations, we thank (in strict alphabetical order!) Sana Aiyar, Edward Anderson, Crispin Bates, Anjali Bhardwaj-Datta, Paul Brass, Stuart Carroll, Joya Chatterji, Cathy Coombs, Markus Daechsel, Santosh Dass, Antara Datta, Ayona Datta, Rohit De, Faizal Devji, Sarah Gandee, Jesus Garza-Chairez, Anindita Ghosh, Oliver Godsmark, Kevin Greenbank, Dan Haines, Tariq Jazeel, Justin Jones, Yasmin Khan, Elizabeth Leake, Stephen Legg, Eleanor Newbiggin, Rosalind O’Hanlon, Steven Pierce, Ali Usman Qasmi, Pallavi Raghovan, Francis Robinson, Jonathan Saha, Udit Sen, Farzana Shaikh, Ornit Shani, Taylor Sherman, Tom Simpson, Gurharpal Singh, Ian Talbot, Shabnum Tejani, Layli Uddin, Pippa Virdee, David Washbrook, Phil Withington, Andrew Wyatt, Vazira Zamindar and the organizers of the British Association of South Asian Studies in Cambridge, April 2016. For assistance in India, we would especially like to thank Ekta Gautam, Dakxin Chhara, Sunil Sonwane, Sandeep Pandey, Mudit Shukla, Mani Shankar Aiyar, Ram Advani, Patrick French and Shakti Sinha. Across the border in Pakistan, the same debt of gratitude goes to Sana Ansari, Aabida Ali, Lata Parwani, Nausheen Ahmad and Rafiq Safi Munshey, Babar Ayaz and Samia Khan, Masuma Hasan, Karamat Ali, Ghulam Muhammad Lakho and Gul Muhammad Umrani.

Throughout, a range of professional and personal friendships have similarly helped to keep our joint enterprise afloat. For their good humour, intellectual debate around the book’s themes and general encouragement, colleagues at Leeds and Royal Holloway not already mentioned would include Nir Arieli, Simon Ball, Manuel Barcia, Malcolm Chase, Kate Dossett, Shane Doyle, Simon Hall, James Harris, Will Jackson, Laura King, Graham Loud, Andrew Lunt, Andrea Major, and Michelle Ridge (at Leeds) and Evrim Binbas, Jason Brock, Justin Champion, Chi-Kwan Mark, Stella Moss, Penelope Mullens and Weipin Tsai, together with the many visiting academics from Pakistan who have spent time at Royal Holloway over recent years. Closer to home, a number of important friends and family members have provided moral support and/or feedback on the book, including Olivia Gould, Richard and Elizabeth Gould, Radu and Elena Harasemiuc, Alexandru Harasemiuc, Liz Gilston, Tariq Sadiq, Rajesh Jha, Irna Qureshi, Steve and Esther Cooper, Humayun, Akbar and Zafar, Rowan and Charlotte, Nasreen and Nayyar, Zufah and Zulkarnain, along with the rest of the extended Ansari-Girling-Machover-Waweru ‘clan’.

Abbreviations

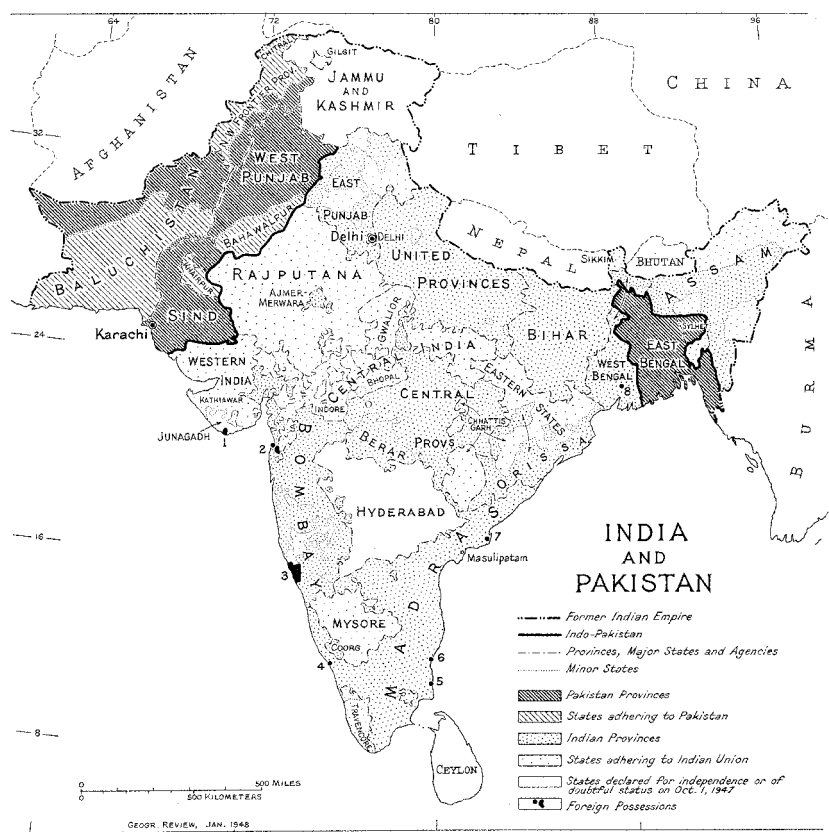

AICC	All-India Congress Committee, India
AIWC	All-India Women's Conference
APWA	All-Pakistan Women's Association
BC	Backward Classes
BL	British Library
DSO	District Supply Officer
FCO	Foreign and Commonwealth Office
GAD	General Administration Department
GCW	Gandhi's Collected Works
IAS	Indian Administrative Service
IOR	India Office Records, British Library, London
IPS	Indian Police Service
MEA	Ministry of External Affairs, India
MHA	Ministry of Home Affairs, India
NAI	National Archives of India, New Delhi
NDC	Ministry of Interior, Pakistan, Home Division National Documentation Centre
NMML	Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi
NWFP	North-West Frontier Province
PHWA	Pakistan Hindu Welfare Association
PILER	Pakistan Institute of Labour Education and Research
PPP	Pakistan People's Party
PRODA	Public and Representatives Offices (Disqualification) Act
PSPE	Pakistan Special Police Establishment
PWD	Public Works Department
PWNG	Pakistan Women's National Guard
PWNR	Pakistan Women's Naval Reserve
PWVS	Pakistan Women's Volunteer Service
RSS	Rashtriya Swayamsevak Sangh
SC	Scheduled Caste
SCBA	Supreme Court Bar Association
SCF	Scheduled Castes Federation
SLRM	Sindh Land Reform Movement
SPE	Special Police Establishment (India)

List of Abbreviations

xiii

ST	Scheduled Tribe
SWJN	Selected Works of Jawaharlal Nehru
TRO	Town Rationing Officer
UKHC	United Kingdom High Commission, Pakistan
UKNA	United Kingdom National Archives, Kew, London
UNO	United Nations Organization
UP	Uttar Pradesh (formerly the United Provinces)
UPSA	Uttar Pradesh State Archives, Lucknow
USNA	United States National Archives
VJSS	Vimukt Jati Sevak Sangh
WAF	Women’s Action Forum
WIA	Women’s Indian Association
WPB	Women’s Protection Bill

Maps

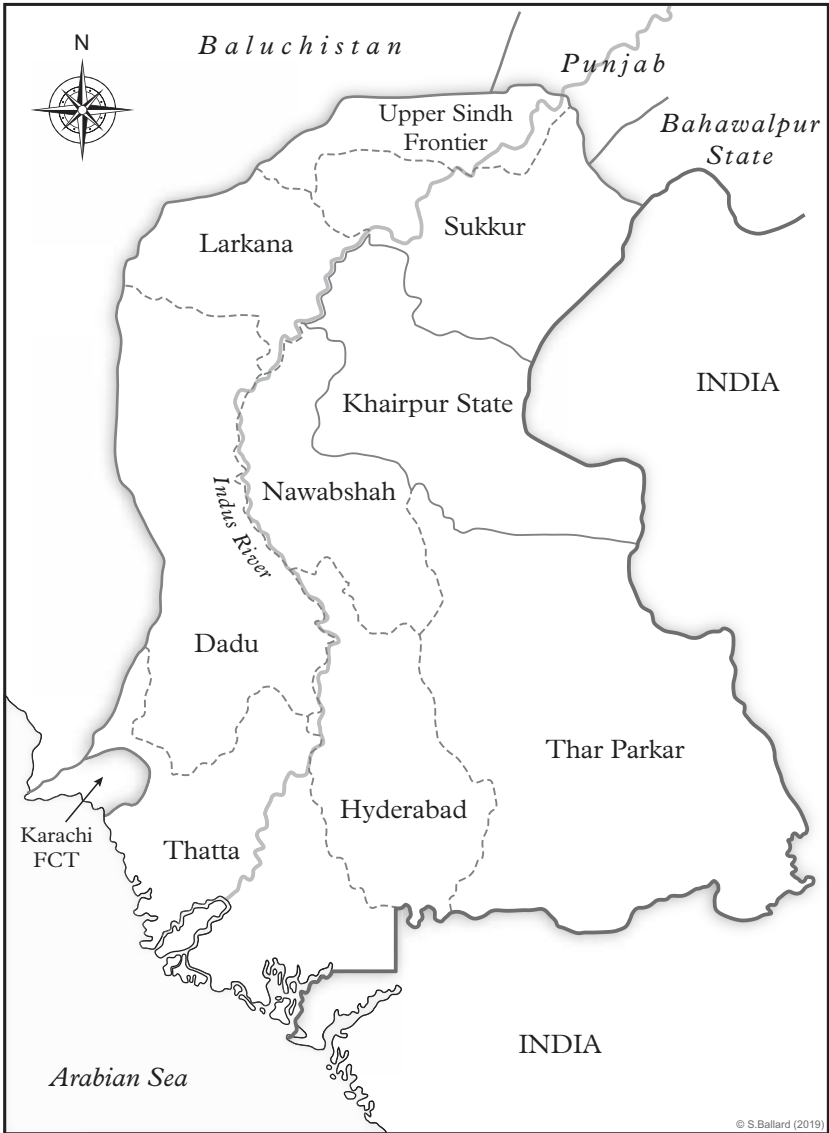

Territorial structure of India and Pakistan. Boundaries: 1, Former Indian Empire; 2, Indo-Pakistan; 3, Provinces, Major States and Agencies; 4, Minor State; 5, Pakistan Provinces; 6, States adhering to Pakistan; 7, Indian Provinces; 8, States adhering to Indian Union; 9, States declared for independence or of doubtful status on October 1, 1947; 10, Foreign Possessions: 1, Diu, 2, Damão, 3, Goa (Portuguese); 4, Mahé, 5, Karikal, 6, Pondichéri, 7, Yanam, 8, Chandernagor (French).

Map 1 Map of India and Pakistan

Map 2 Map of Uttar Pradesh (formerly the United Provinces)

Map 3 Map of Sindh